RELIEF SEEN AS CRUTCH

Teague Talks on Farm Bill

Calfern's Board Member on Eve of Departure Warns Against Let-Down

Agricultural Aid Temporary Measure to Put Industry on Own Feet

BY LAWRENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Representative

SANTA PAULA, July 7. (Exclusive)—The country should not expect too much from the Federal Farm Relief Act and should look upon it simply as emergency legislation temporarily helping agriculture over the rough spots while the problems of the industry are being worked out fundamentally on a basis not requiring continued financial assistance from the government.

C. C. TEAGUE

This is the opinion of C. C. Teague, head of the California fruit and walnut growers' organizations, who has just accepted, after repeatedly declining it, a place on the board which will administer the $500,000,000 revolving fund appropriated by Congress.

OFF WEDNESDAY

Mr. Teague will leave for Washington Wednesday to take up his duties under no delusions as to just what the Farm Board will be able to do toward solving the agricultural problem. His idea is that the act recently passed by Congress after many years of controversy and deadlock will do "some good" if properly handled, but that the opportunity for real achievement by the board lies along the line of finding a sound plan for permanent farm relief, rather than anything it may do in connection with the immediate problem.

In an interview at his home here last night California's outstanding co-operative marketing expert warned that the Federal Farm Act with its machinery for controlling crop surpluses should not be considered a panacea that will cure all the ills of agriculture. On the contrary, he said, there should be a fear that with the huge Federal fund it has established, it will so stimulate production as to bring on fresh surpluses, which will make the farm problem worse than ever.

TEAGUE'S VIEWS

Mr. Teague himself, however, does not regard the Federal Farm Board as establishing a permanent policy. He does not expect that Uncle Sam will make a business of advancing farm money. "Of course," he said, "the problem ultimately must be solved by the country adjusting its production to the consumption demand." He has his own ideas as to how this can be done and says it will be a "long-time job, involving much study and experimentation."

Mr. Teague's critical outlook on the farm relief was well

Berenger - Mellon Accord Protest Made In Name of Dead

PARIS, July 7. (AP)—Frustrated in their attempt to overthrow Premier Poincare in Parliament on Friday, opponents of the Mellon-Berenger war debt accord who were victorious by a slight margin in the finance and foreign affairs committees, today continued their propaganda against ratification without a safeguard clause.

They have put organizations of war veterans to the front in the political battle just as military leaders did in wartime.

VETERANS IN DEMONSTRATION

A general meeting of the Croix De Feu (Cross of Fire) associations today adopted an order of the day pledging themselves to combat ratification of the Mellon-Berenger accord unless it carries a specific safeguard clause that France is not to pay the United States until she has been paid herself by Germany.

The veterans at the conclusion of their meeting staged a manifestation which they described as "intended to obliterate any character of ingratitude toward American war veterans from our declaration."

The French veterans marched to the monument to American soldiers at the Place Des Etats-Unis and placed there a wreath inscribed "Glorious American soldiers fallen on the soil of France. 'You did not die for that.'" It was explained that the word "that" referred to the Mellon-Berenger accord.

POINCARE BACKED

Meanwhile, the government stood solidly behind Premier Poincare on his decision that ratification must be voted without reservations in the text of the bill. The Cabinet will stand or fall upon unreserved ratification.

Several members of the Cabinet advocate a method by which the bill would be one of international policy in character, providing that all payments to be made to the United States on the Mellon-Berenger settlement must be taken from receipts in the French budget growing out of reparations payments under the Young plan.

The government insists that the text of the bill ratifying the settlement must be unequivocal. Such reservations as the Chamber of Deputies desires to make must form another and separate resolution or bill. In this the government is at variance with the finance and foreign affairs committees which wish to make the reservations part of the text of the ratification itself.

JOHN D., AT NINETIETH MILESTONE

Rockefeller Feels Fine and Bears "Good Will for Everybody," He Says

TARRYTOWN (N. Y.) July 7. (Exclusive)—On the eve of his ninetieth birthday John D. Rockefeller passed a quiet Sunday on his beautiful Pocantico Hills estate.

His evident intent to attend church services was frustrated by the assembly of a group of newspaper reporters and photographers at Union Chapel. Several times the Rockefeller chauffeur drove past the church, but Rockefeller did not alight.

Barron Collier, who saw Rockefeller last night, said he found him in excellent health. The aged man's health was remarked in a birthday statement, which he issued today.

"I have every reason to be grateful on my ninetieth birthday. Everybody has been so kind and good to me all the year," he said. "With perfect health and full of hope and cheer for the future I have nothing but kindness and good will for everybody."

Terrific Snowstorm Near Summit Proves Fatal to Amateur Alpinists

CHAMONIX - MONT BLANC (France) July 7. (AP)—Caught in a terrific hurricane and blinding snowstorm within a few steps of the very top of Mont Blanc at an altitude of 15,000 feet, Capt. Emile Jarrier of the French army and Maurice Pontin, an architect, were frozen to death last night.

Both men died in the arms of George Couttet, an Alpine guide, who, disheveled and still terror-stricken, reached a village this morning and sent out a call for rescue parties to recover the bodies. Couttet said the amateur Alpinists grew tired and their lungs were unable to withstand the violence of the gale which at times threatened to blow the party clear off the mountain.

They stretched themselves flat on the snow and soon expired. Capt. Jarrier was on leave from his post with the French army of occupation in the Rhineland.

Prepares to Leave Paris for Meeting With Michael In Jugo-Slavia

PARIS, July 7. (AP)—Former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania, overjoyed at the prospect of kissing his young son, King Michael, again today prepared to depart for Jugo-Slavia where the Queen Mother Helen, from whom Carol has been separated for three years, is awaiting him with the boy King.

Carol's mother, Dowager Queen Marie, also is a guest of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia in the royal summer palace at Oled.

Friends of Carol here express little hope that he will be reconciled with the Queen Mother Helen.

Quake of Long Duration Noted at Santa Clara

SAN JOSE, July 7. (AP)—A recurrence of the recent seismic upheavals in the South Pacific Ocean was evidenced today on the horizontal seismograph at the Ricard Memorial Observatory, according to a report from the University of Santa Clara.

The record began at 1:20:54 p.m. today, ending in a sinuous line that lasted until 4:09 o'clock.

Computations at the observatory placed the seat of the quake at about 3000 miles in a westerly direction, somewhat south.

NEW ORLEANS, July 7. (AP)—An earthquake, beginning at 3:34 p.m., central standard time, and reaching its maximum intensity at 5:05 p.m., was recorded today on the seismograph of Loyola University here.

Father H. C. Abel estimated the quake occurred 5100 miles away.

Ball Park Panic Results in Injury of 103 Persons

DETROIT, July 7. (AP)—One hundred and three persons, mainly negroes, were injured, four seriously, in a panic that followed a fire under the main grand stand at Mack Park, semipro baseball field, this afternoon.

A quantity of gasoline stored under the stand became ignited when a match or lighted cigar was dropped down and the panic followed a cry of "fire." The stand was destroyed.

Gasoline had been sprinkled on the diamond and ignited in an effort to dry out the field for a game between Detroit and Kansas City negro teams.

ONE DEAD AS SUN LAUGHS AT NEW YORK

Four Prostrated in Heat; Thousands Go to Beaches, Causing Traffic Jams

NEW YORK, July 7. (Exclusive) One death from heat was reported today as the thermometer slowly mounted to a maximum of 92 deg. at 3:30 p.m. Four persons were prostrated. A record of twenty-nine years' standing also was broken, the previous high for this date being 90 deg. on July 7, 1900.

Hundreds of thousands of persons flocked to the beaches and resorts about New York today to escape the heat, bringing the Sunday crowd up to almost unprecedented numbers. Traffic jams along the routes to the sea were almost inextricable.

Almost every policeman on the Jersey City force was called out tonight to handle the traffic congestion caused by the crowds returning to New York in automobiles from points along the New Jersey shore.

All day the board walk and the amusement parks at Rockaway Beach were jammed. Restaurants, facing an unexpected demand for service, ran short of supplies and had to close before dark. Swimmers lined up by the hundreds on the beach front, waiting to hire bath houses.

More than 500,000 persons visited the Rockaways and the crowd at Coney Island was estimated at 1,000,000. Many planned to spend the night on the beaches. Police women used there for the first time this year combed Coney Island for lost children and gathered in 260, holding them at the police station for distribution to their parents. Showers are expected to bring relief tomorrow.

SHIPS CRASH IN OCEAN

Steamer Hit by Cutter in Fog

Total of 249 Passengers Transferred Twice at Sea in Rescue

Both Damaged Ships Limp Into Port Without Any Casualties

BOSTON, July 7. (AP)—The Boston-bound coastal steamer, Prince George, carrying 249 passengers, was in collision with the Coast Guard cutter Agassiz in a dense fog sixty-five miles east of Boston Light, early today. The passengers, none of whom was injured, were transferred without disorder to the Agassiz and some time later to the Coast Guard cutter Mojave which landed them in Boston this afternoon.

The Prince George, although her hold was full of water, proceeded slowly toward Boston after the accident, running under her own power.

SHIPS STAND BY

The Coast Guard destroyer Wainwright and the cutter Tuscarora stood by during the trip to lend aid should she need it. Capt. Adelbert MacKinnon, a veteran of the Boston and Yarmouth Steamship Company's service, and his crew of eighty-one remained aboard the Prince George.

The crash occurred shortly after 4 a.m., while the Prince George was proceeding from Yarmouth to Boston. A ragged hole was torn in her hull and water began flooding the No. 1 hold.

When the seriousness of the damage to the Prince George was determined, the passengers were ordered to don life preservers and then preparations were made to transfer them to the Agassiz which, although her bow was badly damaged, was not shipping water. The sea was sufficiently calm to enable the Agassiz to draw alongside the Prince George. The two vessels were lashed together and the passengers stepped from one to the other with the aid of planks. Most of them took pains to bring their baggage.

BOATS MAKE PORT

The Agassiz proceeded at greatly reduced speed toward Boston and when off Finn's Ledge, about fifteen miles from Boston, it was decided to transfer the passengers again this time to the Mojave, which was accompanying the Agassiz. The second transfer of passengers was accomplished as comfortably as the first and the Mojave proceeded to the Eastern Steamship Company's dock at Boston while the Agassiz put into the Coast Guard base at East Boston.

The Prince George limped into its berth in the Eastern Steamship docks about 6:30 o'clock. There was a gaping hole in her port bow about eight feet by six above the water line and extending below.

She was down by the head and listing slightly.

TWO OF CREW HURT

Two members of the crew of the Coast Guard cutter were severely injured in the collision. They are Orlo D. Howser of Detroit, the seaman who was at the wheel when the crash came, and Alfred R. Johnson, boatswain's mate first class.

Howser was taken to the Chelsea Marine Hospital suffering from shock, cuts and bruises and a possible fracture of the leg. An X-ray will be made tomorrow to determine the extent of his injuries.

Johnson suffered a severe gash on the forehead which required several stitches. Although blood was streaming down his face Johnson refused medical attention until all the passengers had been transferred.

AIR AND RAIL CONNECTION ANNOUNCED

Western Express Makes Coast-to-Coast Hook-Up With New York Central

NEW YORK, July 7. (AP)—Officials of the New York Central lines tonight announced forty-six hour air-rail service to the Pacific Coast, beginning tomorrow.

The new system involves a working arrangement between the New York Central, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and Chicago and Alton railroads with Western Air Express, Inc., which, since June 1, has been operating a twelve-hour passenger-plane service between Kansas City and Los Angeles.

Those who use the new service will ride from New York to Chicago on the New York Central's Iriquois in twenty-one hours. The following night they will leave for Kansas City, whence they will fly via Amarillo, Tex., Albuquerque, N. M., and Holbrook or Kingman, Ariz., to Los Angeles.

The New York Central on June 14 opened a sixty-hour air-rail system over practically the same route in conjunction with Universal Air Lines and the Santa Fe. The new system is distinct from the old service.

BEVERLY HILLS, July 7. [To the Editor of The Times:] Today I read where a speech that Franklin D. Roosevelt had made had just about threw him in the ring as the next Democratic candidate. Now there is a fine man. In fact that is one of the characteristics of the Democratic party in that they have had some of the finest men as candidates that we have in this country, and it's almost a shame that they are to be eternally handicapped by being "right but never President" but you can start now trying to dig up something and in three years you won't have found anything wrong with Franklin D. Roosevelt outside of being a Democrat.

Unique Westminster Abbey Services Broadcast to Far-Flung Lands

LONDON, July 7. (AP)—George V, King and Emperor, was consecrated anew today in historic Westminster Abbey by a religious service probably unique in history.

The service was sponsored by his millions of subjects throughout the world in solemn thanksgiving and gratitude to the Almighty for delivering their sovereign from his recent grievous illness.

Many thousands of King George's British subjects took an active part in the service in and around the Abbey, while millions of others participated through the radio or by similar services in various parts of the world.

CEREMONY UNIQUE

English history does not record in its long column of centuries a similar ceremony.

A home-like atmosphere was lent to the ceremony by the presence of the general public for the first time at a state thanksgiving service.

Nineteen years ago, when King George succeeded to the crown of England on the death of his father, King Edward, he was formally crowned and officially consecrated to the task of ruling the far-flung British empire.

He was crowned today with the visible love of his people and consecrated anew by the manifest loyalty, respect and admiration of his subjects.

LEAVE FOR ABBEY

The Duke and Duchess of York were the first members of the Royal family to leave Buckingham Palace today for Westminster Abbey. They were followed by Prince George and Princess Victoria, sister of King Edward, in one car, and by Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles in another car.

A few minutes later a closed landau left the palace grounds with four nurses, Miss Black, who still

BOWLER OFF ON FLIGHT

Fears Held Plane Down as Hum of Motors Dies Far from Next Stop

MOUNT EVANS (Greenland) (By radio via Ann Arbor, Mich.) July 7.—Communication was established by this station with Port Burwell at 7 o'clock this evening. At that time Port Burwell had not heard through the day from the 'Untin' Bowler and believed it still is at Great Whale. No Canadian stations have heard from the plane since Friday, when signals came through strong.

[Copyright, 1929, by the Chicago Tribune]

CHICAGO, July 7. (Exclusive)—Signals indicating that the 'Untin' Bowler, the plane which is making a Chicago-to-Berlin trip by the northern land and water route, took to the air at Great Whale on Hudson Bay at 8:30 this morning, were picked up by the WGN low-wave station at Elgin, Ill.

The sound of the generator for the radio attached to the plane's motors was heard continuously, with slight lapses due to fading, until 2:04 p.m. Then it ceased, either because the motors were shut off or because distance made it inaudible.

Whereabouts of the plane and its crew of three, if it hopped off for Port Burwell on Cape Chidley, as was assumed, was not known early this evening. The Canadian marine radio station at Port Burwell reported at 2 p.m., Chicago time, that it had received no message from the 'Untin' Bowler and nothing further was learned through that point up until evening.

MAY BE DOWN

A flight of five and a half hours as indicated would have been sufficient to carry the Bowler and its crew to the southern shores of Ungava Bay and only 100 miles or so from Cape Chidley. There are two Hudson's Bay Company's posts in the vicinity and the guesses were that the Bowler had been driven down at or near one of them by bad flying conditions.

If Parker D. Cramer, co-pilot, attempted to send any direct messages by the low-wave radio they were not received at Elgin.

According to Earl Myers, in charge of the plant, the trained listeners have become accustomed to the sound made by the generator when the motors are running and there is no chance for a mistake.

It would have been possible to hear the same sound if the plane was on the ground with its motors running, but Myers regarded it as unlikely that this was the situation, as there would have been no reason to burn gasoline for five and a half hours or more unless a flight was in progress.

BRAVE WEATHER

The crew, composed of Cramer, Pilot Robert H. Gast and Reporter Robert W. Wood, braved an unfavorable weather report to start for Port Burwell. The special forecast issued for them at 8 a.m. today showed that depressions were centered over Lake Superior and on the Greenland crest. At Point Burwell it was foggy and rainy with a barometric reading of 29.74 inches. Temperature there was 34 deg. and the winds were light and from the west.

The distance from Great Whale to Port Burwell in a direct line is only about 600 miles and the 'Untin' Bowler could average under ordinary conditions 100 miles an hour. It is probable, however, that the Bowler took a somewhat longer

BYRD "FOLLIES" SCORCH ICE

It's One Hot Show Merry Antarctic Crew Puts On to Celebrate Cold Fourth Warmly

BY RUSSELL OWEN

(Copyright, 1929, by Los Angeles Times, New York Times Company and St. Louis Post-Dispatch. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.)

LITTLE AMERICA (Antarctica) July 8. (Delayed.)—The Fourth of July was celebrated yesterday farther south than ever before with a temperature of 60 below zero. Not only was it probably the first Fourth ever celebrated on the Antarctic continent, but it was certainly one of the merriest parties ever held in this dreary place.

Even though it was dark outside who wouldn't be merry with a turkey dinner and a performance of the "Antarctic Follies," a show containing some unique chorus girls and jokes associated with our personal foibles.

There never was a better dinner anywhere, and, although turkey is not usually a Fourth of July dish back home it was appropriate enough here in our environment of snow and ice. And there was dressing and asparagus, mashed potatoes and cranberry sauce, not to speak of plum pudding and mince pie and ice cream. Funny as it may seem at home for us to be eating ice cream it is esteemed a great delicacy. Yesterday it was served on the pie but on other occasions loganberries or some other fruit is served with it and loganberries and ice cream make the finest desert in the world. The ice cream is made by mixing it, sticking it out in the snow and stirring it a while. It does not take long.

After the dinner the mess hall was cleared up and a stage made at one end by stringing a curtain across it. The audience sat on the two mess-hall benches, the bunks and each others shoulders.

There was a little vaudeville, bur-

Unique Ceremony Conducted in Westminster Abbey

attends the King, and Misses Purdie, Davis and Gordon who nursed His Majesty through his long illness. Then the palace gates swung open and two open barouches, each with scarlet and gold liveried coachmen and footmen on the boxes, came out.

In the first were King George, Queen Mary, and the Prince of Wales. The second carried the Lord and Lady in Waiting and the Equerry in Waiting.

An immense crowd, many of whose spectators had been waiting since midnight, gathered along Whitehall.

As the King's carriage came into view there were cries on every hand of "Ere comes the King, God bless 'im."

The emotional fervor ran high, and there were many tears of happiness and genuine joy at seeing the monarch again in good health after his narrow escape from death.

CROWDS SOLEMN

Unlike many other public appearances of His Majesty, this was a quiet and grave one. It was on the whole a solemn crowd which greeted the King today and the emotions of most of the people were expressed more deeply by bowed heads than by shouts and cheers.

At Westminster Abbey, where so many monarchs have appeared in historic roles, King George knelt unostentatiously among the members of his family and gave simple thanks for his recovery and for "the signal love and loyalty of his people made manifest in time of trouble."

There was little pomp at the service. The United States was represented by the presence of Ambassador Dawes, and all the dominions sent representatives.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald sat in the choir with the members of his Cabinet. Scattered about the Abbey were Indian princes, diplomats from all the nations of the world, simple priests, millionaires, British noblemen with silk hats and morning dress, and simple churchmen in well-worn coats.

As the King knelt in prayer the silence which came over the abbey made eloquently clear that before God all men are equal. His Majesty knelt in humble prayer, his shoulders slightly bent with the weight of sixty-four years, his kindly face, wan with the shadow of sickness, gave mute testimony to the pressure and care and of ill health.

FAMILY IN GROUP

As he bowed his head over the scarlet-bound order of service on the desk before him, the Archbishop of Canterbury, attired in a gold and green cape, stepped forward and took his appointed position near the king. Around His Majesty were grouped the princes and princesses of the royal family and the queen.

As the Archbishop stepped forward there came a soft roll of drums from the hidden band of the Grenadier Guards, which grew louder until it reverberated like thunder.

The symbals joined in with a shattering crescendo and then the drum roll slowly died down until all again was silent.

At that moment, when the last echoes of the drums still sounded among the arches of the nave high above, the voice of the Dean of Westminster rang out clear and sharp from the chancel.

"God save the King!" he cried.

Then he added: "God save this realm. God give us thankful hearts."

In these three simple sentences the dean voiced the hopes and aspirations of the British empire.

A few moments of silence followed, while all eyes were turned to the humble figure kneeling in the center of the great architectural cross that is Westminster Abbey. A few of those present could remember when King George was born in 1865, many of the old aristocracy could remember his wedding with Queen Mary July 6, 1893, just thirty-six years ago yesterday. All could recall his recent sickness in the days when the nation had slight hope for his recovery.

Those who saw the Prince of Wales kneeling in prayer today also remembered the Prince's 6500-mile dash to London from Africa to the bedside of his sick father.

A fanfare of trumpets then broke the silence. The great organ of Westminster Abbey sounded forth hymns, in one of which His Majesty joined and then the "Te Deum Laudamus."

HIS MAJESTY TOUCHED

His Majesty was visably touched by the public homage as he left the Abbey. The crowd followed the royal party to Buckingham Palace, where it grew so dense that the King and Queen appeared for five minutes on the balcony to satisfy the zeal of their subjects.

A special thanksgiving service was conducted today in the Roman Catholic Cathedral in Westminster. It was attended by King Alfonso of Spain, who went there at the special request of King George so that His Most Catholic Majesty, who is closely related to the British royal family, might participate in the thanksgiving service of his coreligionists.

WILBUR RIDES DOWN CLIFFS

Interior Secretary Heads First Party Ever to Go Over New Trail to Crater Lake

MEDFORD (Or.) July 7. (AP)—Secretary Wilbur of the Interior Department arrived here today after a two-day inspection of Crater Lake National Park during which he headed the first horseback party ever to ride down the almost sheer cliffs from the rim to the shores of the lake.

The new trail leaves the top of the 2000-foot rim near the hotel. Much of it has been blown out of solid rock and at places has been cut through snowdrifts six feet deep. The park service has been constructing the trail for nearly two years.

So far as known history of Crater Lake is concerned no other white men ever have ridden horses to the sides of the lake.

Other members of the party were Director Horace Albright of the National Park Service, Supt. Elbert Sollinsky of Crater Lake National Park and Northcutt Ely, assistant to Secretary Wilbur.

Mrs. Max Hopper, daughter of Secretary Wilbur, and an expert horsewoman, was the first woman to make the descent.

FARM-AID BILL "JUST CRUTCH"

known to President Hoover before his appointment. Indications are that Mr. Hoover insisted upon him being on the board, not in spite of his views but because of them, feeling that a man of Teague's ability and experience having such a practical and conservative slant on the farm situation would be just the man to squeeze the maximum benefit out of the relief act.

HONEST CRITIC

Before passage of the bill Teague had publicly expressed his disagreement with certain features of the legislation and his doubt that it would materially assist the farm industry.

Teague declined the appointment several times and his acceptance finally, under White House pressure, was another instance of President Hoover being able to draft the man he wanted for a particular job. The Californian has agreed to serve for one year and for that period will be on leave of absence from the California Fruit Growers' Exchange and the Almond Growers' Exchange.

"These are not one-man organizations," said Teague, "and will function as usual while I am in Washington."

As Mr. Teague sees it, the worst peril which the Federal Farm Board must avoid is that of artificially stimulating prices.

PROBLEMS STATED

"The problem of the board," he said, "will be under the emergency features of the bill relating to the handling of the $500,000,000 revolving fund, so as to eliminate the extreme peaks and valleys in farm prices.

"There is danger that if the fund is given out to commodity groups in such a way as to artificially stimulate prices the result will only be an added surplus. We might give some temporary relief by buying in crop surpluses, but if prices are boosted too high it will certainly invite another overproduction.

"Care must be taken not to put prices up to a point that will satisfy submarginal producers. The government might find itself in the position of having all its money tied up in one surplus, only to invite another surplus which it could not handle."

SAFEGUARD POINTED

Mr. Teague pointed to the section in the farm bill which provides that prices must not be enhanced to a point that will give distress to consumers or bring about increased crop surpluses and he said he was of the hope the Board would adhere rigidly to the spirit of this clause.

"The bill will do some good," he said "I think that something can be done to prevent the great depressions in prices that come with crop surpluses. But it must be done very carefully. My thought has been that the safest way to stabilize prices is to furnish money to commodity groups to buy in surpluse whenever prices drop below the cost of reasonably efficient production.

"It seems to me that the government funds can safely be put into surpluses of nonperishable, staple crops upon that basis, for the reason that a nonperishable commodity cannot stay down for any length of time below the cost of reasonably efficent production."

GREATER USEFULNESS

But the greatest benefits that could possibly accrue from the farm legislation, in Teague's opinion, would be the working out under the broad provisions of the bill of what he terms "long-time projects" for the permanent relief of agriculture. For one thing, he thinks the board should sponsor a thorough study of foreign markets and foreign production, so that the farmers of the United States may know just what they can sell abroad and also what competition they face there. This field, according to Teague, "has scarcely been touched."

TO CLASSIFY LANDS

Another Teague "plank" in permanent farm relief would be an exhaustive study of agricultural production and a classifying of various types of land to determine the limitations of these different types in the production of staple crops. "The information gained from such a survey," Mr. Teague said, "would be disseminated so that farmers who are producing on very low-yielding lands where costs are higher and where there is no possibility of making a net return, would adapt their lands to some other class of production, where there would be more hope of success. Removal of some of the submarginal lands from production of staple crops would help remove overproduction.

"Again," continued Teague, "there is constantly being added to agricultural producing areas lands from which the timber is being cut. Most of these lands have low productive power and it might be feasible to work out some plan by which the government may purchase these lands or acquire them by exchange, reforest them and add them to the public domain.

LONG-TIME PLANS

"I believe that the board will contribute perhaps more to the long-time project of farm relief than along any other line, by working out plans for mobilization of Federal and State governments on a unified program through some collaboration arrangement behind the sound development of farmer-owned and controlled co-operative marketing organizations.

"This can perhaps be done by studying the most efficient of the co-operatives and the advocacy of sound plans for co-operative marketing and educational work among producers, teaching them how to organize and operate such co-operatives."

Teague said that so far as he is advised the grape and avocado growers are the only California agricultural groups planning to ask for financial assistance from the government under the terms of the Farm Act. The grape growers, he said, have already organized an advisory committee and stabilization corporation so as to be in position to take immediate advantage of the Federal relief fund.

California citrus and walnut growers, he said, do not see any advantage that can come to them out of the Federal farm program at this time, both industries being thoroughly organized and marketing their products on a scientific basis, leaving little room for Federal assistance.

"However," he said, "one of the greatest problems of the California citrus industry lies in the unscientific distribution of the Florida crop. It is possible that the board may render some assistance toward accomplishing better distribution from Florida and if an organization is effected in Florida that can control the distribution there as the California Fruit Growers' Exchange is controlling the California crop, there might be worked out a national distribution program that will be of great benefit to both industries."

DAVIS BECOMES PHILIPPINE HEAD

Governor - General Pledges Friendly Co-operation

Ship Bearing Chief Nearly in Path of Typhoon

Inaugural Address Outlines Policy of Economy

MANILA, July 8. (AP)—Dwight Davis assumed his duties here today as Governor-General of the Philippine Islands, and in a brief inaugural address pledged his administration to the friendliest co-operation with the Filipino people, to fearless suppression of dishonesty in government, and to a policy of efficient economy.

Mr. Davis arrived here this morning. The liner President Taft, bringing Mr. Davis to Manila, narrowly missed the path of a severe typhoon which curved northward across the China Sea early today out of Babuyan Channel.

The vessel bore southward and was not touched. It reported comparatively calm weather to the local steamship offices.

The new Governor-General made no statement that he personally will push the economic development of the islands, but pointed out that such development is one "of the corner-stones in the foundation upon which our governmental and political future will rest," and further that it is one "of the pressing problems confronting the Legislature."

MERE START MADE

Gov.-Gen. Davis lauded the progress the Philippine people have made but, in urging them to higher attainments, told them that they have made only a start toward the goal to which they should aspire. He pictured the islands of the future as "the happy home of a contented and prosperous people, spiritually, politically and culturally the leaders of the Far East."

The inaugural speech was short, a little less than 3000 words, but it was most friendly in tone.

"Toward the Philippine people the people of the United States have but one desire—to extend them their friendly aid in solution of the problems of the future," said the new executive.

Concerning Philippine independence he commented that determination of the political future of the islands does not come within the province of the Governor-General, but added that "problems directly affecting the foundations upon which that political future must rest do confront us for solution."

REVENUES STATIONARY

Concerning economic development Mr. Davis pointed out that the revenues of the Philippine government are practically stationary, while the needs and proper demands of the insular government are increasing steadily. "Therefore, a steady increase in the wealth of the people, which in turn will increase the revenues, is essential," he said.

The remarks of the Governor-General about honesty in governmental affairs were apropos of recent investigations in the Bureau of Commerce and Industry and the Bureau of Posts. The commerce and industry investigation, which still is continuing, has resulted in the resignation of the bureau director and dismissal of the assistant director. Four other officials have been dismissed from the Bureau of Posts.

Gov.-Gen. Davis in concluding, explained that "efficient economy means not merely saving money, but should be measured in increased health, more education, and better living conditions for the Philippine people."

A draft of this bill has already been drawn up by Deputy Jacques Stern, reporter for the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and has the approval of the Cabinet.

The ministers feel that this bill, if voted in the Chamber and Senate and signed by President Doumergue as a budgetary measure, would have the force of law in France and could not be objected to by Washington.

It is now certain that debate on ratification in the Chamber cannot begin the 9th inst., but it is reported that the Cabinet has decided to force the issue by interpellations on the 12th inst., before the Finance and Foreign Affairs committees can present their reports on the 16th inst.

Preacher Raps Bishop Cannon

CHICAGO, July 7. (AP)—Rev. John Thompson, pastor of Chicago's largest Methodist Church, the skyscraper Chicago Temple, in a sermon tonight rebuked Bishop James Cannon, Jr., for his reported stock-market speculation.

"Bishop Cannon has brought reproach on the church of Christ and the cause so dear to him and to all lovers of temperance and prohibition," Rev. Mr. Thompson said. "He has given the enemy a good chance to scoff at all of us. The church of which he is the bishop cannot afford to ignore this."

'UNTIN' BOWLER'S NAME EXPLAINED AT LAST

The Times has received several inquiries as to the meaning of the 'Untin' Bowler, the name of the amphibian plane now on a leisurely flight to Berlin. The Chicago Tribune, owner of the plane, is unable to explain how the name happened to be selected. The term itself is an abbreviation of "hunting bowler," the hat worn by hunters, particularly in England, 'untin' being the way it is usually pronounced in England.

Mexican Train Guard Reduced

MEXICO CITY, July 7. (AP)—Since bandit activities throughout Mexico have been suppressed and little danger remains of attack on railroad trains, the government announced today that it has decided to reduce the number of soldiers who ride in armored cars attached to the rear of all passenger trains as a guard.

The number will be reduced from fifty to ten, including the officer in charge.

DOCTORS SLATE DEBATE ON FEES

Cost of Sickness Issue at Portland Convention

Medical Service May Join Installment Ranks

Story of Year's Progress in Medicine to be Told

PORTLAND (Or.) July 7. (Exclusive)—The cost of medical care to the masses of American people, for which the medical profession has been subjected to widespread criticism, loomed tonight as one of the chief issues to be faced by the delegates to the annual convention of the American Medical Association, which opens tomorrow.

About 2000 doctors from every part of the country and from several European centers have arrived for the sessions and three times that number are expected by Wednesday to hear papers read before the fifteen scientific sections.

COST DEBATE TOPIC

It was indicated tonight that the subject of day clinics and other methods of furnishing medical services at a cost within reach of the average citizen would be broached almost immediately after the convening of the house of delegates, the legislative body of the association, tomorrow.

Addresses will be made to the delegates by Dr. William S. Thayer of Baltimore, president, and Dr. M. L. Harris of Chicago, president-elect.

Chicago during the past year has been the center of a heated controversy over low-cost mass-treatment of the sick, particularly in some of its ethical relationships, and only last month the Chicago Medical Society announced a plan for meeting the expense of illness on a cost basis, the patient to pay on the installment plan. The issue has come to the front also in other parts of the country and definite recommendations or legislation are expected at the present convention.

The care of disabled war veterans, distribution of drugs and the age-old issue of "quackery" are scheduled for consideration by the house of delegates at its opening session.

RESEARCH TO BE TOLD

The delegates also are to consider the whole question of the duplication of medical societies, but not necessarily with the idea that all independent societies should affiliate with the American Medical Association, it is explained.

Scientific expositions arranged by affiliated organizations and covering the whole question of American health will be opened tomorrow as a feature of the convention and clinics will be conducted by noted specialists of this country and abroad.

The story of the year's developments in the research into causes and possible cures for a wide variety of diseases including cancer, tuberculosis and many others, will be related tomorrow, Thursday and Friday at the scientific sections. These embrace surgery, general medical practice, obstetrics, ophthalmology, laryngology, diseases of children, pharmacology, pathology, nervous and mental diseases, dermatology, preventive and industrial medicine, gastro-enterology, radiology and other subjects.

CAPITAL'S ARRESTS MOUNT

Total for Last Five Years in Washington Equals 90 Per Cent of Entire Population

WASHINGTON, July 7. (Exclusive)—Arrest statistics for the last five years in the national capital made public today by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, afforded interesting reading for President Hoover and his law observance and enforcement commission.

These official figures disclose that the total of arrests for five years equals 90 per cent of the entire population of Washington. Arrests for the last year showed a jump of 18,915, or 15.5 per cent, over the number of persons arrested in 1928.

Arrests for the five-year period amounted to 485,873, a total greater than the capital's prewar population. The number of arrests for last year was 123,928.

Arrests under the Sheppard law, which makes intoxication a crime, bounded upward, according to the Pratt report, while Volstead law violations remained at about the same annual high level. A total of 14,323 persons were arrested during the year under the Sheppard law, while 5247 arrests were made under the Volstead Act.

Indications that the average motorist has a poor chance of running through the year without receiving a traffic slip for violating some of the numerous regulations is seen in the figures which disclose that 58,887 persons were arrested in 1928 for traffic offenses. This figure is 27 per cent higher than for the previous year. A total of 214,517 traffic arrests were made during the past five years by Washington police.

Official figures show there were fifty murders in Washington last year and 427 persons killed in traffic accidents.

SLAYER OF AMERICANS EXECUTED

Leader of Mexican Rebel Band Pays With Life for Kidnaping and Murder

MEXICO CITY, July 7. (AP)—The War Department today announced the capture and execution at El Zaus in the State of Guanajuato of Jose Padron, one of the leaders of the rebel band that kidnaped and killed Joseph M. Underwood and C. C. Aisthrope, American mining officials, on February 20, last.

Padron had been sought since the double killing, and immediately after being captured by Federal troops Saturday he was summarily court-martialed and executed by a firing squad.

After being carried off by the rebels from the Bustos mine of the Guanajuato Reduction and Mines Company, near the city of Guanajuato, Aisthorpe and Underwood were killed by their captors when the rebels learned that troops had been sent to pursue them. A short time later the troops overtook the rebel band and killed most of its members, Padron being one of the few who escaped.

Mexico Warmly Greets Prelate

MEXICO CITY, July 7. (AP)—Special dispatches from Queretaro today said thousands of townspeople assembled at the railroad station to greet Archbishop Pedro Vera on his return from exile in the United States, where he has lived since the religious controversy began.

The bridge over which the train passed into the city was lavishly decorated with flowers. The archbishop and those accompanying him were showered with flowers and confetti as they alighted in the station.

GANGSTERS PUT POISON ON BULLETS

Latest Shooting Reveals Playful Trick of Thugs in Chicago Conflict

CHICAGO, July 7. (AP)—Police believe poisoned bullets are a part of gangster warfare. Their belief is based on their investigation of Chicago's latest liquor racket shooting, that of George Maloney, South Side gangster and convicted killer, who was shot and wounded Friday night.

"Clean it out, the rats probably poisoned the bullets," Maloney pleaded as he lay in a hospital.

Maloney, recently convicted of manslaughter for slaying Hugh (Stubby) McGovern and William (Gunner) McFadden during last New Year's Eve celebration in the crowded Granada Cafe, was fired on by two men across the street while he was walking with a woman companion. Crowds leaving a near-by theater scurried for cover.

HOOVERS LINGER AT RETREAT

Will Return Today from Virginia Fishing Camp by Automobile

MADISON (Va.) July 7. (AP)—Yielding to the lure of his Blue Ridge Mountain retreat near here, President Hoover decided today to stay in camp over Sunday and return to Washington tomorrow.

Word from the capital of a rising temperature influenced the Presidential decision to stay over for a third night in the cooler climate of his fishing camp. The party will set out early in the morning by automobile for Washington on a schedule which will bring the President home before noon.

The trout season is over and Mr. and Mrs. Hoover have turned to horseback riding for recreation during the three days' visit.

Herbert, Jr., is with his parents. Other guests include William Hard and Mark Sullivan, newspaper writers, and Dr. Vernon Kellogg of the National Research Council.

Dustin Farnum Paid High Honor at Final Rites

NEW YORK, July 7. (Exclusive) The brotherly love that existed between Dustin and William Farnum—blood brothers and fellow-actors of the stage and cinema—was eulogized by De Wolfe Hopper today at funeral services conducted for Dustin in the Little Church Around the Corner.

"I have never known a more beautiful affection between men than that which existed between Dustin Farnum and his brother, William," Hopper said. "In this relationship, as well as in others, this man who lies here dead, exuded the winsomeness and charm for which he was famous on our stage.

"Dustin Farnum, you are lost to us forever, but you have bequeathed to us memories that will be a solace for all time."

Members of the Lambs Club and other actor groups thronged the church to pay tribute to one of the last and greatest of the so-called he-man characters of the film world.

Mystery Craft Cast on Rocks

SAN RAFAEL, July 7. (Exclusive)—Cast upon the rocks of Perce's Point, Tomales Bay, an abandoned fishing boat with nearly every mark of identification chopped off, provided a mystery of the sea that remained unsolved today.

Investigation of the boat revealed that the name had been chopped off the bow, other identification marks obliterated and the captain's cabin dismantled and all papers destroyed.

Two holes were stove in the stern. On the boat's engine the number 165, and the name of the engine maker, the A. R. Robbins Marine Engine Works, San Diego, gave the only clew.

CALIFORNIA TAX POSITION FIFTH

Only Four States Yield More Federal Revenue

Total Payment for Fiscal Year $154,643,529

Returns for Entire Country Show Increase

WASHINGTON, July 7. (Exclusive)—California contributed a total of $154,643,529 in Federal taxes during the fiscal year 1929, which ended June 30, according to figures released today by the Treasury Department. Of this amount $130,236,740 was in income taxes and $601,539 in miscellaneous taxes. The California income tax collections despite lower rates represented an increase of nearly $16,000,000 over the 1928 total for the State.

IN FIFTH PLACE

Only four States—New York, with $843,312,795; North Carolina, with $254,494,957; Illinois, with $238,249,311, and Pennsylvania, with $237,576,472—contributed more money to the Federal coffers during 1929 than did California.

For the country as a whole income-tax collections amounted to $2,331,109,836, a jump of more than $156,000,000 over the 1928 total, despite the tax reduction given the tax payers by the last Republican administration.

The great and unexpected increase in income-tax collections was a contributing factor to the governmental surplus of about $185,000,000, as against the more than $30,000,000 surplus estimated in the budget sent to Congress last year by President Coolidge.

REASON ASSIGNED

Further tax reductions are now in prospect as the result of the surplus and the flourishing condition of the country at the end of the fiscal year, President Hoover let it be known last week.

Prosperity in general, and profit taking on a constantly rising stock market in particular, have been responsible for the great increase in income-tax collections, in the opinion of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. President Hoover is desirous of ascertaining just how much of the increase in governmental revenues is due to the market before recommending any further tax cuts. It is understood, being hesitant to sponsor any financial move based on so unstable a thing as the stock ticker.

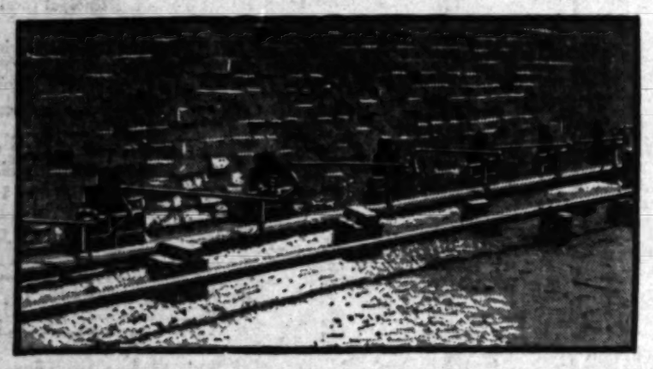
GAS IN THE INDUSTRIES



A portion of a gas-fired brick kiln at Davidson Brick Company plant. These kilns are built up of thousands of "green" bricks and natural gas applied as shown in the picture—40 burners to a kiln.

IV.
The Community's Brick Plants Use Natural Gas

THE DAVIDSON BRICK COMPANY plant, one of the largest in Southern California, turns out 320,000 common bricks and 150,000 building tiles a day.

Natural gas—2,000,000 cubic feet a day—is used exclusively to "burn" this great amount of brick and tile.

What the Davidson Company Says

Natural gas is used by the Davidson Company "because it is the most efficient fuel; it is easier to handle, and gives a more uniform heat, which results in a more uniformly burnt product."

In addition, by the use of natural gas, the burning time in the kilns has been cut 2 days, the need for boilers eliminated, and labor costs thus reduced.

Typical of the Industry

Like the Davidson Brick Company, practically every other brick and tile plant in this section uses natural gas. This is typical of the whole ceramic industry, in which the use of gas is widespread for every purpose, including "firing" the finest and most delicate china.

Former Director Lord Tells Some of Functions

Government Employees Praised for Loyalty

Ex-Official Says Nation is Best-Run Business

[This is the second of a series of personal reminiscences by Gen. Herbert M. Lord, who retired recently as director of the United States Budget after seven years' service, during which he supervised the expenditure of more than $25,000,000,000 in government funds.]

BY GEN. HERBERT M. LORD
Former Director of the United States Budget
As Told to William P. Helm, Jr.

[Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

WASHINGTON, July 7. (Exclusive)—As Director of the Bureau of the United States Budget, or, to put it another way, as the President's chief of finance, I had charge, under his direction, of the preparation of the annual estimates of government spendings and of the supervision of expenditures totaling more than $25,000,000,000.

For many years, the last seven of which I spent as Director of the Budget, I have been a government employee: it has been my good fortune to hold intimate contact with the great, going business we call the government of the United States.

As I look back over this period of service with its thousands of contacts and incidents, one clear, outstanding conviction is indelibly in my mind—the United States government is the best-managed big business in the world.

Its mammoth expenditures of from $3,500,000,000 to $4,000,000,000 a year are wisely administered. The government gets virtually 100 cents' worth of value for every $1 that goes out of the Treasury. Its 500,000 and more civilian employees are efficient, alert, loyal and devoted to their work. The proportion of instances where this is not true is negligible.

LEADS TO TREASURY

My personal contacts while I was Director of the Budget were largely with heads of departments, boards, commissions and bureaus charged with carrying on the vast and complicated work of the Federal government. It has all passed in review before the Budget Bureau many times. For all agencies entrusted with the government's far-flung enterprises and interests must come alike to the public Treasury for sustenance; and the way to the Treasury for the last seven years and more lay through the Budget Bureau.

Hence the Budget Bureau has come to acquire a knowledge of the workings of the government no other agency possibly could have. The whole sweeping panorama has stretched before us periodically; we have not only seen it in its entirety but we have looked closely at its details, the high lights and shadows that go to make up the picture. Indeed there is no detail whatever of the Federal government's business with which the Budget Bureau has not become intimately familiar.

ALL-SEEING BUREAU

And whether those details concern an engineering problem in Alaska, intricate plans of flood control, the hire of an additional clerk in Shanghai, engraving of money or the reduction of taxes, it is the Budget Bureau's business to study and know them.

The Budget Bureau knows. Not only from the ten men who constitute the President's Cabinet and the larger group who head the independent offices of the government, but it knows from the rank and file from the clerks in the Federal offices, the messengers, the charwomen.

For a long time it was my custom to devote part of each day to strolling, unannounced, into a government department—often as not through a side entrance or the back door—to talk with those with whom I would not come in contact otherwise. So I have heard the complaints alike of Cabinet officials and the humblest clerks, have seen their common pride in what they were doing and witnessed their efforts to do it well.

Out of that long and intimate contact there has grown upon me the realization that there is no body of workers with quite the esprit de corps, the pride of service and the loyalty of the Federal employees. Here and there in the mammoth chorus one finds a discordant note—in what private business with half a million workers will one not find an occasional shirker? But taking them all in all the employees of the Federal government are far above par, and I'll match them for efficiency, loyalty, brains and stamina against any other group, large or small, under the sun.

We have witnessed a revolution in government management the past eight years. Waste has been eliminated largely, efficiency has been enhanced greatly, economy has been the watchword. The old way has passed. The new way insures the taxpayers full return on all they place in the public treasury. The spendthrift and the profligate no longer find even a niche in the government service. Their day is done.

OLD AND NEW

That revolution has been due almost wholly to the adoption of the budget system of government finance. Consider, for a moment, the old way and the new.

Under the old system the annual appropriations for carrying on the government's work were made without either knowledge or thought of what the Treasury would be able to provide in funds. Each department head once a year made an estimate of his requirements for the coming fiscal year and sent it to the Treasury. The Treasury had no authority to change these estimates in any way. It merely collected them, had them printed and bound, and sent them on as they were to Congress.

No department, board or commission considered the needs or work of any other branch of the government. Each was a self-contained unit, going ahead with its own plans. And it was only human nature for each executive to consider the work of his own department, board or bureau as of greater importance than any other work in the Federal establishment. It was only human nature for him to desire and labor to expand his activities as field after field opened alluringly before him.

ANNUAL STRUGGLE

Congress struggled with the estimates, cut them, changed them, and appropriated in greater or less degree as the arguments and influence of the various department and board heads prevailed. After appropriating the money Congress left it to each branch of the government to spend the funds wisely and well.

No thought of the cloth from which the garment was to be cut, no careful measurement of the funds the Treasury would provide for the payment of all these various bills, no follow through on their expenditure to insure the spending of the money either efficiently or economically—small wonder it was that laxness, inefficiency and waste crept in; that the government, being everybody's business, was on the way to becoming nobody's business; or that the conduct of the government's affairs became the subject of general criticism and attack.

OLD SYSTEM CHANGED

That was the old way. The adoption of the budget system changed all that, although the change was gradual. Indeed, the change is still going on, but in the main it has been accomplished. The old ways of laxness, inefficiency and wastefulness are gone.

Of course, there is still waste in government spendings. There always will be. There is waste in every business, public or private. The Budget Bureau has a corps of workers who earn many times their modest salaries by uncovering waste in the executive departments and correcting it, and by devising new and more efficient ways of accomplishing tasks to be accomplished.

But waste on a wholesale scale no longer exists. It exists, where it exists at all, in isolated and retail instances, and these holes are being plugged. The big holes were plugged during the early days of the budget; year after year it becomes a bit more difficult to find new holes to plug—a bit harder to save more money.

ST. LOUIS BOASTS FASTEST CAR LINE

ST. LOUIS, July 7. (Exclusive)—The fastest surface street cars in the country are said to be operated in St. Louis. Cars of the Olive-street line, operating in one of the principal thoroughfares of the city, are believed to lead with a speed of 10.3 miles per hour. This speed is possible, a recent survey indicated, because the cars adhere to a skip-stop system and because automobile parking is barred in downtown Olive street.

WAR PROSPECT STIRS PEASANTS

Delegates from All Europe at Berlin Meeting

Leaders Disclose Fears of Another Conflict

Poor People Urged to Aid in Keeping Peace

BERLIN, July 7. (AP)—Fears of another European war dominated the sessions today of delegates from all Europe who are preparing for a great peasants' congress next January.

The delegates all emphasized the dangers threatening the peasantry and discussed counteractive measures.

Bishop Fan Noli, former President of Albania, spoke on the ever-present war menace in the Balkans through the conflicting interests of Jugo-slavia and Italy, which also involved France as the ally of Jugo-slavia.

Joseph Boisseau of the French Confederation Generale des Paisans Travailleurs (Peasant Workers Confederation) spoke on the rapid industrialization of France with which the agricultural development has not been able to keep pace. He said the growing antagonism of continental powers inevitably will lead to a new outburst unless a strong antiwar front is formed.

There were no Russian delegates present. It is pointed out that this peasant movement has nothing to do with Communism but chiefly aims to protect the working peasantry which would be the hardest hit by another war.

With the slogan "war against war," the delegates adopted a resolution calling all the peasants of Europe to unite against the imminent menace of another European conflict.

Capt. Coudouret Killed in Crash

ANGOULEME (France) July 7 (AP)—Capt. ELECTRIC EEL SHOCKED TO DEATH BY PARTNER

[Copyright, 1929, Star Newspaper Service]

TORONTO, July 7. (Exclusive)—Current events at the Walker House Aquarium have reached shocking proportions, in fact Amps the big electric eel, was so shocked by his companion that he died and now he's on ice awaiting a post mortem at the university.

The pair of electric eels were imported from South America last year and have attracted many scientists, one of whom expressed the opinion that 500 volts could be obtained from the fish if they knew where to find the poles.

"The battle of the eels lasted about an hour and a half," the aquarium manager, said. "I tried to separate them, but I got a shock so I decided to let them alone. They broke the glass in two places with their struggles, and the boy and I had to hold the glass top on the aquarium down.

"Finally the smaller eel succeeded in coiling itself around the other, and apparently administered a shock which killed it. Its stomach is discolored and seems to be hard and burnt. After the big fellow was killed the temperature of the water rose four degrees."

Amps, the vanquished electric eel, is going to the biological department of the University of Toronto, where it will be dissected. Since coming to Toronto, Amps grew about nine inches and attained a total length of four and a half feet. He weighs about twenty pounds. Volts, the victor in battle, is slightly smaller.

They have been known to grow to a length of fifteen feet, and to kill horses with the shock they can generate.

Compromise Made Between Army Leaders

PEKING, July 7. (Exclusive)—Chang Hsueh-Liang, generalissimo of Manchuria, joined President Chiang Kai-Shek and Gen. Yen Hsi-Chang in an important conference here today.

Within a few hours of Gen. Chang's arrival news services announced that a compromise had been reached in the political impasse, which threatened the unity of the government and a possible resumption of warfare.

Gen. Yen and Gen. Feng Yu-Siang have agreed indefinitely to postpone their trip abroad, assuring that they will remain until their physical armies are organized under the central administration.

EASTERN RELIEF DRIVE CLOSES

Campaign to Aid Near East Short of Quota

NEW YORK, July 7. (Exclusive) Withdrawal by Near East relief from the field of nation-wide campaigns on the ground that the era of drives for war relief and post-war reconstruction should terminate, was announced today by Dr. James L. Barton, chairman of the board of trustees.

"The organization lacks a total of $475,000 of reaching the $2,000,000 goal set in January of this year to complete work necessary to provide for 20,000 children still under our care," the chairman stated, in a report to the trustees. But despite this deficit he said that instructions had been issued for country-wide campaign operations to cease.

SENATE TARIFF LINES DRAWN

Contest Impends Over Bill from House

Repeal of Flexible Plan Aim of Democrats

More Burdens for Farmer to be Fought

WASHINGTON, July 7. (AP)—Repeal of the flexible tariff under which the President is authorized to change import duties within prescribed limits and resistance to imposition of "additional burdens" on the farmer are to be the principal aims of the Democrats in the impending Senate contest over the House tariff bill.

Such a program was outlined in a statement today by Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee.

Issued through the Democratic National Committee, the statement described the House measure as "the most signal victory ever won by the seekers after privilege and government favors," and warned that unless the Finance Committee changes it radically, the Democrats would renew with increased vigor the effort to confine the revision to agricultural and related products.

PURSE RIGHT DEFENDED

As for the flexible clause, written into the law in 1921 and retained in the House bill, Senator Simmons declared the minority would "fight to the bitter end this proposition on the part of Congress to surrender this essentially legislative function to the executive branch of the government."

"This proposed surrender," he said, "involves a principle fundamental in our representative system of government; namely, the right of the people to control the purse strings through their representatives. This must be fought to the last ditch and then appealed to the people."

After the committee hearings on the House bill, which will be resumed tomorrow, the Democrats will be excluded from the sessions during the rewriting of the measure. For this reason, Senator Simmons said, the tariff contest would have to be waged on the floor of the Senate.

While the minority will have the support of the western Republican independents in its effort to keep the revision as limited as possible, it is doubtful at this time how the various groups would line up on a proposal to restore to Congress the absolute power to change customs rates.

Some Republican regulars are known to be inclining somewhat toward a change in the provision, which, although the Supreme Court upheld its constitutionality, has drawn heated opposition from Democrat and Republican members of both houses.

Representative Garner of Texas, ranking Democrat on the House Ways and Means Committee, sought its repeal, in a motion to recommit the Rawley measure, but it never came to a direct vote because of the huge Republican majority in that body. Representative Beck, Republican, of Pennsylvania, a former solicitor-general, delivered an emphatic oration against the clause on constitutional grounds.

FLEXIBLE BASIS PRACTICAL

In his message to the special session, President Hoover declared seven years of experience had "proved the principle of flexible tariff to be practical, and in the long view a most important principle to maintain."

As talk of repeal of this provision progresses, another form of flexible tariff has bobbed up. Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the committee, has evolved a rough draft of a sliding scale sugar tariff, which he intends to place before the full committee this week to determine whether hearings should be held on it.

The plan, providing a range of duties within prescribed limits, which would fluctuate with changes in sugar prices, would take the place of the House rate of 2.40 cents a pound on Cuban raw sugar and the present duty of 1.70 cents. Senator Smoot asserts his scale provides lower rates than those in the House bills, but he has not made plain whether his minimum and maximum are lower.

SIDEWALK ANNIVERSARY

PARIS, July 7. (AP)—The sidewalks of Paris are 100 years old, the first having been laid on the Rue de l'Odeon in 1829. The idea was imported from Italy and created so much interest that Parisians of that day nearly wore the walk to the ground the first week "trying it." Police had to form the crowds in line and forbid "repeating."

GIRL CONFESSES MURDER

Common Law Wife, of Amazonian Strength, Admits Strangling Husband and Burning Body

NAPIERVILLE (Ill.) July 7. (AP)—Miss Laure Weaver, 21 years of age, described by police as possessing Amazonian strength, confessed today that she strangled her common-law husband, Wilbur Kitselman, 52, and then burned his body near Annawan, Ill.

Kitselman's body was found at the roadside funeral pyre last week.

Miss Weaver, who was employed in a factory in Wyoming, Ill., was arrested at the home of her sister here last night, after the body of Kitselman was identified.

She readily confessed, according to officers, and told how she killed the man at her home in Wyoming last Sunday because she could not cure him of drinking liquor.

"I knocked him over onto a bed, and, taking off his belt, placed it around his neck and strangled him," she was quoted by police as saying.

The young woman then told of wrapping the body in a quilt, carrying it to her automobile and driving to the spot near Annawan, where it was burned.

A long series of punishments inflicted on the victim because of his drinking, was related by Miss Weaver, police said.

She told of sewing him in a blanket on one occasion and of keeping him there for four hours, while he kicked and struggled until he promised to stop drinking and coming home in argumentative moods.

CUSTOMS UNION SEEN IN CANADA

Trade Policy is Branded British Zollverein

Directly Aimed at Tariff Law of United States

Bennett's Proposal, However, Lacks Support

(Copyright, 1929, Stars Newspaper Service)

OTTAWA (Ont.) July 7. (Exclusive)—That Hon. R. B. Bennett's imperial trade policy is that of a British Zollverein against the rest of the world, is the opinion expressed in some quarters in the capital with reference to recent speeches of the Conservative leader.

The present government's policy has in mind the development of trade within the empire by the increase of British preferences, by the lowering of tariffs on British goods. Only in specific cases where circumstances warrant would tariffs be increased. The Conservative policy is believed to provide for imperial preferences as they stand at present, but an increase in the differential by raising the tariff against the United States and other foreign countries.

LACKS SUPPORT

Such a policy, it is now pointed out in some quarters, could get no support from the present British government. Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, is unalterably opposed to protection and Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George has since the election declared that the popular vote in Great Britain was 5,000,000 against protection.

In 1926 an European customs union was suggested by financial and industrial interests representing all the continental countries, a conference being held in Berlin. This Zollverein was directly leveled against the United States. It did not materialize.

ANTAGONISM FEARED

In certain circles it is claimed that a British Zollverein, with British tariffs throughout the empire directed against the rest of the world, would put the British people under the same suspicion which has aroused antagonism in many countries toward the United States.

The present Canadian government will have nothing to do with such a proposal, it is stated.

Lamont Heads American Delegation

Tariff Increase May be Debate Topic

AMSTERDAM (Holland) July 7. (AP)—What position international business interests shall take with reference to the Young reparations plan, the proposed revision of American tariffs, and the economic reconstruction of China, are among the most important subjects for decision by the Fifth Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, which begans six days of sessions here tomorrow.

AMERICANS THERE

Most of the 1400 delegates, representing almost every country of the globe, including India Egypt and South American countries, had arrived tonight.

Some of the ablest figures in the realm of international commerce and finance, including an American delegation of nearly 150 members, headed by Thomas W. Lamont, will participate in the congress.

With Mr. Lamont and the delegates of fifty or more chambers of commerce already here, the question of increased American tariff is one of burning interest and anxiety.

MAY FORCE DEBATE

Although this subject is not officially on the program, it is expected to form a vital part of the private discussions among European members, who already are formulating measures of defense and reprisal against what they consider prohibitive increases in duty on European goods shipped to the United States. They predict that these increases may lead ultimately to the formation among the countries hardest hit of a European preferential customs union.

The French delegates, who are strong in their opposition to the projected tariff revision, may even try to force discussion of the subject in open congress.

TRAIN ROBBERY PLUNDER FOUND

Checks Taken in McAvoy Holdup Recovered

Loot is Hid in Wild Canyon East of Hollister

Bandits Replaced Them in Six Envelopes

HOLLISTER, July 7. (Exclusive) Several thousand dollars in checks, opened carefully in opened envelopes, registered and first-class mail, taken in the recent $16,000 Southern Pacific train hold-up at Pacheco Pass today.

The loot was found in a wild canyon east of the Pacheco Pass road between Los Banos, with many of the coupons, deeds and securities in the two pouches, the "take-up" sack, the other a mail sack. The three packages, in which $16,000 was sent to valley banks from the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, were found shortly after the robbery, but rubber bands used to wrap the currency were discovered here.

The discovery came after San Benito County Sheriff J. J. Croxon's office at Hollister had received information from a rancher whose name was withheld.

Also found at the scene of abandonment of the mail sacks was a Los Angeles newspaper of three days' later date than the hold-up, and fuses for dynamite not needed in the dynamiting at Concord. It was thought possible that wind might have carried the newspaper to the spot in the Pacheco Pass Canyon.

The girl wore the following: Hat, 3 ounces; dress, 2 3-4 ounces; slip, 3 1-2 ounces; chemise, 3 1-4 ounces; hose, 1 1-4 ounces, and shoes, 12 3-4 ounces, a total of 1 pound and 10 1-2 ounces.

New Orleans Unionists Send for Conciliators

Court Injunction Sought Against Rioters

Arrests Dampen Ardor of Demonstrators

NEW ORLEANS, July 7. (AP)—An appeal to the United States Department of Labor to send conciliators to act in the street-car strike, application for an injunction in Federal Court to restrain union sympathizers from destroying property and prompt arrests of rioters by police today served to dampen the spirits of mob violence, but minor disturbances continued.

Those arrested were charged under a State act with inciting a riot and in some instances were rushed to the police station in patrol wagons under a hail of brick bats.

The appeal for conciliators to be sent here immediately was made by Dave Marcuzy, president of the Central Trades and Labor Council.

LABOR DEPARTMENT TO SEND CONCILIATOR

WASHINGTON, July 7. (AP)—Director Hugh L. Kerwin of the conciliation service, Department of Labor, said tonight that a commissioner of conciliation will be sent to New Orleans tomorrow to act in the street-car strike.

Director Kerwin acted after receiving a request for a conciliator from Dave Marcuzy, president of the Central Trades and Labor Council of New Orleans. He said W. H. Rodgers probably will be assigned.

SOMETHING IN A NAME

If You Come From the Clan of Johnson, Davis or Robinson, Maybe You're an Heir

(Copyright, 1929, by Star Newspaper Service)

WINNIPEG, July 7. (Exclusive)—If your name is Johnson, Davis or Robinson you'd better scan this pretty carefully. A fortune of over $600,000 is awaiting distribution if certain of the Johnsons, Davises or Robinsons can establish their kinship in connection with three estates now being administered in the Old Country.

Descendants of Thomas, Albert and Henry Johnson, once natives of the Midlands, left for Canada in 1887, and, according to information received, either they or their heirs are believed to be in the Winnipeg district. They are heirs to property and rents amounting to £2900 per annum and the total value of the estate is about $40,000.

Information is also being asked of heirs of John and Mary Davis, who died in 1894. Four of their children, Mary, John, Annie Elizabeth and William, and three, whose Christian names are believed to be George, Henry and Sarah, are said to have left for Canada at various times between 1885 and 1898. They are the heirs-at-law to John Davis, Sr., whose elder brother died intestate. The estate is valued at £77,000.

The survivors or heirs of James and John Robinson, formerly of Dunstable, Beds., Eng., are entitled to £5800, if they can be located. They left Yorkshire forty years ago. Both married, and John was last heard of in Winnipeg. James was known to be in the same district.

Henry Farnell, 95 Toll End Road, Tipton, Staffs., Eng., is the man who is interested in hearing if you have a possible claim.

Ten-Year Franchise Gives Revision at End

SHANGHAI, July 7. (AP)—Chinese official circles today disclosed that the Nationalist government reconstruction committee, the affairs of which have been taken over by the Ministry of Communications, has signed a contract with the Dollar Steamship Lines to permit the American company to use a new Shanghai short-wave wireless station capable of trans-Pacific communication for company business.

The contract calls for the Dollar company to finance the erection of the station, expected to cost about $25,000. The Shanghai station is expected to be operating by September 1.

The contract runs for ten years, the station to be operated thereafter as government property by the Chinese. It is understood the Chinese may use the station so long as traffic does not interfere with company communications.

The contract is the result of six months of negotiations with the Chinese by the Dollar radio representative, Edgar Wilson, who also obtained the Manila franchise. Wilson's offices are in San Francisco.

The other women were sentenced to terms as long as eight years.

Prank Ends in Youth's Murder

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) July 7. (AP)—A firecracker thrown as a prank today cost the life of Cyril Brown, 16 years of age, and lodged Joseph Biller, 62, in jail on a murder charge.

The youth, it is asserted, tossed a firecracker under Biller's feet. Biller obtained a pistol, shooting the youth in the abdomen. The boy died today and Biller was arrested on a murder charge.

State Department Disclaims Diplomatic Significance

Papal Delegate Just Paid Respects to Hoover

America Not Expected to Send Vatican Envoy

WASHINGTON, July 7. (AP)—The State Department announced tonight that the call of Mgr. Fumasoni Biondi, apostolic delegate in the United States, upon President Hoover last week had no diplomatic significance.

Interpreted in diplomatic circles as a move to end speculation regarding the Vatican-United States relations, the statement said the appointment was made in the routine way and was "merely a matter of courtesy."

The State Department has received no communication from the Italian Embassy," the statement said, "on the subject of the call of the apostolic delegate to the White House. The call has absolutely no political significance. The Papal delegate, who has been absent since the inauguration, made the usual call to pay his usual respects to the incoming President, as has been the case for many administrations past."

The impression continues to be held here that there is no intention on the part of the American government to send any diplomatic representative to the Vatican as a result of the establishment of the Holy See's sovereignty.

EDUCATION FOE OF MATRIMONY

Catholic Divine Says Girls Outstrip Boys

Study Culture While Lads Learn Money-making

Priest Disavows Reported Stand on Vices

CHICAGO, July 7 (AP)—America's educational system is ahrd on matrimony in the belief of Rev. Daniel A. Lord of St. Louis, chairman of the Catholic women's sodality convention in session here. The boys, he said, study things that will teach them to make money while the girls take up "culture."

The result, Father Lord said, is that the girls leave college so much better educated that it is difficult for them to find husbands that interest them.

Rev. G.A.Fitzgibbons, a director of the Catholic women's sodalities, asserted today that the Catholic church condemns immodesty of any kind and frowns on excess in any line of conduct.

He disavowed statements attributed to him in news stories yesterday in which he was quoted as saying that questions of length of skirts, smoking and drinking are matters for young women to solve themselves.

He emphatically denied that he had said the church does not frown on short dresses or "even an occasional drink."

VICTIMS OF DRY RAIDERS FIND BURIAL

Oklahoma Legion Inters Slain Members With Full Military Honors

TECUMSEH (Okla.) July 7. (AP)—While funeral services were conducted at a rural church near here this afternoon for James Harris, 34 years of age, and Oscar Lowery, 34, victims of a liquor raid shooting on Thursday, W. W. Thomason, Federal prohibition agent, and three men who were accompanying him at the time of the shooting, remained in jail under murder charges filed by Randall Pitman, County Attorney.

Pitman meanwhile conducted his investigation of the slaying of the two men, which he has declared was "brutal murder."

Thomason and the three men working with him, Jeff D. Harris, Tom Little and John D. Williams, will be given preliminary hearings Tuesday.

James Harris and Lowery were brothers-in-law and neighboring farmers. Both were veterans of overseas service in the World War and they were accorded military funeral rites by the Shawnee American Legion Post, which has gone on record by resolution as urging "the fullest prosecution possible of those responsible for their deaths."

Jeff Harris told Pitman, the latter said, that he fired the shots which fatally wounded the two farmers. He declared James Harris approached him with a shotgun and that he fired in self-defense. The farmer, before he died, said he was shot after he had thrown down his weapon at the raider's command. Lowery was shot as he started to run, Jeff Harris said.

No liquor was found at the Harris place.

Rome Flyers Prepared for Start Today

NEW YORK, July 7. (AP)—Dr. James H. Kimball, government meteorologist, tonight telephoned a weather report to Lewis A. Yancey, of the crew of the plane Pathfinder, and said Yancey had told him the flyers intended to start from Old Orchard Beach, Me., at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow on their projected flight to Rome.

Dr. Kimball said the flyers should have "considerable wind advantage over the entire ocean, and aside from a few areas of showery weather probably will not meet with any general storms."

Tiny Plane With Large Man Hits

SAN LUIS OBISPO, July 7. (AP)—Fred Philbrick, 30 years of age, who weighs around 200 pounds, went flying today in a small locally constructed plane. Tonight he is in a hospital with grave injuries, possibly a broken back.

His parachute, with which he jumped from 4000 feet when the plane went out of control, likewise proved inadequate. The plane narrowly missed a group of oil tanks as it fell.

Stratton committed suicide.

THEODORE P. SULLIVAN FUNERAL TO BE TODAY

MILWAUKEE, July 7. (AP)—Theodore P. Sullivan, 78 years of age, once prominent in the American and Texas baseball leagues, will be buried here tomorrow. He died at Washington, D. Air Weight Luggage
Open Cockpits
Sky Giants

WHILE aviation has influenced clothing style to some degree, its greatest effect has been shown in luggage. One travels light. Steamer and wardrobe trunks have been reduced almost to pocket editions. Modern air luggage brings out new principles of construction, making for lightness, sturdiness and compactness. The best types we've seen are handbags with modified wardrobe trunk equipment. They hold an extra suit, three or four shirts, changes of underwear, hose, collars, ties, shoes, pajamas, etc., all within the twenty-five pounds allowed without extra charge by the big commercial planes.

* * *

WE consider warmth the important factor in clothes for flying in open cockpit planes, and this feature has been combined with smartness in the capeskin and suede jackets, which are quite military in appearance, having either buttons or zipper fastenings. This jacket is usually worn with riding breeches and a leather helmet, and is by far the most practical attire for flying in an "open job."

THE great three-motored Fokkers of the Western Air Express, flying between San Francisco and Los Angeles, make the clothing problem for commercial flying a comparatively simple one. With large enclosed cabins, entirely windproof, and comfortably padded chairs, there is only the need for clothing such as you would wear for a train or boat trip.

MOST of the "air commuters" we have seen prefer the loose, single-breasted lounge suit, soft collar attached shirts, colorful foulard ties, a lightweight semi-crusher hat, and light weight raglan topcoat. Shoes should be of the fairly heavy brogue type, worn with woolen hose, for oddly enough, only the feet and hands become cold. Gloves are quite necessary, though you will probably shed the topcoat before the trip is over. And don't forget a little absorbent cotton for the ears.

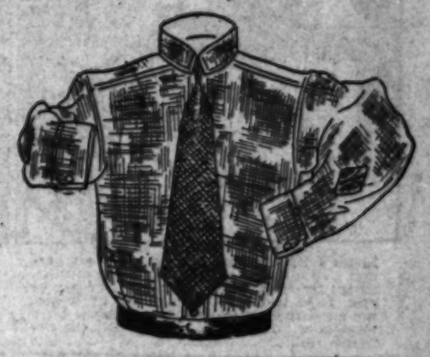
HiHat

The tie and handkerchief set has advanced to quick popularity during the past few weeks. We noticed a new thought in this line, which introduced an interesting combination of black and white. The jacquarded silk tie had a hand blocked pattern which was carried out on the border of the crepe handkerchief. The hose in blending color were in a diagonal check pattern.

At Silverwoods

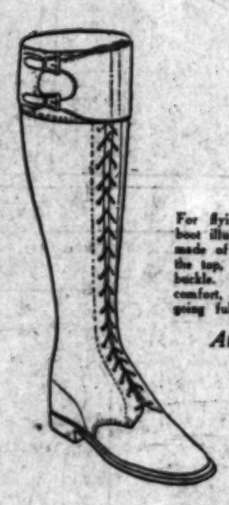
A lightweight robe, which is excellent for air travel because it may be packed in the minimum space, is made of English flannel in a plaid design of two tones of blue. The patch pockets of self material, sleeves, and the shawl collar is also of the body material.

At Matthess in Hollywood



A custom made negligee shirt is made of French Batiste of summer lightness, and having a small all over blue square pattern on a lighter blue field. Note the collar which is a new style, exclusive with this maker, and the smart monogrammed sleeve. The tie is a neat English foulard.

At Machin's
Custom Shirtmaker



For flying in "open-cockpit jobs" the boot illustrated is in great favor. It is made of lightweight calf, 17 inches to the top, which has a double strap and buckle. The leg is shaped for utmost comfort, and the full bellows tongue, going full length is an added feature.

At Wetherby-Kayser

It is truly remarkable the effect that aviation has had on luggage design. Here is a trunk made for air travel which weighs only 17 lbs. yet holds four suits, with room for all accessory clothing and toilet articles. The "Fortniter" shown is covered with glazed linen, bound with black fibre, and metal trimmed. We approve it's suitability for those who travel fast . . . and light.

At B. H. Dyas

Pilots and passengers in open cockpit planes wear this smart aviation jacket of champagne suede. Note the military style with the zipper fastener to the side, the large "dispatch" pocket with smaller pocket over it. The matching helmet fits close over cheekbones to eyes. The breeches are cavalry twill with buckskin knees. . .

At Desmond's

A popular suit with those who "commute" on the great three-motored Fokkers, is a cocoa-tan herringbone Shetland material with a light blue overplaid, smart and informal. This style has the notch lapel and rope shoulder, and full jacquarded silk lining. The waistcoat has the popular "dummy" button.

At Mullen & Bluett

One of the greatest successes of the season is the oxford shirt with the button-down collar attached, shown here. It is both comfortable and smart. The trousers sketched are of plain matt weave flannel, with high waist. The belt is of braided grain leather (another success), and the tie is a green polka dotted foulard.

At Roos Bros., Hollywood

An oxford from England which is being favored, particularly by younger men, for resort wear is a blucher style with a moccasin toe. Extremely comfortable, it is also very smart, coming in white calf, trimmed with either black or tan. It makes a splendid complement to the flannel trouser ensemble.

At Hamilton's

A novelty oxford, for warm weather wear, introduces a new wing tip, and has a light rubber sole and heel. A smart pattern is achieved in the two tones of beige and brown glazed calf. A good shoe for sports and may be worn with informal street clothes.

Lady Paul Dukes Today Becomes Wife of Prince

(Copyright, 1929, by Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, July 7. (Exclusive)—Lady Paul Dukes, nee Margaret Rutherford, daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, will murmur "I do" for the third time tomorrow morning when she weds Prince Charles Murat, son of Prince Murat, who is a descendant of the famous Napoleonic general and head of the Murat house.

Despite the French law which requires the publication of banns, the marriage has been kept a strict secret and will be attended by only a few intimate friends of the two families.

The bride is the former wife of Ogden Mills, former American Undersecretary of the Treasury.

WAGON CRUSHES CHILD

Officer Victim of Unidentifed Chicago Slayer

CHICAGO, July 7. (AP)—Patrolman John L. Sweeney was shot and killed by an unidentified assailant on the near North Side early today.

Although five fellow-officers called to the neighborhood for various causes, were within 100 feet of Sweeney when he fell at the entrance of the alley as he started to pull a patrol box all profess not to have seen his assailant.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

POR EL PROFESOR R. GUERRERO
Encargado de la Sección Española de Este Diario

En el segundo párrafo de mi Plática anterior dice "mescla a todos los negocios", en vez de "se mescla a todos los negocios".

"Hay peste de traductores", sigue diciendo el autor de 'Fray Gerundio de Campazas', "pero casi todas las traducciones son peste: son unas malas y aun perversas traducciones gramaticales, en que, a buen hbrar, queda tan estropeada la lengua traducida como aquella en que se traduce; pues se hace de las dos un pataborrillo que causa asco al estómago francés y da ganas de vomitar al castellano. Ambos desconocen su idioma: cada uno entiende la mitad, pero ninguno todo."

Casi por entero quisiera trasladar aquí, dice don Miguel de Toro, el bellísimo prólogo que para el Diccionario de Galicismos de Baralt escribió el erudito señor Hartzenbusch:

"De loce graduaríamos a un heredero que, sin registrar la casa donde había cómodamente vivido su padre, fuese afanoso de tienda en tienda comprando muebles, colgaduras, alfombras y vasos, y, al poner en su lugar cada pieza, tropezarse con otra tan buena por lo menos como la que traía.

"A este novelero malgastador se asemejan mucho los españoles que, desde principios del siglo XVIII, se empeñan en decir fea y obscuramente con palabras o frases francesas lo que pudieran expresar de un modo clarísimo y elegante atrviéndose de locuciones heredadas de nuestros venerables antepasados."

Tenía Hartzenbusch sobrado motivo para indignarse, pues debió pasar muy malos ratos mientras tuvo que expurgar de los infinitos disparates que la afeaban aquella edición española de "Las Tardes de la Granja", que, a fuerza de mala, llegó a ser famosa a mediados del siglo diecinueve.

A pesar de las censuras de tantos y tan eruditos críticos, hace notar el señor de Toro, siguen hoy campando por su respeto los mismos disparates que anatematizaba Hartzenbusch en el citado prólogo, y otros muchos más.

Sigue habiendo quien traduzca "hielo" por "espejo", "violón" por "violín", "menosprecio" por "equivocación", "desierto" por "postres", etc.

En una novela leí hace años que un caballero señalaba no sé qué cosa "con la punta de su corbata" (francés, "cravache"; español, "látigo"). En una edición catalana de la "Eugenia Grandet" de Balzac se encuentran bellezas como "unas tijeras de coral" (francés, "vermeil"; español, "plata dorada").

En una novela publicada hace algunos años por una casa de París se encontraban bellezas como la siguiente: "La niña jugaba con el sable" (francés, "sable"; español, "arena"); "en el punto redondo de los Campos Elíseos" (francés "rond point"; español, "plazoleta, encrucijada").

En cierta traducción española de las "Memorias de Ultratumba" de Chateaubriand, encontró mi padre hace algunos años, relata el señor de Toro, verdaderas enormidades: "Colocaron el centinela a caballo en lo alto de la escalera" (francés, "en haut de l'escalier en fer a cheval"; español, "en lo alto de la escalera de herradura"). "Los criados bostezaron toda la noche al son del tamboril" (francés, "baillèrent"; español, "bailaron", confundido con "baillèrent", "bostezaron"). "Toser de alto abajo" (francés, "tòiser"; español, "medir") es frecuente en las traducciones bárbaras que nos inundan.

En una novela de Dumas vertida a la jerigonza acostumbrada, refiere el autor que un ladrón se apoderó de un "ostensorio" (francés, "ostensoir"; español, "custodia"). En otra ocasión cuenta que un individuo sacó de su bolsillo "una rueda de detrás" (un peso).

Esto sin contar los infinitos casos en que el traductor, sabiendo poco castellano, pero menos francés, toma el rábano por las hojas.

Lo que más llama la atención en la traducción de los títulos de novelas francesas. En este orden de ideas se pueden citar verdaderas monstruosidades.

A Balzac le han hecho algunos autor de "Cuentos droláticos" y de "La casa del gato que pelotea".

El "Petit Chose", de Daudet, se ha convertido en "Poquita Cosa" para el público español, porque el que lo tradujo no sabía que "Chose" en francés significa familiarmente "Fulano", y que "Le Petit Chose" quiere decir "Fulanito". Para que fuera lo que se figuró el traductor, hubiera debido decir en francés: "Petite Chose."

"La fille Elisa", de Goncourt, ha dado mucho que hacer a los que se metieron a traduciria al castellano. El más acertado tituló su libro sencillamente: "La Elisa". Hay otra traducción que se titula: "La ramera Elisa", y otro, aún más dejado de la mano de Dios, ha sustituido la voz "ramera" por otra más soez. ¡Qué sofocación hubiera llevado el delicadísimo escritor que fue Goncourt si llega a enterarse de semejante atentado.

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

THE RETURN OF TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

In the brief wild dance preceding their departure, Tarzan leaped and shouted as one of them. Except for color, he was a savage among savages. Lithe and active as a young forest god, the ape-man laughed and joked with the black warriors as, in single file, they followed the elephants' trail.

A grin of amusement showed his strong white teeth as Tarzan thought of his civilized friends. If they could see him now! "How quickly have I fallen," he thought. But in his heart he did not consider it a fall. Rather, he pitied THEM, penned up like prisoners in their silly clothes, slaves to tiresome tasks and artificial pleasures.

Quietly for hours they crept along. Then Tarzan's sensitive nose warned him the elephants were not far ahead. Nimbly he sprang into a tree and from its top saw the great herd. He moved silently through the leafy way. Below in a half-circle the warriors closed in upon the still unsuspecting beasts.

At a signal the men arose from concealment, hurling their heavy war-spears at two marked beasts. One rolled to the ground without a struggle, the other, wounded, trumpeted with rage and pain as he charged for Busuli, his nearest warrior-enemy. Tarzan raced toward the infuriated elephant. Only a miracle could save his friend.

SEEKS GOLFING HONORS OF ELKDOM

Among the star golfers teeing off in the first national B.P.O.E. tournament at Sunset Fields today will be Frank Deleot, shown here. Deleot toured the course yesterday in 75 and looms as one of the leading contenders for the title which is to be decided on fifty-four holes of play. The Wilshire Country Club player is a member of the local lodge team which is also out gunning for the team trophy.

HERD GOLFERS TEE OFF TODAY

National Championship Play Gets Under Way

Two Rounds Scheduled for Sunset Fields

Monterey Team Looks Good in Squad Competition

BY BRAVEN DYER

The spacious fairways of Sunset Fields will be swarming with members of the antlered herd this morning when the first National Elks' Golf Tournament gets under way. Provided the brethren have not been too boisterous in their whoopee engagements of the night before, play is slated to start promptly at 8:30 when the first foursome will tee off.

Two types of competition will be under way simultaneously. Individually the Elks are playing to see who is the champion of these United States. Collectively, in teams of four men, they are battling to find out which city has the best combination of the bunch.

GO TO RANCHO

In order to win the individual trophy it will be necessary for one of the brethren to travel 54 holes and finish with the lowest gross score recorded. There are 18 holes today, 18 more tomorrow at Sunset Fields and the final 18 Wednesday at Rancho.

As for the team competition it will consist of but 36 holes, being concluded with the playing of tomorrow's round at Sunset Fields. The J. J. Doyle Perpetual Trophy goes to team having the best combined low gross total.

Monterey, Long Beach, Glendale and Los Angeles are believed to have the strongest teams entered. Monterey won the State Elks championship last year at Santa Barbara and is represented by the same four golfers today. They are Bill Kynock, Earl Fadden, Archie Sanches and Glen Littlefield. Kynock and Fadden are three handicap men while the other two carry four.

Long Beach has a sweet-looking combination in "Mississippi" Jones, J. F. Rothwell, Earl Cody and Ralph Kolle. These four played the Sunset Fields No. 2 course yesterday, Rothwell having a 75, Cody a 78, and the other two, 77's.

The Monterey delegation also toured the course yesterday afternoon, all registering in the middle 70's. Kynock and Sanches are pow-

RAIN HALTS HOOSIER TENNIS

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) July 7. (AP)—Rain today prevented any play in the national clay court singles and doubles championship tennis tournament here.

J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., and the winner of the Bryant M. Grant-Emmett Pare semifinals match will meet for the singles title tomorrow. Rain yesterday drove Grant, who lives in Atlanta, and Pare, Chicago, from the courts when Grant had two sets to one and a 9-to-8 game lead in the fourth set.

One quarter-finals match, the semifinals and the finals also remain to be played in the doubles. Rain throughout the week slowed the play.

Stars Drop Both Ends of Double-Header to Sacs but Win Series Laurels, 5 to 2

SACRAMENTO, July 7.—Hollywood was stopped by Sacramento in both games of today's double-header by scores of 2 to 0 and 7 to 6. In spite of the twin defeat, the Stars grabbed the series by a margin of five games to two, one of the contests of the series going to a tie.

In the morning game at Stockton, Johns and Vinci got together in a stirring pitching duel, with the edge going to Vinci. Johns allowed six hits and Vinci five.

Quite in contrast, the nightcap was a good old - fashioned slugfest. The Isns saw a parade of seven hurlers to the pitching mound. Both of the starting pitchers, Wetzel and Bryan, left before the contest was over, Bryan under pressure and Wetzel for a pinch hitter. Frank Shellenback, who blanked the Senators earlier in the week, hurled in the ninth inning, and was charged with the defeat, through no fault of his own.

ALMOST HERO

Big Bill Rumler would have been the hero of the game, had the Shieks won. Coming up as a pinch hitter in the eighth inning with the bases full and his team trailing, 3 to 0, he hit the first ball that Bryan served him over the left-field fence.

As it was, the game went along to see "Red" Rollings, who has played a bang-up game here all week, turn out to be the goat in the final inning. Shellenback was two runs to the good when the ninth inning opened. He filled the bases with nobody out and walked Osborn to force in a run.

Severeid popped to Lee and then Camilli rolled to Rollings. Red tagged third base and in an attempt

DUCKS BEATEN IN SLUGFESTS

Walsh, Baecht Twirl Locals to 14-4, 10-1 Wins

Seraphs Capture Series by Margin of 7 to 1

Walter Berger Clouts Home Runs in Both Tilts

BY BOB RAY

Truck Hannah, the acting skipper of the Angels, steered the good ship Los Angeles out in front of the Coast League's second half race yesterday, pilotting the Seraphs to a couple of victories over the terrible Ducks from Portland, 14 to 4, and 10 to 1, in the customary Sabbath bill.

The Ducks were pushovers in both contests, the brilliant hurling of Augie Walsh and Ed Baecht and the heavy hitting of the Cherubins proving too much of a combination for them to even come close to cracking.

Baecht, the big right-hander, recently signed by the Angels after the Phillies had turned him adrift, chalked up his third straight victory in the nightcap, stopping the Ducks in impressive fashion. Baecht blanked the Portlanders until the seventh, when two of the Ducks' five hits, a walk and Jahn's sacrifice fly, permitted them to score a lone run. In his last three games Baecht has allowed but seventeen hits and looks like a life-saver for the shaky Seraph mound staff.

Walter Berger clouted out home runs in both games, bringing his total of circuit clouts to twenty-three for the season. Carl Dittmar, Charley Bates and Buck Walters also conected for the circuit in the first game.

FIFTEEN FOR WALSH

In the first game Walsh turned in his fifteenth victory of the year. Augie yielded only four hits in eight rounds, giving way to let Dick Schultz, the former U.S.C. pitcher, make his Angel debut in the ninth. Schultz, a big right-hander, blanked the Ducks in the ninth. Walters beating out a bunt on Haney for Portland's fifth hit in the opener. The former Trojan was as cool as an Eskimo's back yard and exhib-

WESTERN AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY OPENS TODAY

KANSAS CITY, July 7. (AP)—Western amateur entrants today played their last practice rounds over the Mission Hills course and tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock the quest for the 1929 championship will begin.

A rain last night helped the course, already a mass of beautiful undulating fairway and well-trimmed greens. Players today found the greens a bit slow but otherwise perfect.

Golfers face a problem on the first hole, a 317-yard par 4. They may either play a dog leg or shoot over the towering trees to the left of the fairway. Numbers 4, 10, 11 and 13 are par 5 holes, while par 3 holes are the sixth, ninth and fourteenth. The total yardage is 6351 with the last nine nearly 200 yards longer than the outward trip. Par out is 35, in 37.

Among those mentioned as probable successors to the crown left undefended by Frank Delp of Portland, Or., are Chick Evans, Chicago, an eight-time winner in the tournament; Robert McCrary of Des Moines, winner of the trans-Mississippi and a last-minute entry; Don Moe of Portland, Or.; Keefe Carter, Oklahoma City, and winner in 1925, and A. L. Novotny, Chicago, runner-up to Delp last year.

Don Moe had the low practice score today, a 68, four under par and only two over the amateur course record of 66 established several years ago by Jay Ward of Kansas City. Ward is entered in the tournament. Chick Evans today had a 74.

MIDWICK FOUR TRIUMPHS

Neil McCarthy Plays Star Role as Purple Polo Team Defeats Uplifters, 9-6

Neil McCarthy uncorked a dazzling brand of polo yesterday at the Rustic Canyon Field to lead the twelve-goal Pacific Coast championship Midwick four to their second straight mallet victory over the Uplifters' Ranch team.

McCarthy rode on ponies that seemed to have winged feet and his brilliant stroking netted Midwick five goals on McCarthy's score sheet alone. The Midwick riders captured the game by a 9-to-6 margin.

One of the most spectacular moments of the polo conflict came in the sixth chukker when Will Rogers, America's noted humorist, who was playing No. 1 for the Uplifters, was thrown from his pony and almost seriously injured. Rogers's horse slipped out from under Rogers and tossed Will on his back. Rogers resumed the game immediately and was given a big hand by the crowd, which incidentally was the biggest of the summer.

The game was hard fought from the opening throw-in. At half-time the score stood 4 to 3, with Midwick leading. The superior teamwork of Midwick four and McCarthy's sensational playing gave the Purple four an edge in the last four chukkers.

Snowy Baker, Will Rogers and Hal Roach played a fine game for the losing team.

C. B. Wrightsman, Dr. Wilson and Howland Paddock clicked very well with McCarthy in the Midwick victory, as did the ponies of the winners, who kicked across two goals.

BLUE STREAK IV STARS IN OUTBOARD CONTESTS

LAKE ARROWHEAD, July 7. (Exclusive)—Dr. Leo M. Baughman's Blue Streak No. IV, which holds five world's records with H. G. Ferguson behind the wheel, came back today to show that she is one of the fastest craft of her type in any man's water.

She won four firsts, one second, one third and one fourth before calling it a day. Yesterday this blue and white craft failed to show anything. Last night Ferguson was tuning her up long after dark had settled. Today she showed her stuff.

Crandall Comet, Johnny Adams at the wheel, and T. Tupman's Miss Hupmobile, fought it out for class second total honors here in the finals of the Lake Arrowhead, mile-high outboard championships. Adams, who holds the world's record for class B, took two firsts, a second and third, while Miss Hupmobile took a pair of firsts, a second, third and fourth place.

Because of the heavy ripple yesterday, today's finals started early. The course was changed and the

JACK DE LARA ANNEXES MUNICIPAL NET CROWN

Stroking easily through straight sets, Jack De Lara, tennis captain of the University of Southern California freshman team, yesterday afternoon defeated Charles Weesner, his partner in doubles, 6-0, 6-1, 6-4, to win the singles championship in the third annual municipal tennis tournament held on the Griffith Park courts under the auspices of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce Playground Department. De Lara was given no difficulty whatever until the last set, when his opponent managed to cop four games.

The women's singles title was won by Gladys Pala, who conquered Elizabeth Dalke in a closely fought match, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. In the men's doubles tourney, both the semifinal and final rounds were played off yesterday at Griffith Park. Stoefen and Weldon mastered De Lara and Weesner in four sets to win the titular doubles crown, 6-4, 6-3, 4-6, 10-8. In the semifinals, De Lara and Weesner took the measure of Guilford and Paige in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4. Stoefen and Weldon took the other semifinal match, by defeating Mahoney and Scholz, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Tod Morgan Will be in Shape for Bout With Goldie Hess at Olympic Tomo

CHAMPION RECOVERS FROM HURT SUSTAINED IN GYM

Ocean Park Youngster Will be Able to Make Necessary Weight for Battle Tomorrow Night

Tod Morgan will be in shape for his bout tomorrow night at the Olympic against Goldie Hess in spite of a slight injury sustained in the gymnasium last Friday.

The injury proved to be a minor one. It was caused from a bump with a sparring partner in his last workout.

TOD MORGAN

Morgan, like Bud Taylor, has gone into many a major contest with slight injuries. He is a seasoned campaigner and cuts and breaks mean little to him.

Hess will be over 130 pounds for the weighing-in Tuesday which was the chief thing that concerned Morgan. The bout is not for the title.

UNDER WEIGHT

There was some talk that Hess might not be able to lift his poundage over the junior lightweight limit to save his forfeit. The little "Ocean Park Paulino" was under 130 for both the Santiago Zorilla and Taylor matches.

Due to the fact that Hess spilled the dope when he beat Zorilla and drew with Taylor he is not such a bad short-ender in the betting against the champion.

Morgan rules a 10-7 choice which is more reasonable than the 3-to-1 odds placed on Zorilla and Taylor against Hess.

Hess is the fighter who comes to life from the fifth round on and takes the fight away from his opponents. He has won sixty-six fights in sixty-eight starts and is not yet at his best.

Eddie Mack, the Denver Regis College boy who won a decision from Morgan last January, arrived here last Saturday and opens training today at the Manhattan gymnasium.

Mack, who meets Baby Sal Sorio at the Olympic the 16th inst., graduated last week from Regis College and will enter Loyola University in Chicago this fall to study law.

OUTDOOR CAMP

Sal has established an outdoor camp at Long Beach, but will do all his boxing at the local gymnasiums for the match. Mack holds a decision over Mickey Cohen, the boy whom Sal defeated here by a technical knockout.

Dick Daniels, the Minneapolis Dane, will open light training in a few days for the rematch with Yale Okun the 23rd inst. Their first fight which ended in a technical kayo last week when Daniels's mouth was cut was the best exhibition of big men seen here for a long time.

Daniels is confident he can stop Okun in a return engagement and asked for the match. The youngster is the most dashing and hardest-hitting heavyweight around California at the present time.

Trojans Have Great Record on Gridiron

With two important intersectional games on its football schedule for next fall, these with the Notre Dame and Carnegie Tech teams, University of Southern California's eleven may find it difficult to keep up the splendid record it has made in intersectional contests during the past six years.

Since the Trojans started playing intersectional games on New Year's Day, 1923, when they defeated Penn State in the Pasadena Rose Bowl, they have hung up the excellent mark of five victories and only two defeats in this type of competition. Besides Penn State, victims of the Southern Californians have been Syracuse, Missouri and Iowa. Notre Dame was beaten once, but the Irish hold both intersectional victories over S.C., both wins being by 1-point margins.

1923—S.C.	14	Penn State	3
1924—S.C.	16	Syracuse	0
1925—S.C.	20	Missouri	0
1926—S.C.	27	Iowa	6
1925—S.C.	13	Notre Dame	12
1927—S.C.	7	Notre Dame	6
1928—S.C.	27	Notre Dame	14
	113		44

Won, 5; lost, 2; percentage, .714.

One of the Trojans' intersectional contests for next season will be played at home and one will be staged at Chicago. Knute Rockne's famous Notre Dame eleven will be met at Chicago November 16, while the Carnegie Tech squad will be faced in the Los Angeles Coliseum December 14.

MERMEN SILENT ON TRIP TO TORONTO

VENICE, July 7. (Exclusive)—The days slip by and still no definite word comes from the local trio of professionals as to whether they will make the long trip to Toronto for the world's professional swimming championship and the $25,000 in cash prizes offered by William Wrigley and the Canadian National Exhibition.

The local trio who have made considerable of a name for themselves in aquatic ranks, consist of Myron Cox, Seward Holley and Mark Wheeler. Cox is the local lifeguard captain under the Los Angeles Playground Division. Wheeler is a motorcycle cop, and Holley is a patrolman who punishes the scales to the extent of 290 pounds.

All three men have captured much money and honor in the past in swimming at Alameda, Catalina Island and Toronto. Wheeler was second at Alameda's $1500 swim last year, while Cox was sixth at Toronto to capture a prize of $2500.

MRS. VAN SKIKE GETS SET FOR SWIM TRIAL

SANTA MONICA, July 7. (Exclusive)—Although she has not yet decided definitely just how, where, nor when she will stage her sixty-ninth birthday celebration swim, Mrs. Anna E. Van Skike, world's long-distance swimming champion for her age, is swimming daily in the ocean and Venice plunge in preparation for whatever aquatic undertaking she decides upon.

Each year since her fifty-fifth birthday, Mrs. Van Skike has entertained thousands of spectators by swimming from one to sixteen miles, according to her inclination, the state of the weather and the tides. It may be that Mrs. Van Skike will make her swim this year off Long Beach or some other coast resort other than the bay district. Until she decides definitely in this regard, however, she will continue with her daily practicing.

WESTWARD RACE WINNER

Plumb Brothers' Craft Nabs Blue Class Event; Barbara J Wins Star Dash at Newport

NEWPORT BAY, July 7.—Westward, skippered by the Plumb brothers and the Barbara J with Hook Beardsley at the stick won the Star Boat elimination round staged here today. The Westward won the race in the Blue class and the Barbara J copped the honors in the Red class.

A heavy wind and a choppy sea played havoc with a number of the contestants in the series. Five boats had the riggings carried away and were forced out of the competition.

Today's race was the second leg in the Star-Boat elimination series which the Newport Harbor Yacht Club is staging. Twelve boats started in the Blue class and ten in the Red here today.

The Hillman brothers sailed the Regulas into second place in the Blue class. Walton Hubbard, former International Star Boat champion, finished third with his Tempe III in the Blue class.

Western Star, with Andy Merrill as pilot, was second in the Red Class, and the Moira was third. Jack Denman sailed the Moira.

Today's races were held over a triangular course over which the boats sailed three times around, covering ten and one-half miles.

The Peal II captured the honors in the Snowbird class. Ptarmigan was second and the Curlew third.

The winner of Newport's series will be sent to New Orleans for the international championships.

SOUNDS RIOT CALL TO GET COIN

Manager Hendricks Hints at Disorders With Hack Wilson as Guest of Honor When Cubs Visit Reds' Ball Park; Sock on Chin May Cut Rust on Cincy Turnstiles

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, July 7.—Dissatisfied with the fine of $100 and the three days' suspension imposed on Hack Wilson of the Cubs for tapping one of his boys on the chin, Jack Hendricks, the manager of the Reds, hints at disorders, with Wilson as the guest of honor, when the Cubs visit his ball park in Cincinnati for a double-header in August.

HACK WILSON.

Mr. Hendricks is a sensitive leader, capable of enthusiastic irritation and no doubt he is sincerely aroused at what he calls the triviality of sentence. Still it may have occurred to him that a promise of unrest in conjunction with the double-header would be just the thing to assure the financial success of the baseball exhibition.

Mr. Hendricks's club has been enjoying poor business for some time and ordinarily the citizens of Cincinnati may regard the idea of a double header as something more on the order of a threat than a promise. While Mr. Hendricks might not wish to commercialize his wrath, I do not believe his conscience would be troubled by a whirring of the turnstiles on the date mentioned. The whirring of the turnstiles has been a forgotten sound in Cincinnati for some time.

Unfortunately for Hack Wilson, he is only a salaried employee of a corporation. Consequently, the occasion will be just another working day for him when the turnstiles whirr, assuming that they do whirr, in Cincinnati. If he were employed on a percentage he might enjoy the unrest more heartily, although he seems to be a robust young man who regards disorder as one of the major sports.

It would be quite easy for the Cincinnati firm to keep the customers reminded of their indignation against Hack Wilson for socking Ray Kolp until the date of the double-header, August 25. But it looks as though Mr. Hendricks had overspoken himself at the outset and I look for apologies, denials and disavowals in the meantime which will militate against the success of the proposed riot. Mr. Hendricks is a lawyer by trade and some time between this time and August 25 he will think up on his legal responsibility in the matter of inciting the customers to hurl loose furniture out of the stands at Hack Wilson. As an attorney, he will perceive that anything which might befall Wilson would be chargeable to him personally and to the baseball firm which he represents.

Some time soon, it will develop that Jack only said that he hoped the customers would treat Hack Wilson with chivalry and courtesy due an opponent in the great national game.

In view of Mr. Hendricks's complaint that the punishment does not fit the crime in Wilson's case, this would be a good time to standardize the price of tapping chins in baseball. Wilson tapped Kolp only once and $100 seems a fair figure. The defendant is one of the strongest men in the game, but sometimes these strong men are muscle bound and cannot tap with much emphasis.

Doeg Defeated at Montclair

MONTCLAIR (N. J.) July 7. (AP)—Gregory Mangin of Georgetown won the men's singles crown in the New Jersey State championships today, defeating Bruce Barnes of Austin, Tex., in the final round, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Mangin had gained his way into the finals by eliminating Frank Shields of the Roxbury School, Ct., 6-3, 0-6, 6-3. While Barnes was upsetting John Doeg, eighth ranking player in the United States, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

CRACKED RIB KEEPS COCHRANE AT HOME

CHICAGO, July 7. (AP)—A cracked rib, received in the Washington-Philadelphia series, is keeping Mickey Cochrane, Philadelphia Athletics first-string catcher, one of the present series with the White Sox, it was learned here today.

Cochrane was struck by a pitched ball, and though at first the injury was not thought to be serious closer examination disclosed the bone injury. He is expected to return to the line-up within a short time, it was said.

EVENING POLO IN SPOTLIGHT

Mallet Squads to Play Here Thursday Night

Coliseum Game Will be Held on Elks' Program

Hal Roach, Snowy Baker to Captain Rival Teams

BY FRANK ROCHE

Night polo will be introduced to Southern California and the visiting Elks Thursday evening at the Coliseum. The game which will proceed the million dollar electric pageant is expected to be one of the high spots on the sixty-fifth national convention program of the Elks. Six of the leading mallet stars now performing on the summer polo schedule here will put on their best bibs and tuckers and trot out the pick of the ponies now performing at the Uplifters Club for the entertainment of the 100,000 antlered visitors.

HAL ROACH

Hal Roach, motion-picture magnate, and southpaw polo star, will captain an Uplifters three against a team led by Snowy Baker, Australian athletic marvel, which will be known as the Buccaneers. Roach will have as his team-mates Will Rogers, Jr. and Clair Brunson. Baker's side kicks will be Long Jim Colt and C. B. Wrightsman.

Night polo has never been played in the West. The game which is staged under the same rules as the regulation contests under the sunlight is identical with the exception that the teams are cut to three players apiece instead of four and the time limit is cut to four chukkers. The regulation game is an eight-chukker affair.

In presenting the game here for the first time the polo officials picked an opportune spot. It gives them a chance to bring one of the most thrilling of modern sports into the spotlight. Thousands who have never seen a polo game will be able to get an idea of the modus operandi of this sport.

Two hundred thousand dollars' worth of the finest polo ponies in the nation will be paraded before the Coliseum audience before and during the game. The Wrightsman string is perhaps as good as any in the world. Several of the ponies that Wrightsman uses, and which will be played in the Coliseum game were featured in the last international series between the United States and Argentina.

KUCK'S SHOT RECORD BEATEN BY HIRSCHFELD, GERMAN STAR

BERLIN, July 7. (AP)—Emil Hirschfeld, of Allenstein, German shot put star, bettered the world's record for specialty at a sports meet here, tossing the sixteen-pound ball 16 meters, 11 centimeters, or 52ft., 10 17-64 inches.

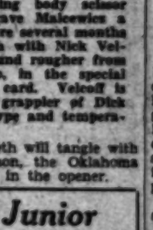
The accepted world's record for the sixteen-pound shot put is 52ft., 3-4in., set in the 1928 Olympics by John Kuck of the United States.

LUTZE AFTER TITLE GO

Nick Faces Malcewicz Wednesday to Strengthen Claim as Sonnenberg's Outstanding Rival

Whether or not Nick Lutze is California's outstanding title contender will be decided at the Olympic Wednesday night when the local mat idol clashes with Joe Malcewicz, the sensational Utican, in the best two out of three-fall finish feature event of Lou Daro's wrestling show.

Lutze posted a $5000 certified check with the State Athletic Commission here almost a month ago to guarantee his ring appearance against the champion of any topnotcher in the game, and as a result he is recognized in many quarters as the leading contender from this State for a title match. Stanley Stasiak, who questioned Lutze's position here and came to the Coast from Boston to relieve the young mat idol of his honors, was beaten decisively in an hour's time.



NICK LUTZE.

Mat experts here declare that if Lutze beats Malcewicz Wednesday night it will not only make him the undisputed title contender from California, but it will also bring his ring prestige on a par with that of those very fast mat stars who have beaten such grapplers as Joe Stecher, Martin Plestina and nearly every other topnotcher in the game. That is Malcewicz's record. He has been defeated but few times in his colorful career, and that is one of the reasons why mat critics are making him a slight favorite to beat

ANGELS IN FIRST PLACE

Seraphs Down Ducks Twice, 14-4 and 10-1, to Run Winning Streak to Seven Straight

ited a fast one that the Ducks could not solve. He looks like a fine prospect and the fans gave him quite a hand.

Joe Cascarella and Roy Mahaffey were the starting Portland hurlers and victims of the Angel batting assaults. Cascarella gave way to a navy hurler by the name of Posedell, who is being tried out by Bill Rodgers.

Between games Bates, Portland's rifle-arm center-fielder, attempted to break the baseball-throwing record, but fell short quite a bit. Bates's best heave in six throws was 324ft. 10in., while the record, established in 1919 at Cincinnati by Sheldon LeJune, is 426ft. 9½in.

After the six throws were over, Bates took one more toss, which went farther out, but it was not measured.

The Angels got a one-run jump in the first inning of the nightcap, doubles by Haney and Webb producing a tally.

Mahaffey was nicked for three more markers in the third on a walk to Haney, Statz's single, Webb's triple and Berger's infield out. Warren got hit by a pitched ball in the fourth and completed the circuit on Baecht's bunt and Statz's single. Hits by Jacobs and Dittmar, a force play at second and Hassler's wild throw added a sixth run to the Cherub total in the fifth.

STAGE SLUGGING SPREE

The Angels put on a slugging demonstration in the sixth to chalk up their last four runs. Triples by Haney and Jacobs, a home run by Berger, Webb's single and a muffed fly by Bates completed the Portland rout.

With one away in the seventh, Walters singled and Woodall followed with another safety. Ostenberg walked and then Jahn hit a sacrifice fly that scored Walters and robbed Baecht of his shutout.

Hannah's charges had an easy time winning the opener, a seven-run barrage off Cascarella in the second inning psutting the game on ice.

The Angels began piling up runs in the first inning of the opener, Walter Berger hitting his twenty-second homer of the season with Webb on third after two were out for a couple of counters.

Portland picked up a run in the second when Walters homed over the left-field wall with two away.

Then came the seven-run Angel second, during which Cascarella failed to retire any of the first eight batters to face him. It looked as though the inning might go on indefinitely, but Cascarella finally retired three in a row, to close the lengthy round.

Ray Jacobs began the big inning by drawing a walk and Dittmar followed with a hit to left. Sandberg hit to Hassler, whose throw to force Dittmar was dropped by Odell, all hands being safe and the sacks loaded. Walsh, who is one of those rare individuals who doesn't believe that pitchers shouldn't hit, cracked a sizzling double to left center, Jacobs and Dittmar scoring. Haney scratched a hit off Richards's glove to bring Sandberg home. Statz smashed an infield safety of Cascarella's glove to again fill the bases. Earl Webb drove a long one off the leftfield wall, Walsh and Haney scoring. Statz reaching third and Webb second on the throw-in. Berger walked to fill the bases for the third time of the round. Tolson and Jacobs, however, were infield outs, Statz and Webb scoring. Cascarella fanned Dittmar for the third out and departed for the showers after taking his time at bat in third.

Posedell, a young rookie from the Navy being tried out by Bill Rodgers, took the mound for Portland in the third and finished the game.

Walsh served up another home run ball in the sixth and Bates lined it into the right-field bleachers to make the score 14 to 2.

The Ducks made their last two runs in the seventh on a walk to Jahn, Walters's double off the bleachers, Rego's infield hit and Tolson's error.

Dick Schultz, the former U.S.C. right-hander, hurled the ninth for Los Angeles and handed the Ducks a blank. The scores:

Foul Tips

Walter Berger topped off a profitable week at the plate by hitting home runs in both of yesterday's games. That gives Berger twenty-two circuit wallops for the season. Berger made a total of seventeen safeties during the week against Portland pitching.

• • •

Ed Baecht looks better every time out. The big right-hander whom the Angels signed as a free agent this year, turned in his third straight win yesterday in the nightcap. Baecht has allowed but four runs and seventeen hits in his last three successful starts.

• • •

Truck Hannah is still managing 1.000. Hannah took charge of the Cherubs Saturday and has piloted them to three wins in a row, the Angels extending their winning streak to seven straight.

• • •

Marty Krug was a visitor at Wrigley Field yesterday and sat with Joe Patrick in a box near the Angel dugout during part of the twin bill. Marty says he is enjoying his first summer vacation in twenty years.

• • •

Buck Walters, the Duck right fielder, was the only Portlander able to do much against Angel pitching yesterday. Walters got five hits of the ten Portland safeties.

• • •

Dick Schultz, the Trojan collegian, made his Angel debut in the ninth inning and retired the opposing side in order without scoring. Walters beat out a bunt on Haney for the only hit off Schultz, who exhibited a good fast one. Schultz didn't get nervous at all, which is something in favor of the young right-hander, who was making his first appearance in organized ball.

• • •

Baecht retired the side on three pitched balls in the sixth. Mahaffey hit the first one for a single, Bates hit into a double play, Jacobs to Tolson on the third pitch.

Whitehill Turns in Great Mound Exhibition

CHICAGO, July 7. (AP)—The White Sox took their second straight game from the Athletics, 9 to 3, today. Some airtight pitching by Ted Lyons and timely hitting by the Comiskey team were the principal factors in the Chicago triumph. The Sox blasted George Earnshaw from the mound in the first inning when they counted five runs, to take a lead they never lost. Bill Cissell and Willie Kamm, high-priced infielders, accounted for most of the ferociousness of the White Sox attack. The score:

HOYT ROUTED

ST. LOUIS, July 7. (AP)—The Browns evened the series with the New York Yankees here today, winning 7 to 2, behind the effective pitching of Alvin Crowder. Crowder had held the Yanks to three hits when in the seventh he was hit on the left wrist by a line drive off Dickey's bat and was forced to retire from the game. It was announced that he suffered a possible fracture of the left forearm. Chet Kimsey, who finished the game for the Browns, kept the Yankee hits well scattered. Hoyt was driven from the box by the Browns in the eighth inning. The score:

HOMERS WIN

DETROIT, July 7. (AP)—Earl Whitehill held Washington to four hits here today, while the Tigers were manufacturing nine runs out of eight hits and Detroit won, 9 to 1. Fred Marberry was charged with the defeat, although Irving Hadley, who succeeded him on the mound, was touched for two home runs, a double and two walks in the one inning he pitched. The homers were made by Fothergill and Alexander, the first two men to face Hadley.

OIL and MINING

PRODUCING & REFINING — IN THE EARTH

ANTICLINE IDEA GETS STRENGTH

Ventura-Avenue Field May be Developed on East

First Theory Given Further Proof in Oil Showings

V. L. & W. No. 12 at 4300 Feet Has Indications

Further indication that the anticline of the Ventura-avenue oil field is twisted to the southeast of present production, on the east side, is gathered from reports to the effect that the Associated Oil Company's V. L. & W. No. 12 well, farthest east and south in the district, has good oil and gas showings in the ditch, at 4300 feet. It is asserted that these showings indicate that production at that point is likely to be shallower than at points on the large Lloyd lease, where the dome of the field was believed for years to be.

The V. L. & W. No. 12 is 1500 feet east and 400 feet south of the Associated's Lloyd No. 101 in Hall's Canyon. This well is the farthest east producer in the field. The V. L. & W. is thought to give considerable support to the belief that production will be developed in the wildcat Sexton No. 1 now being drilled on the extreme eastern side of the field by the Federal Oil Company.

Federal recently suffered a collapse of the twenty-inch surface casing in this well and had to plug the hole with cement and redrill for a considerable distance in order to take a fresh start by setting eleven-inch casing. Hole is now proceeding at 4800 feet.

On the south flank the Pacific Western Oil Company is plugging back to about 4800 feet in its Willett No. 5 after having drilled it to 5025 feet in search of deep production. The deep stuff failed to materialize and water trouble caused the drillers to go back up for a test. Some geologists believe that deep production here failed because of a faulted condition of the field which, it is said, can be traced down onto the south flank from away up on the Gosnell lease.

Arizona Silver Mine Showing Rich Returns

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) July 7. (Exclusive)—Smelter returns on the eighth carload of ore shipped this year from the Swastika Extension mine, in the Peck district, have just been received. These shipments have netted the company $50,000. The values are chiefly silver.

Practically all the ore shipped is extracted by one man working in the lower tunnel where a five-foot vein was struck last winter. The rich streak is only about six inches wide, however. A fairly large force is employed but the other men are all working on development.

The Swastika Extension parallels the Peck, a famous silver producer of early days.

APEX MINE WORK AGAIN IN PROGRESS

Seventeen-Foot Body of Ore Exposed Carrying Good Commercial Values

Officials of the Imperial Mining Company, returning from a visit to company holdings at Oatman, Ariz., including the Western Apex mine on the Tom Reed-United Eastern vein system, report that work has been resumed on the 500-foot level of the Apex, where a seventeen-foot body of ore was exposed in the performance of previous development work, and reported to carry good commercial values ranging from $15 to $25 in gold to the ton.

It is the intention, the management states, fully to develop this vein to the east along its strike, blocking out the ore body to determine its full extent and value. From the 500-foot level a drift also will be driven west, through the fault, for the purpose of opening up an ore body known to exist in that section. It is expected it will require from twenty to sixty feet of work to make this connection.

Conditions at the mine are excellent, Manager George W. Long says, and the workings are dry and easily accessible down to the 700-foot level. The modern equipment hoisting plant and mine machinery have been limbered up and found to be in good shape for future extensive mining operations.

Some water was found in the sump below the 700-foot station in the shaft, but this will cause no inconvenience, and can be applied to mining machinery needs. The company will carry on an exhaustive campaign of mine development and exploratory work this summer and may be on a regular ore-producing basis in the near future.

RICH VEIN OF COPPER DISCOVERED

Strike Made at Sheldon Superior Mine at Depth of 200 Feet

SUPERIOR (Ariz.) July 7. (Exclusive)—A showing regarded as the best ever found at the Sheldon Superior mine, owned by Chase Mines, Inc., has just been opened there on the 200-foot level. This vein is reported to be wide and rich in copper. Details are being withheld by the management pending further development.

On the 300-foot level the Sheldon Superior is looking considerably better. The zinc content has practically disappeared, thus reducing the cost of recovering the copper from the ore.

The Chase Company is making heavy investments in a 200-ton mill and other improvements. One 100-ton unit is almost ready for operation, and a second is to be installed, probably not later than September 1. The bunkhouse, now capable of accommodating thirty men, will be trebled in capacity.

Arizona Mine Claims Making Good Showing

MIAMI (Ariz.) July 7. (Exclusive) With the incorporation of the Bronze King Mining Company, plans have been disclosed for developing a group of thirty-five claims ten miles west of Miami near the Inspiration Needles and Carlotta properties. Thomas F. Kelly, who for twenty-five years has been employed in responsible positions by Miami companies, is president.

Seven tunnels have been driven on the Bronze King, one being 400 feet long. The most encouraging showing is in a shaft forty-five feet deep. Here, the ore assays twenty-one ounces copper, thirteen ounces silver and some gold.

The old Fitterer-Harvey mine, nine miles south of Globe in the Pinal Mountains, soon will be listed among Gila county's producers. The owners are opening the old workings and have uncovered considerable ore which will be shipped to the smelter.

WELL TAPS OIL SAND

Richfield's No. 28 In Kern Front Gets Showing

BAKERSFIELD, July 7. (Exclusive)—In the Kern Front field the General Petroleum Corporation is testing its Young No. 33 on Sec. 14, 28-27, for a water shut-off. The company has spudded in its Young No. 32 on the same section, and the hole is down 700 feet.

Richfield has found oil sand in its No. 28 on Sec. 22, 28-27, at 2230 feet. Its No. 26 on the same section is down 2120 feet, but has found only sandy shale and shell formation. Twenty-inch surface casing has been set.

The Shell's Caldwell No. 1 on Sec. 7, 28-29, is testing at a depth of 1084 feet with ten and three-quarter-inch casing set at 1485 feet.

The Petroleum Securities Company's Coffee well on Sec. 4, 29-28, is drilling at 1612 feet.

SURPRISE WELL IN SUMMERLAND FIELD

Where Surf Laves the Derrick Bases

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

ONE of the most interesting developments of the past week in the oil industry, was the discovery of production at 1250 feet on the shore line of the old Summerland field between Ventura and Santa Barbara, where shallow wells in the ocean have been producing at depths between 150 and 250 feet for nearly forty years.

The new discovery is credited to Birney Donnell of Los Angeles, who contracted with the Lincoln Drilling Company to put down the William No. 1 on a seventy-acre lease obtained from D. C. Williams who owns 550 acres adjacent to the ocean at that place.

The well was drilled half a mile west of the Seaside Oil Company's refinery in Summerland. It cored 125 feet of oil formation down to 1250 feet, and was then brought in, flowing into two 5000-barrel storage tanks. After flowing for a couple of days the well sanded up, but after being cleaned out it went back on production Saturday at the rate of about 400 barrels a day. The oil is said to test about 20 degrees gravity, and is being tanked to the Seaside refinery.

George F. Getty, Inc., holding 730 acres under lease east and north of the Donnell lease, plans to start an offset well this week at a point 120 feet east of the Williams No. 1. About 600 feet north of it the Southern Exploration Company is rigging up its Twitchell No. 1 and will spud in shortly, according to field reports. Getty made an unsuccessful water shutoff test Saturday in the old Becker No. 1 in the heart of Summerland, after having plugged back from 5040 feet to 2900 feet.

Los Angeles oil operators who have had considerable experience in the Summerland region doubt that the Birney Donnell strike is a new structure running parallel with the Elwood structure. They are inclined to regard it as a continuation of the heavy oil seepages between the Vaqueros and Monterey formations in and adjacent to Summerland. Geological opinion is that the Williams property ought to be good for a number of wells producing a fair amount of fuel oil, and that other deposits of like nature may hereafter be discovered in that region, but it is not the consensus of opinion that anything in the form of surprising production will be developed there.

The Summerland field was discovered nearly forty years ago. The original drilling, as in the present case, was done on a part of the Ortega ranch, one of the original land grants, then owned by R. L. Williams. The new discovery last week was made on the Ortega property now owned by D. C. Williams. When the Summerland field was at its height, 150 to 200 pumpers in and along the ocean yielded upward of 70,000 barrels in heavy oils per year. The gravity runs 10 to 12 degrees. For several years past there have been 135 wells producing from shallow depths, their average individual output being about one barrel per day.

An interest sidelight on last week's discovery of a new source of supply in Summerland at 1250 feet, is that on April 8, 1923, in a special petroleum section of The Times the following statement was made:

"At the present rate of depletion it is believed that thirty more years may see the Summerland ocean oil wells only a memory unless a test well, which some interests propose to sink, strikes a new source of supply at a deeper level. They aim to go to a depth of 1200 to 1500 feet, believing at such depth oil in larger volume will be encountered."

PIPE TO SAN DIEGO PLANNED

Permission for Line South from Huntington Beach Asked to Carry Gas

That a pipe line to carry gas from oil fields in the Los Angeles Basin to the city of San Diego will be constructed in the near future is indicated by the fact that the Southern California Gas Company has asked California Railroad Commission permission to build a line from Huntington Beach to La Jolla, where it would turn the gas over to the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric Company for distribution in La Jolla, San Diego and contiguous territory.

It is expected that the proposed line will be capable of delivering upward of 50,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day, although, according to reports, the present gas requirements of the San Diego Bay district is from 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 cubic feet per day.

SOURCE OF SUPPLY

The Southern California Gas Company expects to complete its gas line into San Clemente within the next few days and it is possible that feeder lines will extend to other towns in that vicinity.

The expectation is that the proposed gas line will obtain its supply of dry gas from Huntington Beach and Signal Hill, although the probability is that it may require some gas from the Santa Fe Springs field during the coming year, if the arrangement goes through. Gas engineers think that the territory to be reached by the line may shortly be able to absorb as much as 50,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day.

PURCHASE AUTHORIZED

Further outlet for Los Angeles Basin natural gas may be afforded through the purchase by Southern California Gas Company of the plant and system of the South Coast Gas Company in Elsinore. Permission to purchase this system for $75,000 has just been granted and it is believed that the new owner will "lay up" the old artificial gas plant in Elsinore and provide the community with natural gas. This supply, it is expected, will be drawn from the Los Angeles Basin.

PLANT WILL BE EXPANDED

Following its well-planned campaign of expansion in mine development and equipment the Minaret Consolidated Mines Company of Los Angeles last week consigned to its Silver Plume mine near Cananea, Son., Mex., a shipment of machinery for the equipment of its new two-compartment shaft, on its main vein, consisting of a 20-horsepower hoisting plant and gallows frame, four-drill air compressor and drills, ore cars and bucket and mine track rail. This plant should be ready to go into commission within the next two weeks, the management says.

The company also has contracted with the Southwestern Engineering Corporation for the machinery equipment and installation of a modern fifty-ton flotation milling plant, for the treatment of the silver-lead ores of the mine. The mill will be located so that the ore from the two working shafts can be delivered to the bins by gravity. Another shipment of high-grade ore from the mine, it is stated, will go out to the smelter this week.

At the company's Keyes gold mine in Kern county the five-stamp mill has been in regular operation since June 1, last, according to Supt. H. H. Lee. The mill heads, he says, are averaging better than $100 in free-milling gold to the ton, some of the ore handled showing native gold plentifully.

This ore comes from the 325-foot level of the mine, and continued development is adding materially to the ore tonnages in sight, it is stated. Gold bullion shipments to the mint are being made semi-monthly. Rex C. Goodcell and George H. Johnson recently were added to the personnel of the board of directors of the company.

NEW WELL SPUDDED IN

Republican Company Active in Midway Field

TAFT, July 7. (Exclusive) — The Republican Petroleum spudded in its No. 35 well on Sec. 8, 23-32, in the Midway field last week. Its No. 32 well on the same section is standing idle at 4434 feet.

Chanslor-Canfield has spudded in a well in the Midway, known as No. 8, on Sec. 7, 32-23. It is going through brown shale and boulders at 300 feet.

PALISADES OIL LIMITS SOUGHT

Many Companies Drilling to Define Field

Indications Good in Most of Wells at Depth

Discovery Hole Abandoned on Account of Water

With more than sixty derricks up and a majority of them drilling, the Palisades oil field, three miles west of Santa Barbara, is rapidly nearing the stage where early completions are expected to more clearly define its potentialities.

Since discovery of the field by the Olympic Oil and Refining Company operators have been drilling rapidly in the area surrounding the Lomas No. 1 discovery well in an effort to pick up the producing formation.

The Ring Oil Company's Nugent No. 1, first of the group to reach oil sand, eventually went into a wet gray sand. Since then, three other projects have hit oil sand. The Craft Petroleum Company's Foster No. 1, about 300 feet northeast of Lomas No. 1, is believed to have picked up the main body of oil sand at 2118 feet, and is drilling ahead.

OIL SAND FOUND

The Union Oil Company's C. W. Community No. 1, about 150 feet northeast of Lomas No. 1, is reported to have encountered oil sand at 2186 feet, and the hole is being reamed to set casing for a production test.

Early yesterday Mess No. 1 of the Altadena Oil Company, at the western end of the field, was reported to have hit a gray sand apparently devoid of oil, although previously the drill is said to have found some oil sand. The gray sand was encountered at 2253 feet—a few feet lower than the oil sand.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

Wheeler No. 1 of the General Petroleum Corporation yesterday was coring at 2278 feet. It is situated 600 feet southwest of Lomas No. 1. Lomas No. 2 is drilling ahead in brown shale at 1455 feet. Palisades No. 1 is in hard brown shale at 2207 feet, and Mesa School No. 1 is coring ahead at 2180 feet.

Attempts have been made to return Lomas No. 1 to production but field reports indicate that it is wet. Construction of a pipe line, permit for which has not as yet been applied for, may depend largely upon the results obtained in the field within the next two weeks.

NEW VEIN OPENED

The Den Ella Mine, six miles from Tuolumne, has solved a troublesome fault and opened up a three-foot vein which is reported to run $197 to the ton.

COMPLETION OF MILLING PLANT NEAR

Monarch Lead Company Soon Will be in Ranks of Large Producers

CHLORIDE (Ariz.) July 7. (Exclusive)—Construction of the milling plant of the Monarch Lead Company is progressing and that property soon will be listed with Mohave county's heavy producers. The ball mill section, weighing thirteen tons, has been set on its foundation, and the flotation cells are being installed.

"No less than 400,000 tons of milling grade lead-zinc ore is on the dump or exposed in the workings. The shaft has been carried down 1400 feet and winzes have followed the ore on to the 1600-foot level. Ore appears on every level and there is a parallel vein that may be found mineralized when the company gets around to developing it.

A company that operated the property prior to the Monarch took 272,000 tons of ore from one shoot above the 1400. Then the vein was lost by faulting, but it was later picked up again and found to be five feet wide.

Pump Installed at Property of Oatman United

TONOPAH (Nev.) July 7. (Exclusive)—Installation of a powerful pump on its properties in the Atwood district, seventy-three miles north of Tonopah, has been completed by the Oatman United Company, and arrangements made for resumption of work on the 300-foot level.

A crosscut has been driven seventy-nine feet from the 300 level and is expected to cut the main ore body within twenty feet. A heavy flow of water forced suspension of mining several weeks ago, but the new pump is expected to easily handle the flow.

The Gold Ace Company, working the principal properties near Carrara, reports that the main ore body continues to show rich ore at a depth of ninety feet in the new vertical shaft. The No. 2 tunnel, located between the new shaft and old tunnel workings, is said officially to have opened a six-foot vein of excellent ore. Seventy men now are employed and the management is gradually expanding activities. More than a dozen companies are working in the district, with recent prospecting indicating that the veins persist to depth.

COBALT MINE IN CALAVERAS

Deposits of Rare Metals Being Developed

High-Voltage Apparatus Used for Reduction

Gold and Arsenic Also Other Metals Obtained

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7. (Exclusive)—Long recognized as one of the richest gold-producing counties in California, Calaveras county, the scene of the discovery of the richest known deposits of cobalt and rare metals, is coming to mining prominence, authorities who have been privileged to familiarize themselves with the operations and methods being obtained by the Standard Mines Company of its property on Indian Creek, near Mountain Camp, about fourteen miles from Camp.

In this connection, Joseph Martin, president of the Standard Mines Company, announced to the public the purpose of the company to engage in the mining of cobalt ore, more than $1,000,000 worth of high-voltage electrical apparatus having been installed in the Mountain Camp mine and reduction plant in an adjacent place, and which has been in operation throughout most of the year. The world by prices and quotations as a crystalline powder.

Some of the ores have been found in Calaveras county, it is stated, are phenomenally rich in cobalt content, and carry arsenic, nickel, vanadium, [illegible] praseodymium, [illegible] and yttrium. Other ores [illegible] predominate in [illegible] nickel and others in gold. It is believed that the ore [illegible] tent, because of [illegible] throughout this area.

Late Wall Street News and Bond Reviews

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative questions will be given in this department if Prof. Wilson is correspondents or give full address thereof. Write each subject on a separate sheet of paper. Make each question as concise as possible. Be sure to write a short postage when letters are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not guarantee the analysis. Give your name and address to insure attention with samples.

Two Specimens

HOLLYWOOD, June 21. —Question: I did not receive your letter until today—was out of town. Sample No. 2 comes even harder. I certainly would appreciate it if you would give me report on samples as I have two parties here that seem to be interested and I have promised to give them the results of your qualitative tests. What branch of industries or chemical concerns would be interested in minerals represented by the samples? X.

Answer: The two samples received some days ago are kaolin clays; one of which differs from the silicate specimen as received in your first consignment.

A serious blunder was made in reporting on the first lot of specimens as magnesium silicates. The writer takes full blame for the error and is mighty glad to make this correction.

The last lot of samples now under discussion are both of milk-white color. No. 1 is kaolin of great purity and suitable for the manufacture of A-1 chinaware. No. 2 is useful for ordinary pottery purposes only, owing to its impurities (iron chiefly.)

The clay industries are the works that might be interested in the purchase of both kaolin varieties.

You failed to give approximate localities from which the samples were taken and to indicate what tonnages you have for sale.

Fahlers

PASADENA, June 21.—Q.: I am sending you under separate cover two samples for qualitative tests. Both contain some kind of white metals—possibly antimony, lead, bismuth, nickel, cobalt or what? Locality, near Acton. With many praises for the good work you are doing. C.

A.: The samples consist of one hematite ore coated with Fahlers, and the other is Fahlers. It is a variety of Tetrahedrite, but not the valuable gray copper ore as known to the mining boys in the hills. In short, both specimens are base-metal ores, carrying sulphides or iron (pyrite,) arsenopyrite, zinc-blende, white iron pyrite, and there is no lead, copper, nickel or bismuth present. Free gold absent. Thank you for kind words!

Garnet

PHOENIX (Ariz.) June 22.—Q.: Am forwarding you a sample under separate cover from Gila county, Arizona. Large outcropping and as it is a puzzle here I am taking you as referee. Would you kindly classify it, and state if it may have any commercial value. Thanking you kindly. C.

A.: If the outcropping shows crystallized and massive garnet on the order of the sample it would probably have more or less commercial value for abrasive uses.

Altered Rock

TORRANCE, June 22.—Q.: These samples found in Inyo county we submit to you for analysis. Please classify and give values of same. We are especially interested in finding aluminum oxide, cryolite and tungsten. S.

A.: The three substances mentioned by you are all absent. The dark spots in the rock are of manganese reaction.

Eruptive Rock

AMADO (Ariz.) June 23.—Q.: I am today mailing you a sample of iron—present rock that I desire to know if it has or contains any mineral values. Occurs at thirty feet below surface of rhyolitic formation (blankets) and possibly overlays a bed of rhyolitic ash. Is it an eruptive or altered limestone? X.

A.: The sample is volcanic rock—andesyte (?)

Copper Ore

HOLLYWOOD, June 23.—Q.: I am inclosing a sample of ore found in Eagle county, Colorado. I would ask an analysis of the ore. Thanking you for any service you can render me in this respect. T. C.

A.: The sample is a siliceous copper ore with some recent chalcopyrite present in spots, but mostly oxidized, forming malachite (green copper carbonate) and yellow limonite. Ore on the order of sample should assay gold.

Six Samples

ALHAMBRA, June 23.—Q.: Please give qualitative analyses on the six samples from the Providence Mountains, San Bernardino county. No. 1 is country rock; what variety? No. 2 is country rock—is it soft granite? No. 3 is from vein that runs in white country rock and the ledge is eighteen inches wide; what kind of ore is it; it runs $12.48 and up in gold? No. 4 is from the same claim about fifty feet away from No. 3 vein—but does not all pan gold. No. 5 is a white cropping; does it pan gold? Is No. 6 limestone, or what? I read The Times for mining news and like it. A.

A.: No. 1 is a mixture—chiefly tremolite; (hornblends) quartz and feldspar present. No. 2 is altered rock carrying altered epidote, limonite present and the black spots are of manganese. It is not soft granite. No. 3 is quartzitic rock, copper found in low percentage, iron oxides present and not tested for gold. No. 4 carries traces of microscopic pyrite, calcite in the mass with some garnetyte and hornblende. No. 5 quartzitic rock, microscopic pyrite traces, and copper traces. No. 6 is dolomite.

Hydrocarbons Absent

POMONA, June 24.—Q.: Will you please tell me what this sample of shale contains. Comes from Montana. Kindly test for cement and oil. L. D.

A.: The sample is impure, and in part itacolumite (flexible sandstone.) It is composed of silica, lime carbonate, low percentage iron oxides, and some clay. Problematical as to cement material.

A Mixture

WENDEN (Ariz.) June 24.—Q.: Am sending sample to you today. Please let me know what it contains. If any charges send bill and I will remit. B.

A.: No charges. The specimen seems to be a mixture of lime carbonate, clay, a little sodium sulphate, microscopic chunks of quartz, and there was not sufficient of the matter to test for zinc. Free gold absent.

Damourite

PASADENA, June 24.—Q.: I am mailing you a sample of white rock of which we have a small mountain of the material on a property in Riverside county. It is from near the surface and further down it is whiter. H. E. W.

A.: It is regretted that your good letter could not be published in full. The sample seems to be a hydrous muscovite (potash mica) mixed with sericite. It is yellow-white in color or pearly luster, and in part, of scaly texture. Values problematical.

Rose Quartz

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—Q.: Please classify this sample and oblige. K.

Five Specimens

EL SEGUNDO, June 24.—Q.: I am sending five samples to be analyzed for what there is in them, I am a student of earth formations, minerals, rocks, etc. Four of the specimens are from the bluffs along Balhoa Bay, east from Newport Beach. What are the crystals in No. 3? No. 5 comes from Mojave desert west from Victorville. MRS. S.

A.: Yours is another letter that could not be fully published—owing to want of space. Sample No. 1 is asbestiform tremolite reacting for the salts of sodium and lime. No. 3—"Third layer"—The crystallization of cubes, and radiated matter is common table salt (Halite.) No. 3 sedimentary mineral is stained with clay and mixed with asbestiform actinolite. Sodium and magnesium present. There are two No. 3's. No. 4 is a sedimentary shale-like mixture reacting for sodium and magnesium. No. 5 from near Victorville is a siliceous and micaceous rock carrying potash mica (muscovite) and traces of microscopical pyrite.

WORK RESUMED AT LION MINE

Californians Interested in Property Near Mayer

Holding Abandoned Twenty Years Ago

Barbara Mountain Company Finds Rich Outcrops

MAYER (Ariz.) July 7. (Exclusive)—Redlands, Cal., people have become interested in the Lion Copper Company and have recommenced development work at its property in the Barbara Mountain district, east of here.

The Lion has been idle twenty years, since the old company became involved in financial difficulties. The new corporation is known as the Arizona Redlands Copper Company.

First work planned is the retimbering of the old shaft, which was sunk 300 feet and opened a good body of 7 per cent copper ore. Grading for a shaft house has already been done, a new collar has been put in and shaft timbers are on the ground. It is claimed that the shaft is not caved to any extent, except in the lower part, where it was never timbered.

SOPER IN CHARGE

L. J. Soper of Redlands is in charge of development. He has obtained considerable valuable data from O. A. Cox of Los Angeles, who was secretary of the Lion company. Old records in the possession of Cox show that on the 300-foot level a crosscut was run thirty-five feet across the ore, which is all sulphide and native copper.

Other Californians interested in the present development are J. H. Howland, H. O. Smith, Dr. John L. Avery, H. W. Putnam and A. A. Reynolds.

OUTCROPS DISCOVERED

A breakdown of machinery is not always hard luck, says Albert S. Konselman, superintendent of the Barbara Mountain Mining Company. During a recent enforced suspension of underground development, Konselman put his crew to work exploring the surface. The result was the discovery of several promising outcrops and the extraction of seventeen tons of rich ore from one.

Mayer is becoming an important ore-shipping point. Two or three carloads are shipped every day. The heaviest recent day saw five carloads go forward from the DeSoto mine, which is being operated under lease by E. S. Chafey.

GASOLINE ONCE NUISANCE

Gasoline was once a nuisance. Kerosene was the prized petroleum product. But the development of the internal-combustion engine changed all that. Ask your grocer for kerosene today and you'll find it is one of the few commodities he doesn't carry!

WORLD OIL TREATY SOUGHT

Leaders in Industry Going Abroad to Negotiate Truce in Mad Rush of Producers

NEW YORK, July 7. (Exclusive)—Adjustment of world oil problems which are assuming such seriousness as to threaten open conflict between leaders of the industry in the United States and Europe, will be attempted at a series of conferences which will begin with the arrival abroad of a committee of oil executives.

One member of the committee, R. C. Holmes, president of the Texas Corporation, already is on his way to Europe and two others, James A. Moffett, vice-president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and George P. Whaley, president of the Vacuum Oil Company, sailed tonight on the Aquitania. They will be joined in Europe by other American oil officials.

PROBLEMS AWAITING

Primarily, the purpose of the committee's European trip is to study the problem of gasoline export prices and to try and reconcile differences that have developed over this question between certain American oil producers and the principal European oil interests, chiefly the Royal Dutch-Shell group.

It is understood the American committee will take up with leading oil producers the problem of overproduction throughout the world, which is closely related to the export price problem.

'Although oil operators here emphasize that the committee's visit is mainly for the purpose of canvassing the situation in the European markets, it was made plain that a discussion of general oil questions will take place. It will be the first study of the kind undertaken by a group representing the American oil industry.

CONFERENCES SLATED

Conferences will be held with Sir Henri Deterding, managing director of the Royal Dutch; Sir John Cadman, head of the British-controlled Anglo-Persian Oil Company; officials of the Anglo-American Oil Company and with other leaders of the petroleum industry in England, France and Germany.

In a sense, the conferences will represent a resumption of the conference that took place last summer at a castle in Scotland between Sir Henri Deterding, Sir John Cadman, Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil of New Jersey, and other American and European oil heads.

It was after the return of Mr. Teagle from this conference that the American Petroleum Institute began its efforts to curb world production of oil. The movement resulted in a compact, entered into by leading producers of the Western Hemisphere, to restrict production in 1929 to the level of 1928. The compact had to be abandoned when the Federal oil-conservation board withheld approval. Later an effort was made to find solution of the problem through an interstate agreement with the co-operation of the Federal government.

Such an agreement was discussed without any definite action being taken at a conference of governors of oil-producing States and leading oil operators at Colorado Springs the second week in June. Oil executives still are hopeful that some plan may be worked out to curtail production but there is no definite program under consideration at present.

COMPETITION INTENSE

Indications that the competitive search for oil is being intensified are seen in the fact that production in the United States has recently been establishing new high records with a regularity that has caused much concern among leaders of the industry. The daily output last week touched a new peak of 2,818,400 barrels, showing a gain of 50,900 barrels.

At present the Petroleum Export Association is wrestling with the problem of establishing a price for export gasoline that will afford what oil operators consider a satisfactory profit and at the same time not aggravate the unsatisfactory situation with respect to production. Certain interests represented are urging an increase in the basic gasoline price while other interests, notably, the Royal Dutch-Shell subsidiary in the United States, oppose any increase on the ground that it would tend to stimulate production and delay the curb on output which is being sought.

BITS REACH OIL SAND

Maricopa Flat Prospects Considered Good for Producing Wells

MARICOPA, July 7. (Exclusive)—On Maricopa Flat the North American Consolidated has two wells in oil sand. Its Bronco No. 1 on Sec. 8, 11-23, is in good sand at a depth of 3345 feet and its Lincoln No. 1, on Sec. 18, 11-23, after going through a formation of shale, also is in oil sand.

Standard Oil is putting down a foundation for its Graham No. 2 on Sec. 7, 11-23. Rio Grande is having trouble with its Leutholtz well on Sec. 22, 11-23, and is fishing for a bit.

ANGELENOS GET KELSO LODE CLAIMS

Robert Fisher Heads New Syndicate Organized to Work Four Mines

Headed by Robert Fisher, a syndicate of Los Angeles mining men has organized the Trans-Pacific Properties, Inc., capitalized at $250,000, for the purpose of developing a group of four lode mining claims in the Kelso mining district of San Bernardino county.

This district is one of the oldest gold producing sections in Southern California, mining operations having been traced back as far as 1854, at which time the gold was hauled overland to San Francisco.

The properties of the company are on the western slope of the Providence range, and have been improved by a 400-foot shaft together with several thousand feet of underground work, showing a large tonnage of pay ore. Equipment on the property consists of a ten-stamp mill, hoist house, sixty-horsepower steam engine, compressors, and concentrating equipment.

New Wildcat Oil Company to Prove Leases

Formation of the Wildcat Oil and Royalty Company with a capitalization of $1,000,000 was announced yesterday by Ben L. Blue, president of the company. As its name implies, the company will engage in the business of proving up wildcat oil leases.

The company has acquired the Donovan lease of 389 acres in Santa Barbara county, approximately eight miles from Santa Maria and two miles south of Guadalupe, where drilling has started, Mr. Blue announced.

It is the intention of the company to apply for listing on the Los Angeles Curb Exchange as soon as distribution of the stock has been made, it was announced.

Officers and directors of the company include Ben L. Blue, R. L. Mack, Moe Woods, S. M. Zandmer and S. Fischer, Jr.

Mine and Oil Notes From Far and Near

LEASE TAKEN ON NEVADA MINES

Gilbert Properties Taken Over for Work

Tybo Milling Plant to Run at Full Capacity

Shamrock Claims in Hands of Angeleno Expert

TONOPAH (Nev.) July 7. (Exclusive—The properties of the Gilbert Mammoth-Last Hope Mines Company at Gilbert have been taken under a three-year lease by Gilbert Brothers, discoverers of the district. Mining is scheduled to be in full blast in thirty days with the lessees expressing confidence they will recover the rich vein within a few weeks after starting work.

This property suspended work last year after a vain effort to recover veins that produced sensationally rich ore in the early days of the camp. It is now asserted by local mining men that extension of the main ore body west of the workings has been demonstrated.

MILL AT WORK

The Treadwell-Yukon Company, operating at Tybo, reports that its new plant is treating 175 to 200 tons of ore daily and will be operated at full capacity of 250 tons as soon as more ore chutes have been provided underground. Value of the ore is said to be exceeding original estimates, with late work materially augmenting the reserves of leading material. The corporation is owned jointly by the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining Company and the Alaska Treadwell Gold Mining Company.

The mines and mill of the Shamrock Mining Company near Ione have been taken under lease by E. L. Burney, Los Angeles quicksilver expert. A large section of the property is to be opened under the leasing system and efforts made by the management to keep the plant running at capacity. Ore bodies in the Shamrock and neighboring mines carry silver, lead and quicksilver. The plant is provided with equipment for treatment of these ores.

WORK ARRANGED

Through an agreement by the Nevada Standard Corporation and the L. E. Foster Syndicate of Arizona the mines of the Cherry Creek district, near Ely, are to be comprehensively operated. A working fund of $100,000 is said to have been provided, and arrangements have been made for extensive work on the Gray Eagle, Exchequer, Imperial and Star properties. These mines were among the first large silver-gold producers of Nevada, and are credited with a combined yield exceeding $15,000,000.

Practically all pumping and hoisting expenses will be eliminated by extending the Star tunnel several hundred feet. The Nevada Standard Company has been quietly rehabilitating the group for the past two years and is credited with having a substantial tonnage of new ore in sight.

COPPER MINE FINANCED

Recording of Mortgage Taken to Mean Bond Issue Flotation

GLOBE (Ariz.) July 7. (Exclusive) A $500,000 mortgage on the property of the Porphyry Reserve Copper Company in favor of the Old Dominion Bank of Globe has been placed on record here. It is asserted that this means the financing of the company through the flotation of a bond issue for that amount.

The Porphyry Reserve property adjoins Inspiration Consolidated and was formerly known as the Louis d'Or. It is under option to the Pinto Valley Company, operating west of Miami.

PLACER MINES YIELD PLEASES

North Fork Company Begins Steady Production

SACRAMENTO, July 7. (Exclusive)—With two hydraulic giants in commission and fifty men on the payroll the North Fork Placers of Los Angeles has started steady production from its placer mines, eighteen miles west of Weaverville. A new flume is being built to the property from the North Fork of the Trinity River to facilitate operations on a larger scale.

The hydraulic deposits are among the largest in Trinity county and have been undergoing development for the past two years. An immense deposit of aurriferous gravel is exposed and the initial run is reported yielding higher returns than anticipated.

PIONEER WORK RUSHED

The old Pioneer quartz-gold mine, near Pine Grove in Amador county, is being worked vigorously by Little & Burkheart of Los Angeles. A tunnel is being driven to cut the ore bodies several hundred feet below the old workings and production is being maintained from the upper levels. The Pioneer for many years has been a consistent producer and is reported improving as additional depth is gained.

Acme Mines & Mill, Inc., announces that the new 100-ton rotray furnace on its Oat Hill mine has been placed in commission and that production from the La Joya and Oat Hill properties this year should approximate $300,000. Both properties are located in the Napa Lake cinabar area, and are said to show extensive reserves carrying good quicksilver averages.

OLD VEIN FOLLOWED

The Markiee Mining Company, operating an old property near the historic camp of Volcano, has dewatered the 500-foot shaft and started prospecting for the continuation of the ore body which yielded a fortune in pioneer days. Old workings are said to contain large amounts of mill ore and plans are being made for early resumption of production.

Rich ore is said to have been showing when a heavy flow of water drove out the former owners and stopped all activities. The new company, composed chiefly of Southern Californians, has installed powerful mine equipment and is handling the water easily.

CAPACITY INCREASED FOR MILL

Phelps Dodge Output at Concentrator Boosted by New Machinery

MORENCI (Ariz.) July 7. (Exclusive)—Capacity of the Phelps-Dodge concentrator here has been increased by the installation of two seven-foot cone crushers. Screens, bins and feeders are on the ground, ready for placing. Three new ball mills are being added to the primary grinding circuit to replace mills of smaller capacity.

Completion of a drainage tunnel tapping the lower levels of Phelps-Dodge's Humboldt mine has accelerated underground development. A new raise has been added to the No. 14 level, which eventually will be used as the main haulage tunnel. New hoists of the elevator type are to be placed over both the Joy and No. 6 shafts this month.

All this means that Phelps-Dodge will require considerably more power. This requirement is to be met by adding a new Nordberg Diesel engine to the power plant.

OIL COMMITTEE TO MEET TODAY

Revising of Kettleman Hills Agreement Planned

Government Said to Want Change in Pact

Conference Held With Agent of Secretary Wilbur

Although seven oil operators at Kettleman Hills are reported to have signed an agreement to temporarily suspend all operations on the north dome, a meeting of the special committee of seven appointed last April by F. C. Van Deinse, then oil umpire, has been called for today by Chairman E. D. Reiter for the purpose of considering an amendment to the plan.

During the last week a meeting was held by the Kettleman Hills operators with Dr. George Otis Smith, representative here of Secretary of the Interior Wilbur. It is reported that the conference brought out the fact that the government would like to have certain changes made in the compact.

GAS PRESSURE HEAVY

For the last two weeks the two deepest wells of the Milham Exploration Company, Elliott No. 2, and Kennedy No. 1, have caused considerable anxiety because of heavy gas pressures. Many tons of hematite have been forced into the holes to hold down the gas. Indications are that but a few hundred feet more of formation can be penetrated before these wells are completed. It is expected that they might ease off the pressure on Elliott No. 1 which is said to be still out of control. It has been putting out 3500 barrels of oil a day along with about 75,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

The General Petroleum Corporation, failing to bring in its Ochsner No. 2, has resumed efforts to sidetrack past the frozen three-inch drill pipe. The top of the drill pipe is stuck at 6635 feet. About 200 feet of it remain to be pulled as it completely blocks possibility of any gas or oil being produced, it is asserted.

General's Ochsner No. 2 on Sec. 20 is drilling below 5208 feet in hard brown shale, and gas is said to be quite lively.

The Standard Oil Company is drilling ahead in fifteen projects, grading locations for two and may spud in a third before the end of the current week.

GOOD SHOWING

The No. 81 well, deepest hole Standard has in that area, is drilling ahead below 6472 feet. This showed up well several weeks ago. Considerable gas was present. Many cores have been taken.

No showings are reported in Armstrong No. 4-1 and Armstrong No. 6-1, of George F. Getty, Inc.

The Petroleum Securities Company recently spudded in Ladd No. 1 on Sec. 28, 29-16, and is preparing site for Gaichell No. 1 on Sec. 20, 29-16. On the middle dome, its Malnesbury No. 1 on Sec. 24, 29-15 is shut down in accordance with an operators' agreement.

The Felix No. 1 on Sec. 35, has eleven and three-quarter-inch casing cemented at 5410 feet and it will be allowed to stand for about a week before being drilled out. The Robinson No. 1 on Sec. 14, 22-17, is drilling ahead at 450 feet.

Eleven and three-quarter-inch casing has been cemented at 2297 feet in the Pacific Western Oil Company's No. 27 well.

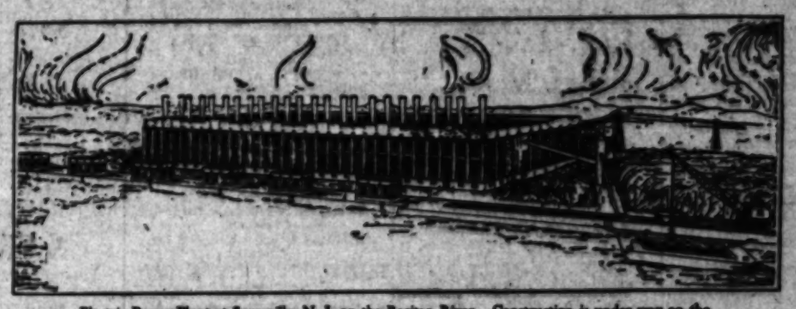
UTILITIES POWER & LIGHT CORPORATION

An International Public Utility System



Electric Power Plant at Sayreville, N. J. on the Raritan River. Construction is under way on the first 60,000 kilowatt section of the plant which will have an ultimate capacity of 180,000 kilowatts.

To Meet Increasing Demands

¶ Utilities Power & Light Corporation through a subsidiary, Eastern New Jersey Power Company, serves a territory in Northeastern New Jersey which is practically a continuous community within commuting distance of both New York City and Philadelphia. Its close proximity to the most highly industrialized part of the United States assures the continuance of a growth which has been rapid during recent years and which resulted in an increase in net earnings of Eastern New Jersey Power Company in 1928 of 24% over 1927. To meet the ever growing requirements of this service area it is now constructing at Sayreville on the Raritan River the first 60,000 kilowatt unit of an electric power plant which will have an ultimate capacity of 180,000 kilowatts.

¶ Another subsidiary, Indianapolis Power & Light Company, has started work on an electric power plant located on the White River, a short distance south of Indianapolis. The completed plant will consist of four turbo-generating units of 36,750 kilowatts each, making a total of 147,000 kilowatts. The building of this plant has become an immediate necessity to meet large increases in the Company's power requirements in Indianapolis and vicinity and in a territory in which the company is the exclusive distributor. The plans of the company provide for connecting its electric resources through transmission lines forming part of a vast superpower net work extending on the south and southeast to Louisville and Cincinnati, on the east to Pittsburgh, on the north to Chicago and on the west to St. Louis.

¶ The Corporation has planned a large scale program of improvements for its properties in Great Britain where through its subsidiary, The Greater London and Counties Trust, Ltd., it furnishes electricity in "areas" comprising approximately 10,712 square miles containing a population in excess of 3,250,000, including large industrial centers. The use of electrical energy in these "areas" is increasing at twice the rate of its increase in corresponding American communities. The Corporation estimates that on these properties it will expend within the next five years upwards of $50,000,000 to meet this growing demand for power and light.

¶ Throughout all the territory served by Utilities Power & Light Corporation the population and requirements for utility services are increasing. It is the constant aim of the management to keep abreast of community growth by anticipating future requirements.

The sound financial structure upon which the Corporation has planned its growth, its satisfactory and steadily increasing earnings, and the strategic location of its properties, place the Corporation among the leading public utility organizations and give to its securities an established investment position.

Mine and Oil Notes From Far and Near

LEASE TAKEN ON NEVADA MINES

Shamrock Claims in Hands of Angeleno Expert

TONOPAH (Nev.) July 7. (Exclusive—The properties of the Gilbert Mammoth-Last Hope Mines Company at Gilbert have been taken under a three-year lease by Gilbert Brothers, discoverers of the district. Mining is scheduled to be in full blast in thirty days with the lessees expressing confidence they will recover the rich vein within a few weeks after starting work.

This property suspended work last year after a vain effort to recover veins that produced sensationally rich ore in the early days of the camp. It is now asserted by local mining men that extension of the main ore body west of the workings has been demonstrated.

MILL AT WORK

The Treadwell-Yukon Company, operating at Tybo, reports that its new plant is treating 175 to 200 tons of ore daily and will be operated at full capacity of 350 tons as soon as more ore chutes have been provided underground. Value of the ore is said to be exceeding original estimates, with late work materially augmenting the reserves of lead-zinc material. The corporation is owned jointly by the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining Company and the Alaska Treadwell Gold Mining Company.

The mines and mill of the Shamrock Mining Company near Ione have been taken under lease by E. L. Burney, Los Angeles quicksilver expert. A large section of the property is to be opened under the leasing system and efforts made by the management to keep the plant running at capacity. Ore bodies in the Shamrock and neighboring mines carry silver, lead and quicksilver. The plant is provided with equipment for treatment of these ores.

WORK ARRANGED

Through an agreement by the Nevada Standard Corporation and the L. E. Foster Syndicate of Arizona the mines of the Cherry Creek district, near Ely, are to be comprehensively operated. A working fund of $100,000 is said to have been provided, and arrangements have been made for extensive work on the Gray Eagle, Exchequer, Imperial and Star properties. These mines were among the first large silver-gold producers of Nevada, and are credited with a combined yield exceeding $15,000,000.

Practically all pumping and hoisting expenses will be eliminated by extending the Star tunnel several hundred feet. The Nevada Standard Company has been quietly rehabilitating the group for the past two years and is credited with having a substantial tonnage of new ore in sight.

COPPER MINE FINANCED

Recording of Mortgage Taken to Mean Bond Issue Flotation

GLOBE (Ariz.) July 7. (Exclusive) A $500,000 mortgage on the property of the Porphyry Reserve Copper Company in favor of the Old Dominion Bank of Globe has been placed on record here. It is asserted that this means the financing of the company through the flotation of a bond issue for that amount.

The Porphyry Reserve property adjoins Inspiration Consolidated and was formerly known as the Louis d'Or. It is under option to the Pinto Valley Company, operating west of Miami.

PLACER MINES YIELD PLEASES

North Fork Company Begins Steady Production

SACRAMENTO, July 7. (Exclusive)—With two hydraulic giants in commission and fifty men on the payroll the North Fork Placers of Los Angeles has started steady production from its placer mines, eighteen miles west of Weaverville. A new flume is being built to the property from the North Fork of the Trinity River to facilitate operations on a larger scale.

The hydraulic deposits are among the largest in Trinity county and have been undergoing development for the past two years. An immense deposit of auriferous gravel is exposed and the initial run is reported yielding higher returns than anticipated.

PIONEER WORK RUSHED

The old Pioneer quartz-gold mine, near Pine Grove in Amador county, is being worked vigorously by Little & Burkheart of Los Angeles. A tunnel is being driven to cut the ore bodies several hundred feet below the old workings and production is being maintained from the upper levels. The Pioneer for many years has been a consistent producer and is reported improving as additional depth is gained.

Acme Mines & Mill, Inc., announces that the new 100-ton roaster furnace on its Oat Hill mine has been placed in commission and that production from the La Joya and Oat Hill properties this year should approximate $300,000. Both properties are located in the Napa Lake cinabar area, and are said to show extensive reserves carrying good quicksilver averages.

OLD VEIN FOLLOWED

The Marklee Mining Company, operating an old property near the historic camp of Volcano, has dewatered the 500-foot shaft and started prospecting for the continuation of the ore body which yielded a fortune in pioneer days. Old workings are said to contain large amounts of mill ore and plans are being made for early resumption of production.

Rich ore is said to have been showing when a heavy flow of water drove out the former owners and stopped all activities. The new company, composed chiefly of Southern Californians, has installed powerful mine equipment and is handling the water easily.

CAPACITY INCREASED FOR MILL

Phelps Dodge Output at Concentrator Boosted by New Machinery

MORENCI (Ariz.) July 7. (Exclusive)—Capacity of the Phelps-Dodge concentrator here has been increased by the installation of two seven-foot cone crushers. Screens, bins and feeders are on the ground, ready for placing. Three new ball mills are being added to the primary grinding circuit to replace mills of smaller capacity.

Completion of a drainage tunnel tapping the lower levels of Phelps-Dodge's Humboldt mine has accelerated underground development. A new raise has been added to the No. 14 level, which eventually will be used as the main haulage tunnel. New hoists of the elevator type are to be placed over both the Joy and No. 6 shaft this month.

All this means that Phelps-Dodge will require considerably more power. This requirement is to be met by adding a new Nordberg Diesel engine to the power plant.

OIL COMMITTEE TO MEET TODAY

Revising of Kettleman Hills Agreement Planned

Government Said to Want Change in Pact

Conference Held With Agent of Secretary Wilbur

Although seven oil operators at Kettleman Hills are reported to have signed an agrement to temporarily suspend all operations on the north dome, a meeting of the special committee of seven appointed last April by F. C. Van Deinse, then oil umpire, has been called for today by Chairman E. D. Reiter for the purpose of considering an amendment to the plan.

During the last week a meeting was held by the Kettleman Hills operators with Dr. George Otis Smith, representative here of Secretary of the Interior Wilbur. It is reported that the conference brought out the fact that the government would like to have certain changes made in the compact.

GAS PRESSURE HEAVY

For the last two weeks the two deepest wells of the Milham Exploration Company, Elliott No. 2, and Kennedy No. 1, have caused considerable anxiety because of heavy gas pressures. Many tons of hematite have been forced into the holes to hold down the gas. Indications are that but a few hundred feet more of formation can be penetrated before these wells are completed. It is expected that they might ease off the pressure on Elliott No. 1 which is said to be still out of control. It has been putting out 3500 barrels of oil a day along with about 75,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

The General Petroleum Corporation, failing to bring in its Ochsner No. 2, has resumed efforts to sidetrack past the frozen three-inch drill pipe. The top of the drill pipe is stuck at 6535 feet. About 200 feet of it remain to be pulled as it completely blocks possibility of any gas or oil being produced, it is asserted.

General's Ochsner No. 3 on Sec. 20 is drilling below 3268 feet in hard brown shale, and gas is said to be quite lively.

The Standard Oil Company is drilling ahead in fifteen projects, grading locations for two and may spud in a third before the end of the current week.

GOOD SHOWING

The No. 81 well, deepest hole Standard has in that area, is drilling ahead below 6473 feet. This showed up well several weeks ago. Considerable gas was present. Many cores have been taken.

No showings are reported in Armstrong No. 4-1 and Armstrong No. 6-1, of George F. Getty, Inc.

The Petroleum Securities Company recently spudded in Ladd No. 1 of Sec. 28, 29-16, and is preparing site for Gatchell No. 1 on Sec. 20, 29-16. On the middle dome, its Malmesbury No. 1 on Sec. 34, 23-18 is shut down in accordance with an operators' agreement.

The Felix No. 1 on Sec. 33, has eleven and three-quarter-inch casing cemented at 5410 feet and it will be allowed to stand for about a week before being drilled out. The Robinson No. 1 on Sec. 14, 23-17, is drilling ahead at 450 feet.

Eleven and three-quarter-inch casing has been cemented at 3367 feet in the Pacific Western Oil Company's No. 27 well.

ETHIOPIA NAMES NEW PATRIARCH

Medieval Pomp Marks Election of Aboona by Old Empire

ADDIS ABABA (Abyssinia) July 7.—Amid scenes of medieval pomp and color, the oldest Christian negro empire in Africa has elected a new Patriarch, or Aboona, as spiritual leader of 3,000,000 Ethiopians.

Abyssinia has been without an Aboona since the death of Aboona Matheos in December, 1926, which was followed closely by the death of the Patriarch of Egypt.

Although Abyssinia is politically an independent state, the Patriarch of Egypt holds religious jurisdiction over the Greek orthodox population of Ethiopia, and confirms the election of the Aboona, who must be a subject of King Fuad of Egypt. As soon, however, as the Egyptian Patriarch, Johannes XIX, was elected, the Abyssinian government sent to Egypt Sahle Sedalou, Minister of Education and Fine Arts, to discuss unofficially, the question of the appointment of the new Aboona.

In Abyssinia a considerable body of opinion feels that the Aboona should no longer be an Egyptian, but an Abyssinian, and that further Abyssinian bishops should be appointed. However, the Greek Orthodox Church of Egypt, otherwise known as the Copt church, considers it essential that the Aboona should be an Egyptian. Further, the Egyptians are opposed to the appointment of Abyssinian bishops, since following the laws of the church, three bishops can consecrate an Aboona.

This difference of opinion has been solved by mutual concessions between the two governments. Hereafter the Aboona shall, as in the past, be an Egyptian. On the other hand, five Abyssinian bishops are to be appointed, but they are to undertake to obey the orders of the Aboona, and further to swear that they will not consecrate an Aboona or King under pain of excommunication.

CALIFORNIA ELKS TO ELECT MELLMANN PRESIDENT

Arrival of Last Delegates, Public Session and Reception Will Head Today's Program

Fred B. Mellmann, Oakland (Cal.) attorney and Past Exalted Ruler of the Oakland Elks' Lodge, was unopposed for the office of President of the California Elks' Association last night and probably will be elected at a meeting of that organization, scheduled to be held in the Elks' Temple here this morning.

That Mellmann will probably receive the highest office in California Elkdom was learned as the California Elks' Association met yesterday in the first official gathering held in connection with the opening of the Elks' national convention, which commenced yesterday.

While it was admitted that an unexpected and as yet unannounced candidate may develop in opposition to Mellmann overnight, the majority of opinion last night was that Mellmann's election may practically be conceded.

BOTTLE TO BE SUCCEEDED

Mellmann is elected at today's session of the California Elks' Association, one of the strongest organizations within the ranks of the national Elks' lodge, will succeed in office J. J. Doyle of Los Angeles, who served as president of the association for the past year.

Outside of the unofficial presidential poll, the meeting of the association yesterday at the Elks' Temple was given over largely to the reading of reports from President Doyle and the board of trustees.

The outstanding recommendation of the latter body was that an appropriation be made for the immediate purchase of a $1000 founder's certificate of the Elks National Foundation, the $30,000,000 social service fund now being raised as one of the major activities of the national program.

The President's report disclosed that during the past year three applications for new lodge charters have been made within the State of two of them—Oceanside and Ojai—have been granted. The total number of lodges now in the State is 71.

While the California organization's meeting was the outstanding business event of the opening day, the other activities included get under way with large numbers of visiting Elks in evidence everywhere.

CHURCHES HOLD SERVICES

Nearly all Los Angeles churches Sunday morning held services at which Elks were especially invited. At St. Vibiana's Cathedral, Second and Main streets, Rt. Rev. John J. Cantwell, Bishop of Los Angeles, assisted by Rev. Joseph A. Sullivan, conducted services for visiting members of the fraternal organization. Rev. O. P. Gifford of Pasadena preached at the First Baptist Church and Bishop Bertrand Stevens at St. Paul's Cathedral. A sermon was preached at the latter edifice by Rev. John Dysart, grand chaplain of the Elks. At St. John's Episcopal Church, Rev. George Davenport, rector, surrendered his pulpit to Rt. Rev. Ernest Shayler, bishop of the diocese of Nebraska. Services were also held at the First Methodist Episcopal Church by Rev. Elmer E. Helms, pastor.

Early yesterday morning the first event of the convention's elaborate sports program began at the Los Angeles Gun Club, where entrants in the Southern California championship trapshoot began shooting. In the afternoon hundreds of persons gathered in various parks throughout the city to listen to visiting Elks broadcast over radio clubs.

Although yesterday was the official opening day of the convention, the big programs were indulged in by the larger part of eastern and state-association delegations were still arriving. Many delegations arrived yesterday, but most the larger part of the day getting installed in hotels and making other necessary arrangements. Registration headquarters in the Subway Terminal Building reported the heaviest non-California registration since the opening of the bureau three days ago.

PUBLIC SESSION TODAY

Today's convention will be featured by the official public session in the Philharmonic Auditorium, Fifth and Olive streets, at 8 p.m., when Gov. Young, Mayor Porter, Grand Exalted Ruler Murray Hulbert, Grand Ruler Edward Gibbs of Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99, and other officials will take part in the ceremonies.

JOHN BIXBY DIES DUE TO AUTO CRASH

Injuries Suffered June 20 When His Car Turned Over Result Fatally

John T. Bixby, 23 years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Bixby of Rancho Alamitos, Long Beach, died yesterday at St. Vincent's Hospital of injuries received in an automobile accident June 20, last.

According to a police report of the accident, which occurred around 2 a.m. of that date, young Bixby appeared to have been unable to make the curve in Wilshire Boulevard near Thayer street. After striking a light post and safety blinker at the intersection, his roadster turned over.

Following the accident Bixby was taken in a Beverly Hills police ambulance to the Beverly Hills Emergency Hospital, where he was treated by Dr. J. W. Young for a compound fracture of the right leg, cuts, abrasions and loss of blood. Later he was removed to the St. Vincent's Hospital.

Officer Daniels, the first to investigate, reported no skid marks near the scene of the accident, and Detective of Police A. Conneley, who also made inquiry, was unable to make a traffic report as Bixby, he asserted, requested that his car be taken to a Beverly Hills garage, whence it immediately was removed.

Born on Rancho Alamitos, Bixby attended the University of California, which he left a year ago to enter the employ of the Los Angeles Warehouse, of which his father is president. He was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 p.m. tomorrow from the Church of Our Savior, 535 Rose Road, San Gabriel.

FLYERS DRONE ON NEAR GOAL

Local Endurance Plane Has Passed 137th Hour

Mendell and Reinhart Feel Certain of Success

Good Weather's Advent Aids in Their Attempt

The reign of Cleveland's new endurance air kings appeared to be waning early this morning as L. W. Mendell and R. B. Reinhart, Culver City flyers, piloted their endurance Airsedan, the Angeleno, past its one hundred and thirty-seventh hour in the air at 12:30 a.m., and were going smoothly and strong.

Refueling contact for today's grind will be carried out at 7:30 a.m., during the one hundred and forty-fourth hour of the flight, notes dropped at midnight said.

With but forty-odd hours more to go, the local airmen yesterday sent messages that they are growing more confident each hour and that "everything is perfect." The messages were dropped as they zoomed low over the hangars at the Culver City Airport shortly before taking on their second supply of fuel for the day.

At the time, their 225-horsepower motor droned evenly and the flyers appeared in first-class condition and in jubilant spirits to those who saw them. A. E. McManus, manager of the flight, and others at the airport are so confident the Angeleno pilots will surpass the Cleveland mark of 174 hours, set last Saturday, that plans already are under way to accord them a great reception.

To break the new record, Mendell and Reinhart will have to remain aloft until tomorrow, when at 2:30 p.m., they will have surpassed, by one hour, as is officially required, the record set by Roy L. Mitchell and Byron K. Newcomb. The Culver City flyers, however, have asserted that they will remain up 400 hours if possible.

Weather conditions, which were adverse during the first few days of the flight, have been good during the last forty-eight hours and indications are that favorable conditions will prevail for the next few days.

BROMLEY'S PLANE DEVELOPS HIGH SPEED

Lieut. Harold Bromley's specially constructed monoplane, which he plans to pilot on a nonstop flight from Tacoma, Wash., to Tokio, developed an average speed of better than 179 miles per hour yesterday when tested over a measured course at the Metropolitan Airport, both with and against the wind.

The low-wing monoplane, which was built by the Lockheed Company in Burbank is the largest ever turned out by that concern and was flown on its test flights yesterday morning by Herbert Fahy, Lockheed's chief test pilot.

With the wind, the plane registered a speed of 183 miles per hour as against 176 miles in the wind. Lockheed Company's chief engineer and designer of the trans-Pacific ship was present yesterday at the speed trials and asserted that it surpassed his best hopes.

Tomorrow the ship is to be taken to Muroc, in the Mojave Desert, where load-lifting tests will be conducted and it will be ascertained whether the Pratt-Whitney Wasp motor is capable of lifting a load of 9000 pounds, the estimated weight of the ship when fully equipped for its transocean voyage.

The personnel of the group which will accompany the ship to the Mojave Desert will include a staff of expert mechanics and technicians of the Lockheed Company, and the tests will be observed by Ben S. Hunter, executive vice-president.

Tax Advisers and Actor to Face Judges

While the Federal grand jury is preparing to delve further into asserted irregularities in the making of income-tax returns by Hollywood and Beverly Hills motion-picture persons, three defendants, accused on former indictments, are scheduled to appear in United States District courts today.

E. Marjorie Berger, income-tax adviser for numerous motion-picture actors and actresses, is to appear before United States District Judge Sawtelle for arraignment and entry of pleas on three separate indictments. Edward H. Hayden, an income-tax adviser, is to appear in the same court for arraignment and plea.

Raymond McKee, motion-picture actor, is to appear before Judge Henning for arraignment and plea.

HOLLYWOOD CHAMBER ASKS STREET OPENING

The North Hollywood Chamber of Commerce has petitioned the Council to take steps toward the opening of that portion of Hatteras street between Lankershim Boulevard and Fair avenue not already dedicated as a public street. The Council referred the matter to the City Engineer and Street Opening and Widening Committee.

WOMAN KILLED BY TRUCK

Heavy Machine Turns Over When Tire Blows Out; Four Others Near Death in Traffic Mishaps

One woman is dead, four persons were possibly fatally hurt and ten others seriously injured in traffic accidents in Los Angeles yesterday. Mrs. J. R. Bonenberger, 72 years of age, of 2944 Lee street, died of injuries she received when a truck in which she was riding turned over at Garnet and Dacotah streets. The truck was driven by Sam Wood, 1085 Dacotah street. It capsized when one of the tires blew out.

One woman whose car struck a boy on a bicycle was arrested by the Wilshire police, who asserted she failed to stop after the accident. The woman is Mrs. Hattie Stangehl of the Rutland Apartments, Washington and Main streets. Detective Lieutenants Peterson and Craig witnessed the accident and gave chase in a police car when Mrs. Stangehl did not stop.

The boy is Albert Gaher, 1300 South Van Ness avenue. He was taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, where doctors said his injuries were not fatal.

AUTOS COLLIDE

Jack Gregory, 35, 208 West Laurel avenue, is expected to die from injuries he received when the car in which we was riding collided with a machine driven by Mrs. Blanche Robinson, 4812 Colfax avenue.

In the accident in which Mrs. Bonenberger was fatally hurt, four others in the truck were also badly injured. They are Andrew J. Wyatt, 84, of 360 Guabradio street, Mrs. J. J. Schler, 35, of the same address, and Mrs. Lillian Clayton, 53, and Mrs. Susan Davis, 70, of 2806 East Sixth street. All were treated at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

D. E. Blake, 28, a printer who lives at 212 West Laurel avenue, Glendale, and his wife, suffered severe cuts and bruises in the accident with Gregory. William Koerlin, 40, a passenger in their automobile, has several bruises and his chest was injured. His injuries are not expected to prove fatal.

Gregory was removed to the Physicians' and Surgeons' Hospital in Glendale, where at a late hour yesterday it was said his injuries are critical. The accident occurred at West Pico and La Cienega boulevards.

Judge Stephens Seeks Place on Supreme Bench

Superior Judge Stephens yesterday announced that in the event one of the incumbent justices declines re-election he will become a candidate at the election next year for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

"About a month ago," reads the statement Judge Stephens issued in making known his decision, "I was asked to become chief counsel for an industrial corporation at an attractive salary. Acceptance, of course, would mean resignation from the bench. It has been no secret that I have desired to go higher in judicial work, and this ambition, which I retain, would have to be abandoned. After serious consideration and consultation with a few friends I have decided to decline the offer and at this time to announce my candidacy for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court at the election next year. My candidacy is, however, dependent upon one of the incumbent justices declining re-election."

Maj. C. C. Moseley, on behalf of the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., clambored aboard it and extended official welcome to the Colonel and his wife.

The Lindberghs were assisted out and, after posing for news photographers and motion picture cameramen, were escorted to the airport offices of the Maddux Airlines, where the two were tendered an informal reception by an official group representing T.A.T., Inc., including, in addition to Maj. Moseley, Max Cornwell, chief of operations, and H. W. Beck, traffic manager of the western division, Gene Vidal, chief meteorologist, and Fred Harvey and T. B. Eastland, directors.

After a brief rest the Flying Colonel, with Mrs. Lindbergh still at his side, was escorted to Gov. Young's summer offices in the Associated Realty Building, where on the minute of 3:06 p.m. he closed a through Western Union circuit which formally inaugurated America's first air-rail transportation service by conveying the signal which started the Pennsylvania Railroad train out of the Pennsylvania Station in New York City with its first load of westbound passengers. Many of these will arrive in Los Angeles, the last leg of the journey being accomplished by the air route, tomorrow evening.

SIMPLE CEREMONY

The ceremony was brief and simple.

Col. Lindbergh took his place between Gov. Young and Mayor Porter, and after glancing at his wrist watch, touched the specially installed button on the Governor's desk. This, it was explained, sounded a gong in the grand concourse of the Pennsylvania station which sent the train, known as

Colonel's Signal Inaugurates New Air-Rail Service

Gov. Young Among Those at Simple Ceremony

Completing another transcontinental flight in the interests of commercial aviation, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh, landed at Grand Central Air Terminal, Glendale, yesterday at 1:26 p.m. Cheered by thousands gathered there to obtain another fleeting glimpse of the Lone Eagle and a first view of his bride, the former Anne Morrow, he brought his golden-winged, blue-fuselaged Curtiss-Falcon open biplane to earth in a perfect landing, 2h., 41m. after hopping off from Kingman, Ariz.

The landing was made shortly after the glistening ship, readily recognized as the Colonel's, appeared out of the east and circled several times above the field. Hundreds of eager eyes in the grand stand were disappointed when the idolized flyer failed to taxi up to the structure and, instead, maneuvered the craft to a point at the end of the airport.

TALKIES will have to get a lot better if the motion-picture industry is to avoid a catastrophe.

In most instances, they have lost the greatest charm of the old movies—which was speed. I saw one yesterday in which the whole story was told by the first remark of one of the girls; then you had to listen to it being dragged and mauled and lugged and tortured through six or seven reels.

The dialogue ran something like this:

"I am going to see the Governor."

"Oh, don't go to see the Governor."

"Yes, I insist on seeing the Governor."

"I don't want you to see the Governor."

"Nevertheless I shall see the Governor. . . ."

And so on and on until you wanted to stand up and yell: "For the love of Mike, somebody shoot the Governor!"

TOO MUCH ART

Another thing makes most talkies tedious to the point of agony. The producers hire some guy from the opera to warble. Having paid him so much, he sings on and on to the last word of the last verse. There is no mercy in their hearts.

BOOTLEG

Mabel Walker Willebrandt is profoundly right in her declaration that bootleg booze ranking is on the wane.

The social sclat that went with a cellar full of forbidden liquor is oozing away. You can't get much social distinction by a cellar full of formaldehyde and assorted cleaning fluids.

BABY MURDERERS

The silly season in Kentucky is blowing off steam by arguing what to do with a murderer 6 years of age. There isn't anything that can be done with him—except spank him. Even that will be of benefit only to the extent that it furnishes a mild form of exercise to the spanker.

ONLY TEN

No one can justly find fault with the lovely Chicago lady who—having had ten husbands—is angling for the eleventh. In her case it has evidently become a settled determination to marry all the white population. The only sporting thing to do would be to arrange it so she can get her marriage certificates by dropping a dollar in a slot machine and have her marriage ceremonies done by a phonograph record.

REWARDS FOR MODESTY

Wilmer Stults had to die to get credit for the trans-Atlantic flight which made Amelia Earhart famous. This is an age when modesty is rewarded by the core of the apple and the skin off the ham.

"ORIGINAL ORIGINS"

No other laws passed by Congress carry with them the bitterness of an immigration law. The new one which has just gone into effect has a measure of rough justice. Immigrants are admitted in proportion to the nationality of the original settlers of America. In other words, the tickets are given to those whose ancestors did the tough work of settling America—and stealing the land from the Indians.

TWENTY WAIT TO TESTIFY

Davis Trial Enters Upon Second Week Today; Defendant Plans to be Last Witness

With more than twenty witnesses in waiting, the Davis bribery case in Superior Judge Wilson's court will start its second week of trial this morning with little prospects of ending before next Friday.

By a sudden switch in defense plans, Harold L. (Buddy) Davis who is charged with having accepted a bribe of $7500, while chief deputy District Attorney under Asa Keyes, will not take the stand today and probably will not relate to the jury his version of the asserted affair until near the end of the week.

LAST WITNESS

From the witnesses who will take the stand during the next two days the defense hope to disprove any intention or action on the part of Davis to "let up" on Ed Rosenberg, one of the Julian stock-fraud defendants, in whose behalf Davis is asserted to have accepted the $7500 from Ben Getzoff, convicted briber and fixer.

Davis himself is being saved as the last defense witness. When he does take the stand a full half-day of court session will be required for him to tell his story under direct examination, it was announced yesterday and the prosecution is expected to cross-examine him for another full court session.

STATE'S CASE

The prosecution in charge of Chief Deputy District Attorney Stewart and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Simpson took just a day and one-half to present their case. In all six witnesses were called, headed by Ben Getzoff, who told of the asserted bribe and his version of how he gave it to Davis. He was followed by Joe Sherman, a tailor who worked in the Spring-street tailor

FIGURES SHOW INCREASE IN HOLLYWOOD TRAFFIC

Traffic counts made on Sunset Boulevard just east of Vine street, show that an average of 1,935,000 automobiles and pedestrians monthly pass along the thoroughfare, according to H. E. Skinner, Hollywood traffic engineer.

South and northbound traffic on Vine street, which crosses Sunset Boulevard, as checked on Vine street just south of Sunset, indicates a monthly average traffic of 2,023,000 automobiles and pedestrians, he said.

Sunset Boulevard is the only cleared boulevard running through Hollywood, having no street-car lines. It is proposed to widen Sunset from Normandie street to Havenhurst avenue.

RITES TODAY FOR NEWMARK

Son of Pioneer Merchant Long Active in Civic Affairs and Helped in Port Development

Private funeral services will be conducted today for Maurice H. Newmark, one of Los Angeles' foremost civic and business figures, who died suddenly as a result of heart attack Friday evening at his summer home in Santa Monica.

Mr. Newmark was 70 years of age and was born in Los Angeles March 3, 1859. On July 3, 1888, he was married to Miss Rose Newmark and they have one daughter, Mrs. S. S. Kaufman of San Francisco. He was the son of Harris Newmark, a pioneer merchant of Los Angeles, who founded the Newmark wholesale grocery business, and who also played an important part in the civic and industrial development of the city. The son was vice-president of the company, now known as the M. A. Newmark Company, at the time of his death. In addition, he was vice-president of the Los Angeles Brick Company, and a member of the directorate of several other important concerns.

In 1921 he was appointed harbor commissioner by Mayor Alexander and to him is given much of the credit for the tremendous development of the port. He retired from active business several years ago, since which time he has devoted most of his time and attention to civic enterprises. One of Los Angeles' institutions in which he always took a deep personal interest was the Southwest Museum of which he was a director. He was a member of both the Concordia and Jonathan clubs and an ardent sportsman throughout his lifetime.

He leaves, besides the immediate family, two sisters, Mrs. Estelle N. Loeb and Mrs. Emily N. Loew, and a brother, Marco R. Newmark.

The body will be cremated immediately following a brief funeral ceremony.

Interspersed between the speeches will be a musical program in which the following artists and organizations will take part: Sibley Pease, organist at the Elks' Temple; Los Angeles Elks' band, led by Harold Roberts; chanters of the Los Angeles lodge, directed by J. Arthur Lewis; songs will be rendered by Zarhui Kimasdon and Otto Ploetz, with William Ellfeldt, Pauline Mather and Marie Golden as accompanists.

Railroads handled twenty special trains, and many extra cars attached to regular trains; automobile caravans were reported bringing a larger number than any other means of conveyance; steamships were loaded with lodge members and commercial air lines were doing a rushing business.

Twenty-five Delegates Come From Outposts of Alaska

One of the farthest outposts of the organization, Alaska, sent twenty-five delegates to the Elks' national convention, the delegates arriving at the Westminster Hotel yesterday after disembarking from the S. S. Ruth Alexander at San Pedro.

Alaska claims the farthest-north lodge in the Elks' organization, located at Fairbanks, approximately 4000 miles from Los Angeles, and one delegate from that far-northern city was among the Alaskan arrivals.

Other Alaska cities represented are Juneau, Skagway, Ketchikan, Cordova and Anchorage. Included in the delegation are W. J. Manahan, Exalted Ruler of the Juneau Lodge; Harry Sperlin, District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler; Henry Messerschmidt, Past Exalted Ruler of Juneau; George D. Beaumont, former United States Marshal at Juneau, and A. H. Ziegler, delegate from Ketchikan.

Third Street Improvement Job Awarded

The Board of Public Works awarded the contract for the improvement of the Third-street and Harper-avenue improvement district during the past week, according to the report yesterday of City Engineer Shaw. The contract price was $195,556. The work included cuts and fills, 400,000 square feet of asphaltic pavement, 3800 square feet of concrete pavement, curbs, sidewalks, gutters, storm drain, sewers and water and ornamental lighting systems.

During the week the following ordinances of intention were submitted to the Council: Orlando avenue between Rosewood avenue and Beverly Boulevard, Klump avenue between Burbank Boulevard and Cumpston street, Jordan avenue and Devonshire street improvement district, and M street and Machado street improvement districts.

PAGEANT WORK NEAR FINISH

Final Details for Convention Electrical Spectacle Slated for Completion This Morning

Final details for presenting the enlarged and improved $1,000,000 motion-picture electrical pageant in the Coliseum Thursday night will be completed this morning, it was announced last night by Director-General Jack L. Warner.

No expense has been spared to make this presentation the last one that the motion-picture industry ever will stage, the most spectacular in the history of modern illuminated processions, Warner declared. New floats, all of them gorgeous creations rivaling the winning entries in the Shrine event, have been built for the pageant. With the exception of the Harold Lloyd, the R-K-O, and the Warner Brothers floats, which were awarded first honors when the pageant was presented for the Shriners, all floats seen then have been completely reconstructed and given new lighting effects.

ARBORS OF ROSES

The pageant will be opened with 100 costumed Elks carrying twenty enormous arbors of illuminated roses. After marching around the Coliseum arena, they will "plant" the arbors in the center of the field. Later in the evening, this unique garden will be augmented by 100 illuminated orange trees.

Monte Blue, film star, will act as grand marshal of the pageant, and will lead a complete section of decorated and illuminated automobiles containing motion-picture stars, each of whom will greet the audience over the microphone. A finale of great beauty has been prepared for the spectacle. One of the features of this will be the reading of the famous Elks 11 o'clock toast by Conrad Nagel.

AFTER POLO GAME

The pageant will begin at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night, at the conclusion of a polo game to be played by the Uplifters' Club team and the Buccaneers. It will last approximately two and one-half hours. The spectacle will be more compact than presented during the Shrine conclave. Only one band and one drill team will march between floats.

While the sale of tickets to the pageant, the polo game and the afternoon parade is proceeding with unprecedented strength, good seats to the Elks Coliseum events still are available at B. H. Dyas stores.

Due to an error in issuance, all tickets have been recalled for the stag banquet tomorrow night in the Biltmore to Grand Lodge officers, Grand Lodge committeemen, District Deputies, Grand Exalted Ruler and representatives to the Grand Lodge, it was announced by Carl E. McStay, general chairman. Those who already have received tickets to this banquet are requested to turn them in to headquarters, where they will receive new credentials. This affair will be for men only, Chairman McStay says.

Freed Vagrant Suspect Stones Officer's House

Indignant because he had been arrested by Police Officer John Kremer for vagrancy, on which charge he was acquitted, George K. Sorge, 45 years of age, threw rocks at the officer's house on Marmion Way near North Avenue Sixty, he admitted in Municipal Judge Ambrose's court, at the same time entering a plea of guilty to charges of disturbing the peace.

The officer declared that Sorge started his bombardment at 3:30 a.m. on the 4th inst., and kept it up intermittently until 8:30 a.m., when Kremer, after a series of sallies, finally located him behind some shrubbery and placed him under arrest.

Judge Ambrose sent Sorge to jail for thirty days.

Bandit Takes Theater Cash

A nickel-plated revolver, some harsh commands and an ability to slip away in a crowd netted a robber $180 yesterday afternoon, when he raided the cashier's cage at the Burbank Theater at 550 South Main street.

Ann Allen, cashier, told the investigating officers that she had observed the highwayman standing in front of her booth for about thirty minutes, before she opened the sale of tickets. She had just been handed $100 in change by the manager, J. Wolfe, and was sorting the other money in the cash box when she heard a gruff command to hand over the currency. The man brandished a revolver, and as she shoved the money through the window he smiled, picked it up and calmly walked away in the crowd. The police have a good description of the robber.

Girl Believed Eloping Sought by Her Mother

Police yesterday were asked to search for Opal Miller, 15 years of age, of 507 Ezra street, after her mother found a note stating that she was eloping with a man several years her senior.

"I am going away with a man. I am going to marry him," the note turned over to police by the mother, Mrs. Kate Miller, said.

According to the mother, the girl started for church yesterday morning as usual and had been gone for some time before the note was discovered.

The man, Mrs. Miller told officers, is 26 years of age, and has been friendly with the girl for several months.

TWO BOYS HURT

Two boys in different parts of the city were possibly fatally hurt when they stepped from behind parked machines and were struck by passing machines. Ben Padilla, 10, sustained a skull fracture when he ran in front of the car driven by Miss May Day, 1914 Marengo street at Third and Figueroa streets.

Joseph Whitlow, 9, 253 East Eighty-first street, received a skull fracture when he ran into the street and was struck by the car driven by Fred Bassard, 8114 San Pedro streets. Both victims were taken to the Georgia-street hospital. The driver in neither case was held by the police.

TEMPLE TO BE CENTER IN CONCLAVE FESTIVITY

The spacious Elks' Temple, West Sixth street and Park View, will be one of the chief places of entertainment for visiting Elks at the sixty-fifth national convention this week, according to plans outlined yesterday.

Hundreds of the visitors will participate in the national bowling tournament to be played on the alleys in the basement of the building. The contest began Saturday night and will continue throughout the week with the winner to be designated the champion Elk bowler of America, and in addition, to be awarded a cash prize of $300 and a diamond-studded medal.

Under the direction of officials of the local lodge and with the aid of numerous art objects obtained from the home of Mrs. Silas Slusher, art director, the interior of the building has been redecorated to present a brilliant sight to guests from all parts of the country.

During the convention special service will be accorded patrons of the Patio, where afternoon teas, luncheons, dinners and suppers will be served. Troubadours, serenaders, an eleven-piece orchestra and a Spanish string orchestra will furnish musical entertainment.

For the accommodation of the visitors the dining-room hours have been rearranged. Breakfast will be served in the main dining-room from 6:30 to 10 a.m.; luncheon from 11:30 a.m. and dinner from 5 p.m. until midnight or later. LINDBERGH AND HIS BRIDE HERE the Airway Limited, on its way. In addition to the Governor, the Mayor and the T.A.T. officials, the inauguration was witnessed by Lieut.-Gov. Carnahan, Mrs. Lindbergh, R. K. Rochester, general manager of Pennsylvania Railroad; J. L. Maddux, president of Maddux Air Lines, and Mrs. Maddux, Lieut. D. W. (Tommy) Tomlinson, vice-presidents of Maddux, and newspaper men.

After the ceremony, Col. Lindbergh gave assurances that air-rail travel between New York and Los Angeles ultimately will be reduced to the time of but one business day. The present schedule, inaugurated yesterday, calls for departure by train from New York at 6 p.m. and arrival in Los Angeles on the evening of the second day by way of airplane from Columbus, O., to Waynoka, Okla., train to Clovis, N. M., and airplane to Grand Central.

COLONEL'S PREDICTION

The colonel predicted that within a year the company expects to be in a position to abolish the train journey between Clovis and Waynoka and substitute air travel in its place. To this end, he announced, a new plane at present is being subjected to exhaustive tests at Garden City, N. Y. It is known as a Curtiss-Condor, and is powered with two 625-horsepower Conqueror motors. The ships now in use over the T.A.T. route are Ford trimotored monoplanes. Before abandoning the Clovis-Waynoka train leg of the journey, Col. Lindbergh stated, the new planes will be thoroughly tested for their night-flying adaptability.

"As people come to learn of the flying comfort and time-saving advantages," the colonel said, "they will have more and more recourse to the air mode of travel."

Apprised of the movement now being made by the Park Commission to have the California National Guard vacate its field at Griffith Park, Col. Lindbergh declared he hopes it would not be successful, for the reason, he explained, that being adjacent to the Grand Central Air Terminal, the field constitutes an appreciable safety factor for planes taking off from there in event of a suddenly forced landing through failure of the motor.

JOURNEY ENJOYED

Mrs. Lindbergh declared she had enjoyed the flight to the fullest, recalling particularly the beauty of the Painted Desert from the air. She confined her remarks to the pleasantness of the trip, her husband requesting that neither he nor she be questioned otherwise.

With the conclusion of the inaugural ceremony and interview, Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh were escorted to the Ambassador.

At 8:45 this morning, Mary Pickford officially will christen the City of Los Angeles, T.A.T.'s first eastbound plane, after which Col. Lindbergh will take the controls and pilot it to Clovis, N. M., with its initial east-bound passengers in the cabin. Mrs. Lindbergh, it was announced, will accompany him as far as Winslow, Ariz., where she will alight and await his return.

Tomorrow, the colonel will transfer at Clovis to the City of Washington, the company's first westbound ship and transport to Los Angeles, the coast-bound passengers who were aboard the Airway Limited which he started on its journey yesterday. On its arrival here this ship will be christened by Gloria Swanson.

Incidental to the ceremonies yesterday, J. L. Maddux announced that he has named H. W. Beck to serve as traffic manager of the Maddux Air Lines.

EASTERN PARTY STARTS WESTWARD

NEW YORK, July 7. (AP)—On a signal flashed from the west coast by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, seventeen persons left New York tonight, the first two plane-loads of the new Transcontinental Air Transport air-rail service between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

Among the plane-train passengers are Miss Amelia Earhart, trans-Atlantic flyer and assistant passenger agent of the T.A.T.; several officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad, of the air company and several paying passengers.

Before the train left there were ceremonies in the Pennsylvania station concourse. The T.A.T. plane City of New York was christened by Miss Earhart and the train composing the first link of the air-rail line was christened by Dorothy Stone, daughter of Fred Stone, actor.

The passengers left New York at 7:05 p.m. (eastern daylight time) to reach Columbus, O., in the morning, taking air there at the same time the first eastbound plane of the air-rail line takes off from Los Angeles. The transcontinental journey takes approximately forty-eight hours, the two nights being on trains and the two days on airplanes.

No Move Made to Free Bail Bondsman Accused of Bribe Offer in Pantages Case

No move was made yesterday to free William R. (Paddy) McGee, bail bondsman and former special deputy sheriff who was arrested Saturday and charged with attempting to bribe a witness against Mrs. Lois Pantages, wealthy theater owner's wife who is awaiting hearing on a charge of second-degree murder resulting from the death of a Japanese injured in a crash between his automobile and one driven by Mrs. Pantages, a policeman of the Hollywood Division, who was one of the officers who arrested Mrs. Pantages, and made inducements to influence Dutton's testimony in case Mrs. Pantages was brought to trial on the murder charge. It is asserted that McGee said to Dutton:

"There will be plenty on the line."

McGee, who is 45 years of age and lives at 1015 East Seventy-eighth street, has denied the charge but admitted being a friend of the Pantages family. Alexander Pantages, husband of Mrs. Pantages, said when informed of McGee's arrest, that he "was never employed by me or authorized to have anything to do with the case," and spoke of him as "One McGee."

Hundreds Seek City Positions

Papers of 1548 applicants who took written tests for twenty-five different tasks with the city are being graded by the examination division of the City Civil Service Department, according to Secretary Gravatt.

The papers include those of the 316 civilians who took the tests for ambulance drivers for the police department, to replace patrolmen now engaged in that work who are to be restored to police duty as soon as the eligible list of drivers is available.

Other papers include those of 219 who took the written test for policewomen, 100 who took the test for power-house station operators, 121 who seek to be assistant women probation officers and 140 who took the test for watchman.

Today's Bible Text

For every creature of God is good, and nothing to be refused, if it be received with Thanksgiving. 1 Timothy iv:4.

TOO MANY HOODOOS

The proposed new calendar would give the country thirteen Fridays the 13th. Folks who believe in hoodoos will hastily turn that calendar to the wall.

BEATS CENSORSHIP

The police in Chicago have put a stop to two plays that were indecent and obscene. Thus proving that ordinary police powers can take care of almost any situation when they are working.

WANTS OUT

Looks as if the Philadelphia lawyers would get that $50,000 offered by Al Capone and leave the gangster still in jail. This would be a joke on a boss who has trained in an atmosphere of double crosses.

LOOKS PRETTY GOOD

One of our swami philosophers tells us that as long as we may still be thrilled by ideals the processes of human evolution continue. The world may be noisy and busy, but it is not all bad. Anyhow, this is no quitting time.

THE LONE WOLF

Senator Brookhart talks of starting another revolt, but isn't sure whether it will take the form of a third party or not. Possibly it will. He and Hiram need what might be called individual parties in order to assure them their field of self-expression. They couldn't possibly combine with anybody else.

COUNTY DOG LICENSES

There are plenty of dogs in Los Angeles county, outside of the city and incorporated towns, but the job of collecting the license tax is so difficult and expensive that the Supervisors have repealed the license ordinance and given up in disgust. Only about a quarter of the hounds got on the register and a square deal was impossible. Therefore, Bruno may range at free will so far as he is beyond the town.

GAS FROM COAL

Hungarian scientists are said to be able to extract a 70 per cent gasoline from the bituminous coal mines of their country. If this be true it is a remarkable showing and would do much in meeting the petrol problems of that section. We can get gasoline from coal, but not at any profit as against flowing wells. But the situation is different in Hungary.

PEACE REIGNS

The churches are once more open in Mexico and the priests are returning to their altars. It is hoped that no further misunderstandings will arise. The priests are reinstated, but expected to evade and avoid the entanglements of politics. There is to be complete separation of church and state. It is not only best for Mexico, but for the world, that the bitterness between the government and the church has been amicably adjusted.

THE NEW DISPENSATION

Now that the Vatican has been set up as an independent state the Pope has some of the luxuries and accessories of modern life. He has a special Pullman coach and the latest and finest thing in motor cars. Also now the Vatican is to have a great radio station that will permit His Holiness to broadcast a message to the wide, wide world. This station will be the gift of the Catholics of America and will be installed at an expense exceeding $1,500,000. The Pope is no longer a religious recluse, but a personality in a busy world.

HIGH FINANCE

There are big mergers in the air—some of them in air industries. Hardly a day passes without its aviation hook-up. It may be in transportation, production or terminals. Perhaps all three. But there it is. This reported fusion of the Wright and Curtiss interests is one of the most impressive consolidations of big business. They are the pioneers and represent solid worth in aviation. They may provide the framework for another blend like General Motors. The financiers and speculators are up in the air and learning to fly. This is what they call high finance.

IS MINING NEGLECTED?

The declaration of Senator Oddie of Nevada that the $6,000,000,000 mineral industry of the nation is being neglected by the Federal government and its development hindered by lack of appropriations for the Geological Survey and the Bureau of Mines, is something that should arouse much interest in the West, where so much of this mineral wealth has been stored by nature. His suggestion that the California Development Association and other commercial organizations take note of this situation and press the claims of the mineral industry to recognition, is an excellent one.

When western mining is mentioned, the average American citizen thinks only of a search for the precious metals. But in proposing the formation of a mineral clearinghouse in Los Angeles, the first fruit of Senator Oddie's appeal to the California Development Association, special attention was drawn to the value of nonmetallic minerals and the necessity of collecting data on these deposits as well as on the more valuable metals, such as gold, silver, copper and zinc.

The duties of this clearinghouse, working in connection with the State Bureau of Mines and Mining, will be to tabulate California mineral resources, gather samples and collect lists of manufacturers and others for the sale and disposal of these minerals. An appropriation has already been made for the publication of 2500 geological maps of California for free distribution.

Agriculture is receiving unusual attention from the Federal government. This is fit and proper since agriculture is the mainstay of any people. But the industrial advance of a nation is bound up in the development of its mineral resources and our people should also be mineral-minded. Congress should be able to appropriate sufficient funds for needed geological survey work and for making reports of such available to those interested in the mineral industry.

Southern California may expect to benefit considerably from any movement aimed at discovery and development of potential mineral deposits. The present wealth in the form of tangible assets peculiar to mining enterprises in Southern California, exclusive of petroleum and natural gas, is valued at $150,000,000. In these strictly mining industries 12,000 persons find employment. Minerals exploited in this section of the State include fifty-eight different kinds, over thirty of which are produced on a commercial scale. Our chief Southern California minerals consist of stone, cement, kaolin, silver, clay, gold, zinc, talc, lead, lime, soda, silica, gypsum, feldspar, granite, copper, gems—their annual output being in value in the order listed. San Bernardino is the leading southern county in this mineral production, its products last year reaching the sum of $14,219,000.

But what Southern California has already added to the mineral wealth of the country is but a fraction of the riches at present waiting scientific exploration and concerted business action. The resources of our vast southwestern deserts have hardly been scratched. New demand by new industries for minerals at present hardly marketable may yet prove our deserts to contain some of our greatest assets. Research work is requisite along these lines. Closer cooperation between the users and the creators of these minerals is essential. The mineral clearinghouse sponsored by the California Development Association promises excellent results in both these particulars.

BERLIN WANTS FRUIT

The opening of a market in Germany for the entire surplus of California fruit crops, foreseen as a probability by Paul Busch, a high official of the Berlin city government, is good news for California growers. Berlin is providing a municipal market at a cost of $18,000,000 and Herr Busch is to be in charge of it. Since the Reich grows very little fruit, the import demands are and will be very large. It is expected a population of approximately 15,000,000 will be tributary to this new market.

A direct line of ships, equipped with refrigerator capacity, is planned to take care of the new trade. Presumably the ships will bring to this coast German manufactured products and assist in building up a mutually beneficial trade. Herr Busch estimates that the German market can easily absorb 200,000 tons of fruit a year, which is, at present, the entire surplus production of this State.

The provision of refrigeration facilities which will permit the most direct handling of the fruit at the lowest cost is necessary, but these will be forthcoming if other details of the trading can be established on a satisfactory basis. Upon Herr Busch's return to Berlin, trade emissaries will be dispatched to arrange these details.

The furnishing of large quantities of fruit to the German population, to be sold virtually at cost, is being undertaken by the German government as a health measure and will provide in itself an interesting experiment. With this aspect of the situation, of course, California is not directly concerned; but it is concerned with such an outlet as is thus made possible for the product of its ranches and orchards, and with the additional advertising that California will receive from the conclusion of such a deal, which cannot fail to be beneficial.

WHAT PRICE DISTRIBUTION?

At the suggestion of Secretary of Commerce Lamont there was included in the Federal census act a clause providing for an investigation of the cost of living, with the idea, in the words of Mr. Lamont, of "bringing about a reduction in the selling price of almost all the things which the head of the family has to buy."

This census of 1930—the first "cost-of-living" census in our history—will have chapters on the reasons why, at so late a period since the World War, the cost of commodities does not fall more appreciably. The Secretary thinks that it is because of the increased cost of doing business. Some of this increased cost, in his opinion, is traceable to "wasteful and uneconomic processes" incident to "the mad scramble to secure markets for an ever-increasing output."

There are plenty of statistics of production, but Mr. Lamont says that "we practically lose sight statistically of every commodity once it is produced."

It doubtless will be made plain by the census report that one of the great causes for the maintenance of prices is the cost of distribution. When a merchant has to buy high-priced trucks and pay for new tires and repairs for them in order to keep pace with his competitors he has added to the cost of distribution a large and important item. But this is only a part of the expenditure in this line, a still greater one being the hiring of high-powered salesmen, the paying of their expenses and also the opening and maintenance of branches.

Much curiosity may be satisfied by this census report. Everybody wants to know to what extent all these new mergers are affecting the cost of commodities. Are they likely to cheapen prices or raise them? What are the present rail rates doing to the consumer? To what extent do overproduction and high wages play a part? Economists will await the coming of the report with eager interest. To them its chapters will be as racy as romance.

THE STRAPHANGER

The straphanger is a modern institution. He was not invented until trolley cars came into existence. Then some bright mind conceived him as a substitute for seats.

He was promised surcease when the 7-cent fare came in; but it does not require the sleuths of the District Attorney's office to discover that he is more prolific than ever. That more cars and seats would be provided was but another mirage.

He may ride in the morning with hope in his heart and walk several blocks back to get a seat, only to find a large congregation ahead of him animated by the same noble purpose.

He hopes for a seat and gets a strap. He longs for rest and does not even get standing room. Indeed, he furnishes some of it as he supports a fellow-citizen on one of his feet. He props up his morning paper on the ear of another passenger and then rams his fist into the face of a female as they both swing around the corner. She gives him a soiled look and lands in the lap of a man who did not rise to the occasion. The life of the straphanger is one adventure after another.

His fate and feelings are more pronounced as he returns home. He entertains emotions and longings at times to place the strap around his neck and end it all. He is just a living pendulum vibrating back and forth between hope and despair, as he watches others rise and escape.

If Galileo had not discovered the law of the pendulum, the modern street-car commuter would have found it for the world. That swinging candelabra in that Italian cathedral did not have the arc of movement the straphanger achieves. However, there is no escapement of time for him—it is an age as he swings to and fro on his way home.

If they were to be placed end to end, there might be enough straphangers to reach to the traction company office and demand relief. At all events they might get as far as the City Hall.

Observations at Redondo

Serpents aren't the only things which shed their skins.

At that, sunshine isn't nearly as dangerous, in some ways, as moonlight.

Today's Luxury, Tomorrow's Uncouth Primitiveness

And no doubt fifty years from now the Reseda baby born in a motor car the other day will be looked on as we now regard those pioneers who were born in covered wagons.

Santa Monica Correspondence

A young matron swept grandly into the Santa Monica-Ocean Park Chamber of Commerce office the other day and announced:

"I'm going to have a baby and they advised me to come here—"

Secretary John L. S. Cooke had just been reading about the Reseda baby which was born in a motor car. He leaped to his feet excitedly and snatched up a telephone.

"Oh, there's no great rush," said the caller, patiently. "I just came here to inquire about hospitals and doctors and nurses. We've only lived here a few days."

The relieved secretary calmed himself enough to make out a list, including the stores which handle baby buggies.

Notes From Keen-Eyed Mary

Lee: Headline in The Times reads:
BYRD PREPARES FOR SALLY
So that's where she went!

And do you know anyone named Jone? Neither do I. But saw this sign, on the way to Wilmington:
JONE'S GROCERY
Also, I've been trying to figure out what a sign meant which I saw in a restaurant:
"LARGE SMALL STEAKS, 25c"
MARY HEMMINGER.

We don't know anything about large small steaks, Mary. We always order ours medium.

All About Pet Turtle

A pet turtle with its calling card engraved on its back held up traffic at Speedway and Telegraph avenues yesterday. And for all you often hear of "turning turtle," it took both Police Chief Webb and Fire Chief Mohr to turn that one.

The police chief was called out first to arrest it, but when he saw the lawbreaker was in an armored car he grew cautious and called out the fire chief, too. He argued the case was more in Mohr's line because Mohr is notably fond of turtle soup.

"Think of a turtle choosing a street named Speedway for a ramble," grumbled Webb. "It's a wonder it isn't hamburger by now."

Then Mohr noticed the address and the turtle was returned to its owner at 103 Hart avenue and received a good scolding for running away.

The One Safe Name

To versify our city
I've had to wrangle these Few lines, to form a ditty
To Fair Los Anjeles.

Oh, sunkist are your daughters
And Spanish are your ways,
And precious are your waters,
My own Lace Ahng-hay-lais!

Blue are the distant mountains,
And emerald seas caress
Your shore, as soft as fountains,
Beloved Los Angeles.

Turquoise the skies above you,
Where storm winds never fuss—
No wonder we so love you,
Serene Lace Onjelus.

No matter what we call you
You may be sure of this:
We love you, one and all, you
Broad-aimed Los Angelis.

But since each man I walk with Names you a different clan,
My choice, when folks I talk with,

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

ASIA'S TRADE SWINGS TO AMERICA

[The Vancouver Sun]

The situation that existed with respect to Western Canada's trade which, until a short time ago, was confined to Atlantic ports, is an exact duplicate of the situation which today exists in connection with the trade of Asia. For centuries the trade of Asia has been in and out of the Suez Canal to Europe, whereas the natural place for Japan and China and Java and India to do business is with Canada and United States, just 4000 miles across the Pacific.

In order to develop Asia's new trade route across the Pacific, Canada and the United States will have to go after that Asiatic trade with publicity, precisely as did the people of Vancouver go after the trade of Western Canada. Every city, every chamber of commerce and every newspaper on the Pacific Coast in particular, must play a big part and they will be joined by the firms and men of Asia.

Where Vancouver got the handling of 100,000,000 bushels of grain and millions of tons of goods, America, when she captures the Asiatic business, will capture the trade of the 1,000,000,000 people who live in Japan, China, Java and India.

The great world event in trade of the next few years will be the growth and swing of Asia's trade away from Europe across the Pacific to America. Asia's trade really belongs to America.

SHORT SESSIONS

[Detroit Free Press]

Again the Senate has adopted a resolution to abolish the short or "lame duck" sessions of Congress. Will the House kill it again, as it has done four times in the past six years? Very likely it will; and if it does it will be running true to a historic form that places self-interest above the interests of the nation.

The Senate has less personal interest in perpetuating the short sessions, as it is a continuing body; and therefore it can propose their abolition without drawing heavily on its fund of self-abnegation. The House would have to sacrifice more to effect this desirable reform; but it would also earn, as a result of that fact, a larger share of the credit that the people are only waiting for an opportunity to bestow on a Congress with the necessary unselfishness to remove this obstacle to the smooth and effective working of representative government.

NEW HORIZONS

[New York Times]

Any despondent person, inclined to assert that the stodgy old realm of public life never has anything really new to offer to the observer, should stop a moment to take stock of the great changes wrought during the past few months. Take Washington, for example. It is sometimes said that the more you change the national administration the more it remains the same thing. If this was ever true, it is not today. Whether we all like it altogether, or not, there can be no mistaking the new temper and method which have come. Standards of appointment to important office have been raised; a spirit of energy and hopefulness radiates from the White House; even Congress is showing itself more responsive to the needs of the day. Compared with a year ago, the whole atmosphere at Washington has been renovated.

CONGRESSMEN TO BLAME

[The Pathfinder]

Throughout the nation there are lots of mean things said about our Congressmen. They are constantly abused in the pulpit, press and private conversations, but there are no worse things said about them in the smoking car or at the village store than they say about each other on the floor of the Senate and the House.

A Congressman making a speech does not scruple or haggle at telling the opposition, and in a very loud voice, that they are thieves and cut-throats, robbers of widows and orphans, traitors to the Constitution, moral hypocrites and evil compounds of cowardice, deceit and dishonesty.

If Congress has a bad reputation it has itself to blame.

SEEING MEXICO

BY WILLIAM L. VAIL

Papeni habemus. It is safe to say that practically all Mexico is glad because a working agreement has been reached between the government and the Catholic hierarchy. There were several sides to the question and they all win—the church wins because it can walk back through the door where it walked out, very much to the detriment of church discipline; the government wins because it yields nothing that affects the floss of its dignity, and the middle people, who always get caught in the jam, win, of course, because there will be no more fighting over their heads. The concordat, if that is what they call it, will bring immediate economic advantages as well as that peace of mind which is dearer than all. Fifteen to 25,000 soldiers and many generals may return to their farms. Money used to smoke out rebels can be turned to many constructive purposes. Business conditions have not seen such a big rainbow of promise in many years.

The advertised visit of ex-President Calles to Europe and other foreign parts removes one of the last excuses of professional hell-raisers for stirring up trouble. Incidentally, in my opinion, Gen. Calles steps out of the picture as the biggest all-around man in Mexico.

An enthusiastic archeologist has recently discovered evidences of human activity, estimated to be more than 100,000 years back, in the Valley of Mexico. These were found under the lava flow of Ajusco and there appears to be not the shadow of a doubt in the mind of the distinguished discoverer, of the authenticity of the relics. This probably places Los Angeles within 1963 and a fraction miles from the real cradle of the human race, a fact worth noting.

Cables advise the recent death of the last survivor of the Mexican-American war of 1847. There are still a number of survivors on the Mexican side of the line. I spent a couple of interesting hours recently with a supervivente, as they call them in Mexico, of the battle of Buena Vista—out on the battlefield. His description of that fight was realistic and entertaining. It will be recalled that both sides claimed the victory, although in the dark of the night both armies were hunting for cover. Incidentally, that war of long ago which resulted in annexing to the United States 900,000 miles of Mexican territory has left no rancor in the average Mexican breast. What does gall the gentlemen south of the Rio Grande is the frequent meddling in what Mexicans rightly consider their own local affairs.

Only crass ignorance refers to the recent military revolt in Mexico as a revolution. It was nothing of the kind. The government had the general backing of thinking people even including the religious patriots, who were at the time indulging in fireworks of their own. The outcome demonstrates (1) that the people as a whole are tired of armed revolts, started by discontented office runners, and (2) that the government is too firmly seated to be teetered off the bench.

The first six months of this year will undoubtedly show that the mining industry in Mexico has a little more than held its own despite discouraging prices of some of the more important metals. Moreover, with a promised modification of some of the mining regulations, generally assumed to retard prospecting and development, at the next meeting of Congress in September, there is reason to believe that the mining statistics will show gains at the close of the year. Mexico still holds the lead as the biggest silver producer in the world, second or third in copper and third in gold.

Her Little Diversion

They were talking about women friends. "Do you see Emma often?" one inquired.

"Oh, yes, quite frequently," the other replied.

"Is she happily married?"

"Is she? I'll say she is. Why, that girl is so happily married she has to go to the theater for a good cry."

UNDER LAW

By James Allen Geisinger

Law is a good deal more than the petty thinking we in America so often make it. We think of our innumerable ordinances and legislative enactments, and we can scarcely escape something of contemptuousness in our attitude. But the fundamental law of the land comes up out of the depths of the experience of the people and has to do with the highest reaches of the spirit of the race. The Constitution of the United States, which in the first instance wrought out carefully the great principles having to do with the safeguarding of property, then was immediately amended so as to embody the Bill of Rights. The Eighteenth Amendment, like all other portions of the Constitution, has come up also out of the larger experience of the race and is in the interests both of property and of persons.

Our fundamental law in America is thus the product of our best thinking and deepest experience; and if the Eighteenth Amendment has already in the short period of its operation resulted in manifest individual and social betterment, why is there so much confusion as to this law and so much lawlessness generally? Why has it seemed necessary to our President to call upon us as a people to cultivate a finer regard for all law and to give the Eighteenth Amendment a fair trial?

The answer is at hand: The American people can co-operate, but from the very beginning they have placed their emphasis upon individualism and upon liberty. Our forbears came to this continent to get more room; if the place where they settled became uncomfortable they moved forward, made a new clearing, and resumed their living. So long as the frontier remained to us it was possible for us to solve our problem.

Our Constitution in the first instance was not welcomed by the people generally. Such men as Hamilton and Washington had to appeal not only by words but by the power of their total influence to get the people of the several States to accept the rules therein laid down. There were multitudes who rebelled against it, who sought to nullify it, and who were ready after its adoption to repeal it. Gradually, however, the popular mind came to see that this organic law was necessary for the protection of property and person alike.

The Eighteenth Amendment has to contend with this innate restiveness of the American people, and also with a determined and vicious opposition which is nothing short of a nation-wide conspiracy.

It is important that we remind ourselves again and again of this latter fact. Ten years ago the liquor men of the United States entered into a conspiracy to defeat prohibition. They knew that this could not be done by repeal of the law nor by any other frontal attack. It could be done only by making the enforcement of law offensive. This would not be so difficult. Wet Canada was on the north and the border lent itself readily to smuggling, as did the long coasts—east and west. These liquor men were intrenched throughout the world. Our great cities offered another field where bootlegging could be plied effectively, with reasonable security. All that was needed beyond these natural advantages was the organization of a nation-wide propaganda.

Fortunately we are all beginning to awake to their widespread misrepresentation. And fortunately, too, we can get this whole prohibition question quickly and concretely before our minds when we make the effort. When all is said about personal liberty that can be said, the fact remains that when a man and his family are out on the highway for a week-end outing or an afternoon or evening drive, he doesn't care to be smashed into by another whose drunken brain is vainly seeking to pilot his careening car! There, in concrete and in symbolical form, is the whole American prohibition question, reduced to simplest terms.

DESERT MOON

Desert moon, how great your splendor
Rising high above the hills!
Radiance like molten silver
All the silent places fills;
With your cool and glamorous beauty,
Your alluring mystic spell,
You have woven themes for romance
That the winds have sought to tell.

They have breathed your story often,
Sweeping over the white sands,
In the measures of the whirlwind
And the tongues of distant lands;
Reverently, often gaily,
Weaving on from dune to dune,
True and lusty couriers chosen
For your missions, desert moon.

Desert moon, your rising softens
All the flaming tones of day,
Setting in accord the colors
Of the great and starry way;
Blue and gold with dusky shadows
Are supreme beneath your rule,
Desert moon, so subtly fashioned
Like a rajah's priceless jewel.

The Source of Citronella

Citronella grass, from which is obtained the citronella oil used extensively as a mosquito repellent, is cultivated in the southern part of Ceylon, also in malacca and Java. Attempts to produce it elsewhere have not been particularly successful. Citronella grass grows in ordinary soil, but thrives best in a moist, hot atmosphere.

PIONEERING SPIRIT HELD NEED OF MODERN CHURCH

Pastor Declares True Faith Never Falters Before Challenge of New Frontiers

Trenchant criticism of the modern church was voiced at First Universalist Church yesterday by Dr. Sheldon Shepard, who declared that the lack of a "pioneering spirit" largely is responsible for the "ineffectiveness of our churches of today."

"Our churches are afraid of new territories, timid before progress and trembling at the thought of growth," said Dr. Shepard. "We wave the red flag before new thoughts, condemn fresh creeds without examination and brand as a crank the bearer of an unfamiliar social program."

Declaring that true faith always faces a frontier, Dr. Shepard told his congregation that by the time the multitude has moved into a given territory of vision or belief, individual attainment or social purpose "true religion has pulled up its stakes and is beating down barriers on new frontiers."

"Jesus's supreme attraction to the race is that He is the unapproached pioneer in thought and human relations," said the speaker. "His quiet life is a bugle blast of the frontiers of the heart. He was killed by the self-satisfied, distorted human beings who had throttled their own venturesome spirits.

"On the front edge of progress, life is hard. Jungles of prejudice and dogma must be hewn away. Fierce deserts of loneliness beat upon the soul. Wild beasts of chicanery, pseudo-science and trickery attack the mind that moves away from the safety of the established mental headquarters. The Phlegmatic and materialistic personalities that are left behind never understand the vanguard."

MARRIAGE CONTRACT SACREDNESS STRESSED

Declaring that 60 per cent of the people today get their ideas of marriage from scenario writers instead of from the Scriptures, Rev. S. Fraser Langford of South Park Baptist Church said yesterday that "too many films play up the virtuous wife as a fool and the home breaker as the most attractive character of the cast."

"Marital misfits and bootleggers vie with one another in congesting the courts," said Mr. Langford. "Already the divorces overtop the marriages in some sections. The remedy will be found in returning to the severer standards of the Scriptures and in lifting the whole matter of courtship into the realm of the serious and the sacred. Indiscriminate petting parties hurt the heart and leave it like an exhausted sensitive plant, incapable of response to a true affection. No courting, all-acting, all-wise, all-loving ship should be entered into without deep thought.

TAXICAB ROBBERS RUN AS DRIVER SHOWS FIGHT

When two men whom he believed to be good taxi fares put guns against his sides and demanded that he hand over all money in his possession, Darwin Azelihe, a Crown taxicab driver who lives at 1117 West Twenty-first street, decided that he would fight first and as a result he routed the bandits and lost only the 55 cents fare due him, according to his report to police.

Azelihe said he picked up two men at the intersection of Hollywood Boulevard and Western avenue early yesterday morning, who ordered him to drive to 6314 Leland Way, Hollywood. When the taxicab arrived at the given address both men stepped from the car and drew guns on the driver. He hit one in the jaw and the other ran. Azelihe followed the man he hit but failed to find him, he told police.

A. J. Scott, a driver for the General Cab Company, yesterday reported to police that he was hired by a man at Thirty-fifth street and Central avenue and asked to drive to 1017 East Forty-first street. As he halted his car before that address the man stepped out and put a gun to his side. The robber obtained $10.20, Scott said.

A. P. Burgess, driver for the Crown Cab Company, who lives at 530 West Twenty-second street, said he was hired by a man at Seventh and Main streets to be driven to 1510 West Twenty-third street. When he arrived at that address his fare stepped from the car and, after poking a revolver in his ribs obtained $15 in cash, the driver told police.

"GOD" DISCUSSED BY CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS

"God" was the subject of the lesson-sermon yesterday at all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. The Golden Text was from Psalm lxv: "Praise waiteth for Thee, O God, in Zion; and unto Thee shall the vow be performed. O, thou that hearest prayer, unto Thee shall all flesh come." The Bible passages cited in the Christian Science Quarterly included this exhortation of Moses from Deuteronomy vi: "Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord: And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul and with all thy might." Among the references from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy was the spiritual definition of God: "The great I am; the all-knowing, all-seeing, all-acting, all-wise, all-loving and eternal; principle, mind, soul, spirit, life, truth, love, all substance, intelligence."

HUMAN BRAIN CALLED "GARDEN OF EDEN"

"The Garden of Eden in Man" is the topic of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. E. E. Thomas before members of the U.O.A.M. (Rosicrucian) at Music Arts Building. Dr. Thomas spoke in part as follows:

"All material things can be reduced to vibrations. The laws of thought teach how to connect our thought-wires with the interiors of distant things and thus mold their vibrations into harmonious relations with ourselves. The entire work is a work within ourselves. It is ever within ourselves that we must look for that secret spring. Self-knowledge is the narrow way to that secret spring. When once understandingly reached, it places undreamed of powers ever at our command. Our brain and its thought powers is our 'Garden of Eden.' We must wisely and vigorously cultivate it, if we would partake of the full fruit of every tree and plant which life offers. In the center of that garden is the 'tree of life,' called the intuitions, which has direct connection with the Infinite and exhaustless supply within.

DEVOTION AND WORK CALLED WAY TO GOD

"Edwin Arnold has endeared the Bhagavad-Gita to western nations by his masterful translation of 'The Song Celestial,'" said Swami Dhiranada in an address given yesterday at Figueroa Playhouse.

"The Gita, often called the crest-jewel of ancient wisdom, is a synopsis and synthesis of the important philosophies of India," said the speaker. "Its universality has been the cause of its perpetual modernness. The western world will find an echo of its action-loving tendency in the Gita's emphasis on actions and the eastern world is, by temperament, at home in it because of the emphasis on contemplation. However, the Gita seeks to combine action with contemplation and philosophy. It takes egotism out of action and the lazy aftereffect out of a beginner's contemplation. It places knowledge and realisation above ceremonialism, merit and qualifications above caste. God can be reached, it says, only by nonattached performance of duties and the working out of one's individual nature, coupled with devotion to the supreme law and life. God is the ever-living, all-pervasive Reality that everyone is trying to reach, directly or indirectly, consciously or unconsciously. None is to be condemned, but everyone is to be helped according to his plane of evolution."

The defense through a number of witnesses called Friday afternoon got into the record complete denials of various portions of the Getzoff story. Mrs. Davis, wife of the defendant contradicted Getzoff in many of his declarations and stoutly maintained that the tailor had never been a caller at her home as he had testified in his examination.

KEYES RELEASE PLEA WILL BE ARGUED TODAY

Oral arguments in the fight for the release on bail of Asa Keyes, former District Attorney, under conviction and sentence to San Quentin prison, will be heard in Division Two, District Court of Appeals here at 10 a.m. today. Petitions, seeking the temporary release of the convicted county prosecutor, pending settlement of his appeal for a new trial, were filed in the Appellate Court several days ago.

The petitions were accompanied by affidvaits, signed by seven local physicians, which set forth that Keyes's health is waning, that it will be permanently impaired if he remains in jail and that medical treatment, necessary for his recovery, cannot be given him as long as he is confined.

Oral arguments will be presented to Justice Craig, Thompson and Works by Attorneys Paul Schenck and Milton Cohen, acting for Keyes and the court will be asked to order Keyes's release and to determine the amount of bail.

Porter Urged to Keep Noernberg

Reappointment of C. E. Noernberg to the Building and Safety Commission is urged in a resolution adopted by unanimous vote at the last regular meeting of the Los Angeles chapter, American Association of Engineers, and forwarded to Mayor Porter for consideration.

Noernberg's five-year term expired the 1st inst., but his technical training and experience as an architect and structural engineer are of great value to the public, the resolution says, and in order that he may continue the important work he is doing in connection with "the needed revision of our building codes," it is recommended that he be retained as a member of the commission.

The resolution is signed by Porter H. Albright, president, and Mariabelle Sutherland, secretary of the chapter.

America's finest medium-priced automobile

BEFORE the Oakland All-American Six was presented to the public, it survived one of the most terrific and exhaustive tests to which any automobile has ever been subjected. On the roads and hills of the General Motors Proving Ground it demonstrated qualities of performance and endurance entirely new in a car of Oakland's price.

And because of those qualities, the Oakland All-American Six is gaining recognition in every section of America as the one outstanding value of its price class. For since its introduction, it has carried thousands of owners millions of miles; and, more emphatically than anyone else, those owners will tell you that the Oakland of today is America's finest medium-priced automobile.

Ask about performance and you will hear, "I leave them all at the traffic light . . . I can forget the gear-shift on anything but mountains . . . Rides like a Pullman, even when I'm on a road where I can go more than sixty-five."

Ask about handling ease and the answer will be, "The greatest brakes I ever put my foot on . . . I adjust the driver's seat to fit my legs—and just enjoy myself . . . As easy to steer as a bicycle."

Ask about dependability and you'll hear "My only expenses are for gas and oil . . . I've gone 12,000 miles and it runs like new."

Come in! See and drive the Oakland All-American Six! It wins on every basis of comparison. And we are prepared to make a liberal allowance if you have a car to trade.

Oakland All-American Six, $1145 to $1375, f.o.b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Spring covers and Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers included in list prices. Bumpers and rear fender guards extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only reasonable charges for handling and for financing when the Time Payment Plan is used.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

Society circles, music lovers and the many visitors within our gates are looking forward eagerly to the Symphonies Under the Stars which begin tomorrow evening at the Hollywood Bowl with Bernardino Molinari, the guest conductor from Italy, wielding the baton. Every summer these affairs are preceded by numerous dinner parties, many of the hosts entertaining their guests at the splendid out-of-doors cafe at the entrance of the Bowl, while others take their lunches or suppers, rather, with them and enjoy them seated beneath the huge trees, and then stroll up the path to the great amphitheater where they may watch the sun going to rest behind the hills and see the stars come out, which, with the great lights that illuminate the Bowl, makes a picture which I believe one never forgets.

Many of the Bowl devotees wait until after the concerts for their entertainment, taking their guests for supper at their own homes, artists of the programs often being the especial guests of honor.

Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Olive Estelle Schweitzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Schweitzer of Long Beach, to Chester Marion Leflang, son of Mrs. Caroline Josephine Leflang of the Bryson Apartments, Los Angeles, was solemnized Saturday evening at the Little Church of the Flowers, Glendale, with the bride's pastor, Dr. Richard Nye Merrill officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a becoming gown of ivory satin made with a modish basque waist and a skirt with two circular tiers touching the floor in the back, the veil, which fell in two points, was of tulle with orange blossom wreaths at either side. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

Her sister, Miss Mary Schweitzer, maid of honor, was gowned in green organdie with pink moire bow, pink tulle hat to match and pink slippers, while Miss Joanna Paine, the bridesmaid, was attired in a gown of orchid organdie with lace basque waist and hat of tulle in beige with pumps to match, and both carried appropriate bouquets. Samuel Strieby served Mr. Leflang as best man and James Bone ushered.

The bride was graduated from Mills College, while Mr. Leflang, after obtaining his preliminary education at Harvard Military School, later attended the University of Southern California, being graduated with the class of 1928.

Prof. Otto Hirschler at the organ played the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin and Robert Edmonds sang "At Dawning" and "Oh Promise Me."

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Leflang left immediately on an extensive honeymoon which will be passed mostly in the Canadian Rockies, making their headquarters at Lake Louise. Upon their return they will be at home after September 15, at Long Beach.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

SQUASH SURPRISE

Two pounds of summer squash, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one small clove of garlic chopped, one large onion, four medium-sized tomatoes, one medium-sized green pepper, one-half cupful of grated cheese, two tablespoonfuls of fine bread crumbs, cook the squash in a double boiler without peeling, chop fine and drain, melt the butter in a saute pan, add the garlic, chopped onion, green pepper and tomatoes, cook until tender, but do not brown, combine with the squash, season with salt, paprika and half a teaspoonful of chili powder, mix in the grated cheese, pour the mixture into a well oiled baking dish, sprinkle with fine bread crumbs and grated cheese and brown in a medium oven.

ROAST CALF'S HEART WITH PINEAPPLE

Wash the heart and clean thoroughly, trim out all the vein cavities and fill with a well seasoned dressing made with half a cupful of bread crumbs, three tablespoonfuls of melted butter, two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped onion, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of mace, paprika and salt, cook the onion until tender, drain, place the butter in a saucepan, add the bread crumbs and allow to brown slightly, combine with the rest of the ingredients, stuff a heart, tie the opening, place in the baking pan, dredge with flour, and cover with thin slices of fat bacon. Surround with sliced pineapple, place in a hot oven for the first twenty minutes, reduce the heat and continue the baking, basting occasionally with the pineapple juice.

LOGANBERRY PUNCH

The juice of three large oranges, the juice of two large lemons, one quart of water, one cupful of loganberry juice, one banana, one cupful of sugar, mix the orange juice, lemon juice, water, loganberry juice and sugar, and stir until the sugar is dissolved, add the banana cut in thin slices, and allow to stand until cold, pour into glasses, and garnish with mint and maraschino cherries.

CORN AND TOMATO PUDDING

One cupful of corn, cut from the cob, two cupfuls of tomatoes, one cupful of bread cubes, two eggs well beaten, one teaspoonful of sugar, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one-fourth of a cupful of chopped green pepper, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, a seasoning of salt and paprika, combine all the ingredients, place in a well oiled baking dish and bake in a medium oven about forty-five minutes.

NORWEGIAN CAKES

Cream one-half a cupful of shortening, add to it gradually one-half a cupful of sugar, and cream until light, add the well-beaten yolks of three eggs, add one teaspoonful of lemon extract. Fold in one cupful of flour that has been sifted three times and lastly add the stiffly beaten egg whites. Spread this batter on an oiled cookie sheet to the depth of one-third of an inch, sprinkle the top with granulated sugar, and one cupful of blanched almonds finely chopped. Place in a moderate oven and bake until a delicate brown. Remove from the oven and with a sharp knife cut into squares, return to the oven immediately and bake until each piece is dry, reducing the heat so that the cakes do not brown.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for further information may be addressed to the department. PRACTICAL RECIPES, published every Friday.—(All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

This department offers helpful hints on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, colitis, for the very baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb-sucking, unconscious urine and bed wetting, training to cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, stye and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

REFUSAL TO FOLLOW REGULAR ROUTINE SHOWS DEFINITE RESULTS

Mrs. F. D. writes:

"I have raised two strapping youngster according to your methods of feeding and sleep and planned routine, and we enjoy our family. My present problem is with the neighbor's little girl, whom I cared for while her mother was ill. I had her two weeks. When I got her she was taking whole milk (seven months old and weighing sixteen pounds, could not sit up and would not eat.)

"She was given eight ounces of whole milk in the morning. If she didn't take it she would be given it from time to time until it was all gone. Then she was given orange juice, and about 9 o'clock another eight ounces of whole milk. It usually took her until 11 to finish this. Another bottle at 12 and this routine was kept up until baby positively refused to eat. Then she changed to cocoa! She would put a bottle in her mouth at night and when it was empty give her another. The baby would drink it in her sleep. She pesters her with a bottle all the time.

"When I took the child I decided to make a radical change and I hadn't much time to do it in. A nurse suggested this formula: Twenty-three ounces of milk, nine ounces of water and one and one-half spoonfuls of maltose. The first morning at 6 she refused this. I made her comfortable and offered nothing until 8, when I gave her orange juice. At 9, a bath and formula which she again refused. At 3 she took four ounces and at 6 the same. She fussed all night but got only water. The next night she slept like a top and the following day I fed her every four hours and gave her a small cup of soup and a little cereal. The second week it was a pleasure to care for her, but as soon as her mother took her home she began the same old routine again, and in three days the child was back to no meals and vomiting. The mother thought I might have spoiled her stomach! Will you give me your opinion? I am sure she is broad-minded enough to know she needs help. She has always admired my children's health!"

Answer: Your patience and your optimism about this mother's broad-mindedness exceed my own. Why did she begin the same old routine that had given such miserable results, instead of continuing as you had begun? That is a question anyone would find difficult to answer. Your methods are the right ones, obviously, and they likewise brought the right results. The amount of sugar should be increased to one and one-half ounces, not teaspoons, and a sixteen-pound baby can take twenty-four ounces of milk, and from six to eight ounces at a feeding five times daily, which would be twenty-four ounces of milk from six to sixteen ounces of water according to the size of the formula, and the above amount of sugar. Can't you persuade the mother to let you advise her daily? I am sure you are competent to do it.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By Dr Frank McCoy
author of "The Heart That Is Human"

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of the Los Angeles Times. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

SUMMER DANGEROUS TO BABIES

More than one-half of the deaths of babies from digestive disturbances occur during the warm months of July, August and September. The principal cause of these deaths is impure contaminated milk or improperly sterilized bottles. Bottle-fed babies are in the majority of the infants suffering from summer complaints. Everything that baby puts into his mouth, especially in the summertime, should be thoroughly sterilized and kept away from flies and dust. If the mother takes the time and trouble to feed the baby correctly, and does not keep the baby too burdened with clothes, she need not fear. During a hot day a baby needs very few or no clothes, but it should be protected by screens or netting against the common housefly.

During a hot day it is sometimes a good plan to sponge the baby off with cold water. Great care should be used in securing clean wholesome milk and in keeping on ice that part which is not used immediately. Rich, creamy milk, while valuable in winter, may be a handicap during the hot weather. Where there are digestive disturbances it is sometimes a good plan to remove a portion of the cream from the top of the milk bottle. If raw milk is used it should be the most expensive certified quality. If this is not obtainable, it is better to use pasteurized milk. Babies should also be given pure distilled or cold boiled water to drink during the hot weather.

Every baby, whether it is breast fed or fed upon pasteurized or certified milk, should be given a tablespoonful of fresh strained orange juice before each nursing. This furnishes nourishing fruit sugar and assists the baby's digestion by helping to curdle the milk into smaller curds—a valuable help to digestion.

The important vitamins and organic salts for bone-building and health protection are plentifully supplied by the orange juice, and the combination of milk and orange juice makes a perfect food for infants. The breast-fed baby of a healthy mother has a great advantage, but the mother should endeavor to have the best quality of milk by eating large quantities of fresh fruits, salads and cooked non-starchy vegetables. These are the best milk producers.

The best substitute for mother's milk is Holstein cow's milk. If the baby is slightly constipated, a larger quantity of the orange juice may be given. Mothers should not be misled into thinking that it is necessary to put milk sugar or barley water into the milk feedings, nor is it necessary to add lime water. Pure milk contains more lime than a saturated solution of lime water.

If you wish to obtain specific directions as to the quality of milk and the method of feeding the baby, it would be a good plan to send for my article called "Weaning the Baby," which will be sent free to all of the readers of this newspaper if you will inclose a large self-addressed stamped envelope.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Rupture

Question: Mrs. J. M. J. asks: "Will you please give me a diet for whatever you think is best for a rupture, or hernia, as some call it. I have had one in the left groin for twelve years, at first small, but now as large as a cup."

Answer: Keep your quantity of food down to the minimum so that your abdomen will remain as flat as possible. Then take the "setting-up" exercises to develop your abdominal muscles. Meanwhile, wear a suitable support which will hold in the rupture until the muscles covering the peritoneum have been sufficiently developed to do their work properly.

Chayote

Q.: Ruby L. asks: "Just what is the chayote that you have in your menus?"

A.: The chayote is a form of squash, native to Mexico and Central America. It is cultivated in California and the southern States. The flesh is firm and delicately flavored, comprising a most healthful nonstarchy vegetable.

Face and Head Burn

Q.: Anxious writes: "Please tell me what can be done to relieve the burning of my face and head. Everything I eat seems to go just as far as my chest and no farther."

A.: You can be sure that what you eat goes much lower than your chest, and it is because of the fact that you eat the wrong things you have so much intestinal irritation which often causes a reflex burning of the face. Improve your general circulation, and get rid of the irritation and toxemia in your intestines.

SIM CRABILL SAYS

"'Hello, Bill!' We're glad to have you with us, hope you stay long, and return soon . . . to stay!"

GRAYCO! That name, in connection with Cravats or Shirts, commands respectful attention the country over. Styled in Hollywood, Grayco is synonomous with the Mode of the Hour, and with value that asks odds of none. It is such firms as the Marion R. Gray Company that are causing New York and Paris to cast apprehensive eyes on Los Angeles. Their thrones are beginning to totter!

A few words, printed in gold and blue on black paper. Extremely simple, yet striking; reserved, yet eloquent. Thus does the Marion R. Gray Company choose to announce to the trade its Grayco Cravats for Fall. The page reproductions above can't do it justice, but we wanted you to know that we were the printers.

Did you know, by the way, that our service includes counsel by highly competent merchandising specialists, complete direct advertising plans, copy, art, engraving, and supervision of direct-by-mail campaigns? Let's get together.

TED LEWIS PRESCRIBES FOR BLUES

High-Hatted Tragedian of Song at Orpheum; Five Reillys Return

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

Everybody, if it is really needful to reply to Ted Lewis's rhetorical question, seemed happy enough yesterday afternoon at the Orpheum Theater. The cause for the jubilation, naturally, was the presence of this same "high-hatted tragedian of song" with his band and his girls. Dr. Lewis, as self-appointed medicine man for the ills of people, reasons thus: Fight blues with blues. In this, he shows a rare perspicacity which has not a counterpart in all the theater; his "blues," savored minute by minute, are an elixir with the power to alter your corpuscles biochemically and make them sing. What a formula!

Extended comment, therefore, would make for redundancy. The band, I may mention, plays "St. Louis Blues" in a manner to lift you an inch out of your seat (and where are the laws of gravity now?) and also, "I'm Walking Around In a Dream," "When My Baby Smiles at Me," something beginning "I Love you in the dawning," and another called "New Orleans." Dr. Lewis, believing firmly in the bedazzlement of the eye as well as the ear, conjures up two bedazzlers in the persons of Eleanor Brooks and Arline Langan; and then, not being altogether innocent of redundancy himself, asks, "Do I pick 'em?"

The rest of the bill is sprightly enough. If there were no one else, the Five Reillys would make it so; the Five Reillys, described on the program as "America's foremost juvenile tap dancers," who come to us every summer when school lets out and prove their continued right to the title. They range, in size, from knee-high to a grasshopper to very early teens, and they dance like successive Pat Rooneys.

This "Herb" Williams, on the other hand, is a veteran; not a dancer, but a comedian. I never set eyes on him before yesterday; they tell me his act hasn't changed for these many years, and for this I am grateful. How else, forsooth, would I have seen it?

Williams is mad. I began to suspect it when, not without some justification but withal quite extremely, he brought at length of iron pips down upon the cranium of his own unfortunate conductor in the orchestra pit; I was convinced when, introduced as a great Bulgarian pianist, he marched onto the stage shouting "Vive la France!" And at this point I might have been heard muttering angrily to myself, "Where have YOU been all these years?"

Lotties Howell, a coloratura soprano (patience!) is one of the best vocalists heard in these parts recently. She has not, it is true, a personality calculated to win the hasty-minded who compose the usual matinee audience at the variety, but she has, and this, too, is rather essential, a voice. From her repertoire she omitted the slightly "Mad Scene" from "Lucia" (programmed,) and offered instead such numbers as "I'll Get By," "Plantation," "Roses of Yesterday," "Annie Laurie" and the "Blue Danube."

A potpourri of dances and acrobatics is stirred up by Maurice Colleano and his family; Whitey, a little terrier, shows off for his master, one Ed Ford; and the Lathrop Brothers explain themselves satisfactorily in the subtitle, "Four Feet With a Single Thought."

DEMPSEY RETURNS MINUS RING TOGS

Former Champion Headlines Bill of Fair Vaudeville at Pantages

The soft strains of a mistreated harp, blended with the crashing of a zealously played drum and cymbal, drift away at the Pantages, and the name which means money in any fight promoter's pocket is flashed on the screen, Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world. From the reception given the young man who is then seen on the stage, it is apparent that in his home town at least, he is still the champion in the hearts of his followers.

It is incongruous to say the least, his appearance next to an act which features a harp, but all is soon forgotten in the anxiety which awaits the answers to questions, such as "Will you fight again?" and "Which of your battles do you consider the hardest?"

The answer to the first is "Yes," boiled down from hokum such as "I have always tried to please the public," and so forth. The answer to the second is "My battle with Sid Grauman in an effort to have him cut his hair," and other blarney.

Dempsey appears at the Pantages in a skit written by Willard Mack. It is a more or less humorous playlet created specifically for the questions which the old burlesque type farmer asks our Mr. Dempsey. But the "Mauler" is the chief attraction. His mere personal appearance on the stage means more to his fans than any acting ability shown or clever lines given.

Second honors on the current program are taken by the "Hollywood Starlets," and Joe Fanton, who indulges in "trapezing extraordinary." The kiddies of the "Starlets" present a finished exhibition of dancing and singing, without the usual falters and awkwardness usually found in child revues. A tiny mistress of ceremonies proves the most interesting of the lot. Joe Fanton and assistants start the program off with a short but fast and almost sensational brand of trapeze work.

Ketch and Wilma and a dummy are presented in the usual ventriloquist act. One thing that seems to please is that none of the usual tricks, such as making the dummy talk while the ventriloquist is drinking or smoking, are attempted. Ketch closes his exhibition with somewhat of a novelty, that of singing two notes at the same time. At least it appears that way. There might be another ventriloquist hidden in the pipe organ or the balcony, however.

And last, but not least, is Roxy La Rocca, who is the gentleman who mistreats the harp just prior to Dempsey's appearance. Roxy attempts to persuade the audience to have a "community sing" with more or less success.

EXCHANGES ARE MERGED

Columbia Announces Consolidation of Its Film Distribution

Columbia Picture Corporation has consolidated its exchanges. Announcement of this fact was made coincidentally with the arrival here yesterday of fifty-five executives of the company, headed by Jack Cohn, secretary and treasurer of the company.

This move gives the company greatly added power in the distribution of its films, as heretofore the output has been distributed on a basis somewhat resembling State's Rights, individual franchise holders maintaining the handling of the pictures for showings in the theater. Under the new arrangement everything is brought under the company control.

The sales convention opened yesterday, as the eighth annual meeting of the organization. It is being held at the Hotel Roosevelt in Hollywood. The delegates were met by Harry Cohn, vice-president, and a rousing welcome was extended to the visitors. Charles Deaton's Golden Gate orchestra played "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," and the event was both photographed and recorded.

The arriving group included besides Jack Cohn, the following: Jose Goldberg, general sales director; Clarence McKain, supervisor of exchanges; Rube Jackteer of the sales department; Hal Hodes, advertising manager, and Mr. Bellman of the sales department.

President Joe Brandt, being abroad perfecting arrangements for the production of Columbia all-talking pictures in England, wired his wishes for the success of the meeting in a cable received by Harry Cohn. The Columbia Pictures Corporation of London has just been organized, and the company is making arrangements for production in England, according to Jack Cohn. This, in conjunction with the merger of exchanges, has given the organization an exceedingly bright outlook, he stated.

Today's convention program will include an address by Shannon Crandall, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and on Wednesday morning the visitors will be guests of the Breakfast Club.

Billie Dove in Glyn Romance at Hillstreet

Elinor Glyn furnished the story, Rod LaRocque the man and Billie Dove the moment. All this is for "The Man and the Moment," which First National offers at the Hillstreet on this week's bill.

Madame Glyn was never accused of being dull and in this she has outdone herself in action and wealth of incident. It may be classified as a good audience picture, full of romantic twists, which, though done countless times, still seem to interest. It is another sparsely spoken affair and would have been better entirely silent. However, Miss Dove's voice and work register very well. Mr. LaRocque's tone quality is low and vibrant but he strives too hard to put his lines across. His serious moments are the most acceptable. Billie Dove's beauty is more apparent than ever. Instead of relying on it, she makes it the background for an easy, intelligent performance.

The story is typical Elinor Glyn sentiment. Laid in the circle of society, where all is millions, yachts and large parties, LaRocque is the millionaire-playboy for whom Billie falls, clear out of an airplane. To escape her guardian she marries him, so that he, in turn, may escape Gwen Lee. Purely business are the arrangements. But within fifteen minutes, he is hopelessly in love, while Billie, sniffing a gardenia, is falling slowly. Then, as Madame Glyn will always have it, the heroine gets on her high horse and will have nothing to do with the hero. This leads to endless pursuit on Rod's part, by land, sea and air. In doing so he becomes a better man and finally convinces Billie of his undying affection. She gives in and Miss Lee is left stamping on the deck.

In presenting his "Night Club Revue," Anatole Friedland displays his hold on an audience. Everything is made to appear quite extraordinary, whereas it is a good, clever act. His dancers offer expert divertisements in Terpsichore, particularly Lucille Hays, the originator of the eccentric toe dance. Featured are two waiters, one a singer and the other dumb. So dumb that when, at the request of the house, he shoots himself, he misses six times.

No audience could sleep through Glenn and Jenkins, a couple of "razzin', jazzin' black spasms." They toss wise-cracks and themselves across the stage to wild applause.

Gerald Griffin's Irish tenor was not allowed to be silent until after a variety of numbers. Completing "My Wild Irish Rose" he was reluctantly allowed to depart by his public.

Mack and La Rue show what skill there is to skating and finish with a brilliant, dangerous bit of technique.

YIDDISH ART PLAYERS IN DEBUT HERE

"Tevya, the Dairyman" Gives Acting Opportunity to Maurice Schwartz

BY JACOB COOPER

The opening play of the Yiddish Art Theater at the Mason Opera-house last night drew a capacity house which came expectant and left quite seemingly satisfied.

"Tevya, the Dairyman," a tragi-comedy in three acts by one of the most popular Yiddish dramatists, proved a good vehicle for the opening in which Maurice Schwartz, the director and star, could display his versatility. His performance in the title role left very little to be desired. The requirements in this part in transition from comedy to tragedy and from tragedy to comedy were exacting. Schwartz is superb in his comedy, and though his tragedy is of a very high quality, yet it suffers from comparison with his work in the lighter moments. He has an unstrained style which approaches suaveness itself, and presents his part with a very convincing naturalness.

The supporting cast heightened the realism of the situations, portrayed with a clarity of style all too rarely seen in the ordinary and all too popular Yiddish companies. Anna Appel, as the wife of Tevya, came second in point of sharing honors. There was a fine sense of "team work" in her scenes with Tevya.

There was, perhaps, a little too much contrast in situations which ranged all the way from stark tragedy to downright slapstick. Each was fine in its way, but the mixture was a trifle too sharp. The scene between Mikita Gologon, as played by Isidore Cashier, and the two Russian peasants, was fine caricature, and hearty, robust humor, but the contrast between the foregoing and ensuing scenes was a bit too pronounced.

The story of the play dealt with the tragedy of a Jewish dairyman in a Russian village whose daughter forsook the faith of her parents to marry out of her caste and religion. To understand the import of such tragedy one must be either Jewish or understand the psychology of the Jewish traditions. Sholom Aleichem, all too often deemed only a humorist, deals mainly with topics such as these in the majority of his works. Beneath a subtle veneer of fine humor he builds and portrays the oppressed life of the Jew in exile: delineates his sufferings and strives, with the vehemence of a propagandist, to bring understanding of little known traits which would build up a better understanding of the Jewish problem.

The young girl, married to a Gentile and considered as dead by her parents, finally returns to them when they are driven from their lifelong home by a governmental order. It proves hard for the father to take back one who, according to Jewish tradition, is worse than dead. Chave, the daughter, played by Celia Adler, is the type of character Sholom Aleichem uses as the pivot upon which his problems revolve.

The details of the play as produced by Maurice Schwartz were vividly exact. The customs of the Russian Jew were portrayed with a faithfulness that aroused the memories of that portion of the audience that had known and practiced them, and puzzled and amused that portion who knew Judaism only through its American forms. This was most manifest in the scene where Tevya, aided by his wife and his daughter Zeitel, perform the Saturday night benediction of the fire. It was certainly puzzling, especially to the Gentile onlooker, to see Tevya touch the flames and go through motions as though cleaning out his pockets with them, as is the custom among the pious Jews. The author of "Tevya, the Dairyman," was thorough in his Old World details.

The acting throughout, markedly lacking in weak and distracting spots, held the attention of the audience to the characters and the fine subtleties of their work and made consideration of sets and properties a minor consideration. The latter, thankfully, were unostentatious and designed with the old-style realism which leaves the attention free to follow action and speech.

It would be no exaggeration to say the Yiddish Art Theater Group is the finest of its kind which has ever played in this city. The Yiddish stage, as an art factor, is not much beyond its infancy. It is to be conceded that Schwartz is making history for the Yiddish theater and superlatives are, perhaps, the only terms in which they can be rated.

"Top O' The Hill" Brings Helen Menken and William Boyd From New York

Tonight drama devotees, constituting a brilliant audience of professional and society members, will view for the first time "Top o' the Hill," Felix Young's second West Coast production which brings Helen Menken and William Boyd, outstanding stars of Broadway, to the Mayan Theater stage in a world premiere.

To make his cast completely first-rate material, Young recruited from the Manhattan stage a list of players of prominence. Hilda Vaughn and Anderson Lawler will enact important parts, and supporting members include Alden Gay, Kate Campbell, John Webb Dillion, Ida Darling, Jean Temple and Russell Morrison.

SCENARIST WRITES MAGAZINE STORIES

John Farrow, scenario writer, is the author of a series of short stories running in a national magazine. These are adventure tales, most of them stories of the sea, for Farrow was on the sea for seven years before coming into picture work. "His First Command," the first story to be published, was bought by United Artists and will be brought to the screen with William Boyd and Louis Wolheim co-starring.

Norma Shearer Takes Lead in M.-G.-M. Film

Norma Shearer returns to the sophisticated type of role in her latest starring vehicle from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," which will have its local premiere Thursday at Loew's State.

In the role of the beautiful and clever lady Raffles, portrayed on the stage in New York by Ina Claire, Miss Shearer is said to be most captivating.

The Story of the World War 157—The Capture of Bagdad.

by J. CARROLL MANSP

IN THE SPRING OF 1917, A BRITISH ARMY UNDER GENERAL MAUDE WAS HOTLY ENGAGED WITH THE TURKS IN MESOPOTAMIA. WITH BAGDAD, THE ANCIENT CITY OF THE CALIPHS, FOR HIS GOAL, MAUDE FOUGHT HIS WAY UP THE TIGRIS RIVER IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF TOWNSHEND'S ILL-FATED FORCE.

THE BRITISH GENERAL HAD BEGUN HIS CAMPAIGN WITH A DETERMINED ATTACK UPON KUT EL AMARA IN DECEMBER, 1916. BY CONSTANT FIGHTING HE SUCCEEDED IN EXHAUSTING THE TURKS, AND WITHIN TWO MONTHS HAD DRIVEN THEM FROM THE RIGHT BANK OF THE TIGRIS.

MAUDE THEN CROSSED TO THE LEFT BANK OF THE RIVER, OUTFLANKED THE MAIN TURKISH ARMY, AND COMPLETELY ROUTED HIS OPPONENTS IN A FIERCE BATTLE. THE TURKS FLED PELL-MELL, WHILE THE BRITISH PUSHED ON TOWARD THEIR GOAL.

...that Los Angeles county ...branch plants of na... ...industries and ...cheap power costs, a rapid... ...consuming market and ...location, has become ...rapidly developing ...centers in the United ...told in two new surveys ...by the Chamber of ...surveys, published ...Secretary-Manager Arnoll of the Chamber, says that new material, highly illuminating to the industrialist, has been compiled by engineers under the direction of R. D. Sangster, manager of the industrial department.

SERIES OF SURVEYS

The chamber's general industrial report embraces a series of surveys covering transportation, markets, fuel, power, water, labor, climate, raw material and other data, designed to invite investigation by the eastern manufacturer. Power costs for industrial use in Los Angeles are from .0 per cent to 58 per cent lower here than in the eastern industrial centers, the report shows, and note also is made of the fact that costs of blocks of electric power in this city are lower than in the San Francisco Bay District.

Emphasis is laid on the effect the building of Boulder Dam will have on general development in the Southwest, the engineers expressing the view that the project will bring a migration of from 7,000,000 to 10,000,000 people within a short space of years.

WATER SUPPLY

"The Colorado River project will easily care for such an increase in population, as far as the water supply is concerned," says a chamber announcement. "While the immediate supply available is sufficient for a population of 2,000,000 people in Los Angeles, the various flood-control projects now under way will do much to raise the level of underground water reservoirs in years of normal rainfall."

The chamber's general industrial report is issued on request to afford the Mid... West and eastern industrialist a general picture of this county and the opportunity for the establishment of branch plants here. A more compact booklet, "Facts About Industrial Los Angeles County," has been prepared for distribution throughout the East through the county's exhibits at the various State and county fairs, the Canadian National Exposition at Toronto, and the organization's eastern offices in Chicago and Washington.

SHERIFF GIVES AUTO TESTS

Undersheriff Biscailuz has instructed captains of all nine substations of the Sheriff's department to examine motorists in their districts, who apply for an operator's license under the 1929 law.

The substations are at 1557 East Florence avenue, 761 McBride street, 10317 South Vermont avenue, 107 North First street, Norwalk; 2250 Las Tunas, Temple City; Spruce street, Newhall; 940 South Foothill Boulevard, Pasadena; San Dimas avenue, San Dimas, and 1122 North Fairfax avenue.

At the main office of the Sheriff's department in the Hall of Justice, examinations will be confined to county and Federal government employees. County employee applicants for the new operator's license will be given their examination in the basement of the Hall of Justice, beginning today.

TELEVISION FOR HOMES UNLIKELY

Development Expected to be on Commercial Basis

Theaters Only Can Pay High Cost of Broadcasts

Activity in Radio Industry Points to Such Use

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Recent indications seem to point to the fact that television, when it comes, will largely be on a commercial basis rather than as home entertainment.

Activities in the radio industry, with rumors of additional motion picture acquisitions by Radio-Keith-Orpheum, are declared to be the initial steps of the Radio Corporation of America to protect its television developments, which every day in the laboratory come a little nearer commercial possibility.

Although the general public would like to believe that television will come into their homes that phase will apparently be strictly limited. The vaster field lies along such lines as the transmission of plays and motion pictures for mass reception in theaters.

OPERATING COST LARGE

Television, if offered as freely as broadcasting is today, would soon bankrupt the station owners and operators. Stations would soon run out of plays and pictures, novelties and everything else. One orchestra would look like another and the fans would vigorously demand something new to look at every hour of the day.

Of course a broadcaster might operate as a regular station most of the day and night, with the addition of television perhaps two hours each evening. But the cost would be prohibitive to keep expensive equipment for only two hours' use a day.

Television must be made to pay its way. How to do it, though, is a good-sized problem.

R.C.A. IN PICTURES

The possibility of affixing television receiving apparatus to home sets, with a rental charge monthly, has been suggested.

Yet there is also present the fact that the loss of millions invested in imposing motion picture theaters would probably result.

The advent of the Radio Corporation in the picture game, ostensibly to secure an outlet for its talking-film equipment, but undoubtedly also with an eye to the future, is hailed by motion-picture people as an indication that they will not overnight lose their theater patrons to the lure of pictures projected on a handkerchief pinned on the wall in the home.

TELEVISION TO THEATERS

They believe that Radio Corporation, in acquiring theaters and film producing companies, is not only taking care of an existing situation but is paving the way for development of a television system which will use films produced in Hollywood and broadcast them to theaters equipped with appropriate receivers, where they will be exhibited to audiences which have filed through the gate and paid their way in.

I think, however, that the public will not be entirely deprived of the benefits of television. There will undoubtedly be television for the home, but it is not expected that there will be any 600 transmitting stations operating for the benefit of the public.

The cost of operation will be many times that entailed in running a regular radio station, including patent and copyright fees and other incidental expenses that run into large-sized sums.

RADIO PROGRAM FROM ELKS' TEMPLE

At noon today KNX will broadcast from the entrance of the Elks' Temple with an address by the Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks who, in turn, will introduce Mayor Porter. The 99 Band and chanters will furnish the music for the hour.

STORM-DRAIN PROPOSAL

Reports of the Public Works Committee recommending the construction of the lower section of the Benedict Canyon storm-drain system and the improvement of the La Mesa avenue and Larkspur avenue improvement district will be taken up by the Council tomorrow.

HUGE ESTATE BOND FIXED

Surety of $4,500,000 Required of Executors Under Will of Mrs. Grace Velie Harris

Executors of the estate of Mrs. Grace Velie Harris were ordered to make a bond of $4,500,000 by Superior Judge Haslett when they applied for letters of administration, according to records of the court on file yesterday.

Charles C. Webber, Minneapolis business man, and Attorney Theodore Martin are the executors. The estate was divided among forty heirs, including Theodore and Finley Martin, sons of the attorney, who receive $25,000 each.

Mrs. Harris was one of the principal stockholders in the Moline Plow Company of Moline, Ill., and the Velie Automobile Company. She is the grand-daughter of John Deere, plow manufacturer.

Los Angeles institutions remembered in Mrs. Harris's will include Orthopedic Hospital, $100,000; Salvation Army, $100,000; S.P.C.A., $100,000. National organizations named legatees are Boy Scouts of America, $100,000; Girl Scouts of America, $100,000; American Distemper Society, American Society for the Control of Cancer and National Tuberculosis Society fractions of the residue.

The Grace Deere Velie Clinic at Carmel gets $100,000 and the Carmel Hospital, $50,000. A trust fund of $550,000 is held for certain relatives who will enjoy the income. Mrs. Harris died May 8, last, of heart disease.

Incense Frauds Penalty Looms

Edwin E. Tucker, who admitted a charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with the sale through the mails of incense to relatives of recently deceased persons, is to appear today before United States District Judge James for sentence.

It was charged that Tucker sent the incense to the relatives, saying the deceased had ordered it, and thus received numerous fees of $10 each. He was charged with having received such sums from John N. Thurlow, Mrs. Nathan B. Roberts and others.

Drys Anticipate Week of Aridity

Federal prohibition enforcement forces will be concentrated in Los Angeles and the near vicinity during the week, it was announced yesterday at the office of Dry Administrator Woods. The dry officers will be stationed at various cafes, hotels and cabarets, the announcement stated.

LIQUOR TRANSPORT SUSPECT TO APPEAR

Sam Simonetti, who was arrested near Newhall charged with the transportation of 100 gallons of liquor, is scheduled to appear today before United States District Judge Henning for sentence. Simonetti was arrested after Federal dry agents had kept an all-night vigil and at last found him, according to the charges, with the liquor on a truck.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

COMPANIES FORM MERGER

Six Telephone Exchanges in Combination

Subscribers Not Effected by Consolidation

Name Adopted is Associated Telephone Company

COVINA, July 7.—After lengthy negotiations a merger of six Southern California telephone companies, including the Home Telephone Company of Covina, has been effected, according to Frank H. Wright manager of the local company. After October 1, the Home Telephone Company will lose its identity in what is to be known as the Associated Telephone Company, Wright said.

The next telephone directory, as an example, will be issued under the heading of the Associated Telephone Companies. So far as the users of service are concerned the change is a distinction without a difference, the manager said. The merger makes possible a more economic operation which will be effected in better service.

The Associated is the second largest holding company in the United States, being exceeded in size only by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, more commonly known as "the Bell system."

Companies involved in the merger are the Home Telephone Company, serving Puente, Covina, Baldwin Park, Azusa, Glendora and a small portion of San Dimas; the Associated serving Long Beach and San Bernardino; the Huntington Beach company, the Redondo Home Telephone Company, Laguna Beach Telephone Company, and the Santa Monica Bay Telephone Company. Approximately 60,000 telephones are included in the merger, it was stated.

In announcing its permission for the merger, the California Railroad Commission granted the right to issue $1,801,250 worth of stock to finance the venture, represented by 166,312 shares of preferred stock and 126,698 shares of common stock with a par value of $25 a share.

Ontario Man Aspires to be Legion Head

ONTARIO, July 7.—American Legion members of San Bernardino county are confident that the next State commander of the Legion will be Col. H. J. Caldwell of Ontario.

Caldwell has received the hearty indorsement for the post of State commander from San Bernardino county, and the Twenty-first District, of which he is commander. The Twenty-first District embraces San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties. At a meeting of the San Bernardino county council Tuesday evening at San Bernardino plans will be made for extending Caldwell's indorsement through the fifth area, which is composed of the counties of San Diego, Imperial, Riverside, Orange and San Bernardino. A delegation of San Bernardino Legion workers will attend a caucus of the fifth area at Santa Ana the 13th inst.

All Southern California commanders, with the exception of one, have come from Los Angeles, which leads the smaller-town Legionaires to believe the Los Angeles area posts will give their support to a candidate of their metropolitan district.

First Concert of the Season

MONROVIA, July 7.—Opening the series of summer concerts in Library Park, the newly formed Community Band under the direction of Harold Scott made its initial appearance last night.

Songs and marches popular during the World War and Civil War largely composed the program.

ON LOOK OUT FOR HAND-BAG SNATCHER

HUNTINGTON PARK, July 7.—Police have been on the lookout for two red-headed fellows who snatched a purse from Miss Gussie Hennessey of 3220 South Verdugo Road, Los Angeles, while she was walking along Irvington street, in this city. One of the men was in an automobile and the other walking along the sidewalk when the "pedestrian" snatched the purse, jumped into the machine and the pair made their escape. The purse contained two small diamond rings, also between $6 and $7 in money and a note drawn on the Guaranty Trust Title Company of Los Angeles for $1000. Both men were about 30 years of age, wore dark suits, were bareheaded and about five feet six inches in height.

CHAMBER ADOPTS DEFINITE PROGRAM

MONROVIA, July 7.—Surveys by various committees to ascertain the feasibility of plans to secure light industries for Monrovia, to develop the city as an educational center and a city health center and to make an effort to secure direct routes to Los Angeles, are incorporated in the general plan of Fred Schwartz, chairman of the industrial committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Before any definite program is launched, committees will thoroughly investigate proposed industries and activities for the city.

FRUIT CROP REPORTED BELOW PAR

Orange, Apricot Orchards Suffer from Adnormal Weather Conditions

REDLANDS, July 7.—The "June drop" of oranges has been heavy this year because of extremely hot weather late in June and it is likely the orange crop of the district will be 30 per cent less than the season just ended. In some groves the drop runs as high as 50 per cent of the green fruit upon which growers rely for their winter production, it was stated by W. O. Cook, deputy County Horticultural Inspector.

The June drop is inappropriately named this season, said Mr. Cook. The lateness of the season has made it more of a July drop and the effects cannot be estimated accurately until the end of the month, the inspector claimed.

A few groves with a heavy setting of fruit and unusually favorable situations will escape with a loss of no more than 10 per cent, he continued.

"This is abnormal, however, and the average loss in the district probably will approximate 30 or 40 per cent of the fruit that set earlier in the year.

"This makes it even more certain that the new navel crop, particularly, will be much lighter than usual. The spring bloom came late on account of prolonged cool weather. Comparatively few of the blooms ever develop into fruit.

"Then came a sudden hot spell which has continued with damaging effect upon the undeveloped oranges. The fruit that stays on the trees until August 1 will hang until time for picking, but until the end of this month nothing is certain.

"Orange growers are not the only ones in a position to complain, although they are the ones most influenced by unusual weather conditions. Bee men who shipped bees into Redlands district to gather honey from the orange blossoms were greatly disappointed. The blossoms, discouraged by cloudy days and cold nights, refused to develop enough honey for the bees to put in their best work. Consequently bee men are none too happy."

APRICOT YIELD IS UNDER AVERAGE

VENTURA, July 7.—The apricot harvest in the Ojai Valley started last week in many of the orchards, with expectations of about one-half a normal crop, although some growers place their estimates at about one-fifth. The light crop was caused by heavy frosts and cold, damp weather during the blooming season. The quality and size of the fruit throughout the valley is good, however, and prices are holding at a high level.

A. L. Drown of the Upped Ojai expects to harvest about one-half a crop of good quality fruit, with the harvest in full swing this week.

Warren Hardison estimates that he will not have more than one-fifth of a regular crop and that others in his locality are faring about the same with the exception of the Dennison orchard, which will have from 2000 to 3000 boxes, or about two-thirds of a crop.

Reports from the orchards on Ventura avenue indicate that only a fair crop will be harvested, although the ranchers in this section were not hit as hard by the frost as some.

Prices being paid for green fruit in the groves are higher than usual.

Elks' Lodge Has Record Growth

HUNTINGTON PARK, July 7.—Initiating a class of seventy candidates last night and 115 candidates Friday night, the Huntington Park Lodge of Elks now has a membership of 1886 ready to take part in the festivities at the Elks' national convention in Los Angeles, beginning Tuesday. The local lodge will have a division in the Elks' parade on Thursday, and eight Pacific Electric cars have been chartered to carry the several units of the division from this city to Los Angeles. The South Gate Boys' Band, the drum and bugle crops, two drill teams and a float, besides 400 or more uniformed members from this city will compose the division.

WIND VENTS SPITE ON WOODHOUSE BOYS

INDIO (Cal.) July 7.—It has just been discovered that a young twister which romped over the valley a few days ago, played especial pranks on the three Woodhouse brothers in widely separated parts of the valley.

At the Clarence Woodhouse ranch a large cottonwood tree was blown against the house, wrecking the kitchen and breaking several water pipes. It also demolished a sleeping pavilion. At the A. P. Woodhouse place, a mile away, the roof was blown off and wrapped around a large tree.

Ted Johnson, proprietor of the Potter Hotel in Indio, had just finished a sleping porch on top of his hotel when the wind struck. Pavilion, bedding and clothing were scattered all over Fargo avenue.

WOMAN DIES AT HOME OF SON

HERMOSA BEACH, July 7.—Mrs. Sadie Wick Clevenger, a former resident of Osceola, Iowa, where she was well known, died last night at the home of her son, Marvin Wick of 2453 Silver Strand, after a lingering illness. Services will be from the Glade White funeral chapel on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and interment will be in Inglewood Cemetery. Pal. bearers will be officers of the Redondo Beach Lodge of Elks, of which Mr. Wick is Chaplain.

Tujunga Laying Plans for Zones for Sanatoriums

TUJUNGA, July 7.—At a joint meeting of the Tujunga City Council and the Tujunga Planning Commission it was decided as a matter of policy to establish one or more larger zones where sanatoriums and other institutions for the care of tubercular patients can be erected and to do away with all "spot zoning" as far as possible.

No locality has yet been approved definitely, but it is the decision of both bodies that the part of the city north of Hill street offers the best advantages with the least of possible obstacles. The sunny south slopes of the hills and mesa in the northern part of Tujunga afford the best of climate conditions for the cure of pumonary ailments, it is stated, and in that part of the city area are more unimproved tracts of large size and fewer improved residence lots, than in any other part of town. This was taken into consideration in tentative agreements reached.

The task of locating a definite sanatorium zone is yet to be worked out, city officials say, and in the discussions of the meeting stress was placed on the need of making the amount of land available for the purpose large enough to accommodate all future demands and large enough so that prices may not be raised by owners of property in the zone after it is finally chosen.

However, in creating the zones, wishes of landowners will be consulted and a co-operation of all interested will be invited, from a personal or a community standpoint. The Tujunga area has one of the very best of climates in Southern California for pulmonary-complaint sufferers. It has always been the belief that ultimately there will be a large, high-class sanatorium district established here. The question of creating the proper zones is a step in the direction toward preliminary preparations.

PUBLIC HEARING ON NEW ORDINANCE

AZUSA, July 7.—A public hearing will be given the proposed new business ordinance tomorrow night in the auditorium of the City Hall, before it is submitted to the City Council.

Under the proposed ordinance compiled by the City Planning Commission, the city is divided into four zones with different classes of buildings grouped in each of the first three, the fourth zone being the unrestricted zone.

FUNERAL FOR PIONEER

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, July 7. Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow for Mrs. Atalus Niemeyer, 59 years of age, who had lived in California for nearly fifty years. She died at her home on Oxnard street. Mrs. Niemeyer came to California with her parents from Denver when she was a little girl. The husband and eight children survive. The latter are Mrs. Joseph Blankmeyer, Mrs. John Kelleher, Mrs. Arthur Bennett and Leo P., Theodore, William, B. E. and Zeno Niemeyer.

School Board Buys Land for Athletic Field

REDONDO BEACH, July 7.—Purchase of the twenty-acre tract known as the Juanita-street Bowl for use as an athletic field was announced by the Board of Trustees of the Union High School last night. The tract which forms a perfect bowl and is situated between Juanita and Diamond streets near Lucia avenue is about two blocks from the high school main buildings. It has been in general use as an athletic field by different organizations here for a number of years.

It was the property of the Redondo Improvement Company with the exception of a portion owned by the Pacific Electric Railway Company. The purchase price of $50,000 is from the general fund of the school and will not affect the tax. Improvements planned include a stadium to seat 5000 persons and baseball, football and track facilities. The present athletic field at Diamond and North Broadway will be reserved for the use of the girl students.

PARK BOND SALE GIVEN APPROVAL

VAN NUYS, July 7.—It is announced today that the City Attorney's office is advertising for bids for $150,000 worth of park bonds to purchase land for the Victory-Vanowen Park, adjoining Hollywood Green, northeast of here in San Fernando Valley, following the authorization of the City Council for the sale of the bonds. It is stated that early this week the Los Angeles Park Commission will have engineers on the site to outline the park boundaries, and appraisers to determine the actual value of the land to be purchased. If the land is bought and the park created, it will be made one of the most attractive spots in the central part of the valley. The site is midway between Van Nuys and the North Hollywood section.

CITIZENS TO VOTE ON LONG-DELAYED PAVING

CHATSWORTH, July 7.—Devonshire street, which runs for five miles between here and Zelzah avenue in the North Los Angeles section, is to be widened to twenty feet and paved, after a four-year discussion of the matter.

City Attorney Werner has been ordered to prepare the election ordinance for the 23rd inst., when citizens will vote on the proposal to issue $140,000 worth of bonds to pay for the costs of the lengthy improvement.

What is known as the Porter estate owns about 75 per cent of the land adjacent to the street. On the 23rd inst. there will be two other bond issue elections in San Fernando Valley. Van Nuys will vote on $40,000 in bonds for the purchase of the site for the proposed new City Hall, and there also will be a vote on the issue of $100,000 of bonds to establish a park between Reseda and Tarzana, in the Reseda Boulevard section.

VENICE, July 7.—These are sad days, indeed, for the maidens and swains of Venice. No longer can they kept tryst in a rowboat or canoe and go drifting blissfully over the glassy surface of the canals that gave the beach resort its name and spread its fame to the far corners of the earth.

For, the march of progress has sounded the death knell of the once-beautiful waterways and accordingly it won't be long now before they are but a matter of history. They are being filled in, and the pretty little arched bridges that once spanned them here and there for pedestrian thoroughfares are being relegated to the junk heap.

For years the Venice lads and lassies found no more romantic way of whiling away moonlit nights than to rent a tiny skiff and paddle their way over the watery network to the strumming of ukuleles and the humming of tunes handed down long since by the picturesque gondoliers of Italy. But today they are casting about for a new happy humming ground, while a fleet of noisy and ugly motor-trucks dump tons on tons of earth into their beloved canals.

Young Bandit Uses Toy Gun

PASADENA, July 7.—Had Harry Lichtenstein, 30 South Euclid avenue, protested just a moment longer when he was held up and robbed of $39, George Damion, Los Angeles "boy bandit," might have received a "smash on the jaw" instead of a grilling at the detective bureau.

"You see it happened like this," Damion is quoted as telling detectives. "I met a man at Colorado street and Mentor avenue. I decided to hold him up. I pulled out my gun and stuck the barrel right into his ribs. For a moment, I thought he hesitated but in reality he was reaching for his wallet. In that moment of suspence I realized that I was pressing pretty hard on the trigger of my gun and if it had gone off, the result would have been fatal.

"You see, it wasn't a real automatic pistol. Just an immitation. When you pull the trigger the top flies up and a cigarette shoots out. If that guy had seen a cigarette come flying out, he wouldn't have given me his money. He would have given me a good smash on the jaw."

Damion was arrested early this morning and is being held for investigation.

TOW CARS USED TO RESCUE MULE

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, July 7. A new use has been found for auto tow cars, according to H. R. Martin, North Hollywood repair man. He was given a hurry-up call to Magnolia Park, east of here, where he found a mule had fallen into a well.

The animal was down a distance of fifteen feet, and Martin had to use two cars to get him out. He fastened a strong rope around the mule and to the cranes of the two cars and a crew of men were able to complete the rescue. The mule had fallen into the well or pit while drawing a mower on a lot filled with weeds that hid the hole.

REMINDERS OF THE PAST

Excavations at San Diego Yield Number of Interesting Relics of Early Day

SAN DIEGO, July 7.—An old shoe containing bones of a human foot—a fragment of an ancient bowl—several rusted nails—three metal buttons—the remnant of a jeweled ring—the wooden head of a mallet, in the first stages of petrification—an from star.

These are some of the results of what has become an archaeological excavation on Presidio Hill. Last-minute grading of the ground in preparation for the pageant and dedication ceremony the 16th inst.—the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of the dedication of Presidio Hill by Father Junipero Serra—revealed the surprising discoveries as a fitting prologue to the dedication of the historical museum, given to the city by George W. Marston.

The crumbling mementoes of an earlier day and an earlier race in San Diego have been assembled and given to Lyman Bryson of the San Diego Museum of Natural History for examination to determine what history is imbedded in them. The various articles mark several periods through which the Presidio has passed, although it is impossible to classify their individual eras. In stating his conclusions and surmises in regard to the articles discovered Bryson remarked that archaeology is in a way the "science of trash heaps." "We find out about ancient man, or men of more recent times," he continued, "by examining smashed-up bits of their tools and weapons that they leave behind them.

"From the insignificant-looking fragments which have been dug up on Presidio Hill we cannot, of course, reconstruct any ancient civilizations, but we can get cross-sections of the various occupations which have been on that old hill perhaps for many thousands of years.

"The oldest thing is probably the curved section of an old stone bowl. It appears at first examination to be an Indian bowl of steatite, and if that guess is correct it is extremely likely that it came from the channel islands. The scientists who are working on the ancient history of this region believe that in the older times there were very close relations between the San Diego Indians and the Channel Island tribes, it is even possible, according to some, that the Channel Islands people once occupied this territory. Things have been found by Malcolm J. Rogers, field archaeologist of the San Diego Museum, which point to the possibility that these people once inhabited this region in large numbers and left utensils that are characteristic of their customs. On the other hand of course the steatite bowl, if that is what it is, may have been brought here more recently, in trade.

"After that we have as first evidence of the white man's life the fragment of an iron star—probably a spur from some cavalryman's boot—nobody could say who he was, nor how long ago he rode over that hill. Old square, hand-made nails and the brass flange of an ancient door hinge may hate come from the Presidio. Nails of that type could scarcely have been used within the last seventy-five years and the extent to which they have rusted shows that they are old."

Irvine Offers to Sell Site for New School

NEWPORT BEACH, July 7.—Announcement that James Irvine, wealthy Orange county property owner, had offered a twenty-acre site for the proposed Newport district high school in the vicinity of Fifteenth street and Irvine avenue at a cost of $10,000, was revealed here today by Donald J. Dodge, chairman of the high school committee. The offer by Irvine was the result of a conference with Leroy Anderson, George C. Macleod and Dodge. The land involved is approximately 1000 feet back from the bluff overlooking Newport Bay.

Irvine expressed willingness to construct a new road from the State highway to the site selected if the location is favorably acted on following the successful termination of the segregation election to be held after August 14, when the bill permitting this territory to secede from Santa Ana becomes operative.

According to Dodge, the property is offered at a price far under values placed on surrounding land and is centrally located so as to be accessible from all points in the proposed Newport Harbor school district. Dodge expressed the view that the school should be located outside the city limits of Newport Beach as her neighboring city, Costa Mesa, will be incorporated in the new section.

Check Artists Under Arrest

PASADENA, July 7.—Arrested when their "fool-proof" check-cashing scheme was detected, men giving their names as Ben Jerome Warren, alias Bert Rand, and William Jack Epstein, alias William Rogers, were explaining to detectives today how they secured fourteen $50 fictitious checks drawn on the National Bank of Commerce, Seattle, Wash., and signed with the allegedly forged name of T. L. Thompson, cashier.

Failure marked the enterprise in this city from the start. Tips from a merchant resulted in arrest of the two suspects, and seven checks were found on Warren, while Epstein was carrying one, six others being hidden in his coupe.

They asserted today that they had purchased the checks from an unidentified man in Los Angeles, but had purchased their own prototectograph and had stamped serial numbers on each. They paid $5 each for the printed checks, they stated. Before the men were arrested on the streets, they had attempted to pass the paper at four merchant houses here, detectives declare.

WATER DISTRICT TO PAY LESS TAXES

LAGUNA BEACH, July 7.—Possibility that a substantial reduction of taxes for the Laguna Beach county water district may become effective in the near future was revealed by the board of directors here today. With more business transacted by the board and a slightly reduced expense it may become possible to grant the patrons of the system a large reduction. An increase of $7000 was reported in the fiscal year's business by George Wildig, manager, in his annual report.

A gain in water service connections from 1230 a year ago to 1334 in June of this year for the district, was announced. The increase is credited to the large number of new residences erected during the past year.

The tax rate for 1927-1928 was $2.60; for 1928-1929 was $1.90, and for 1929-1930 it will be reduced again. With the increasing demand for water developing with community growth, it is the intention of the water board to lower the tax rate each year as the water department becomes self-sustaining.

PAUL CLAGSTONE TO TALK AT MONROVIA

GLENDORA, July 7.—As a highlight of a joint meeting of the Glendora Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis Club next Friday, Paul Clagstone, manager of the western division of the United States Chamber of Commerce, comprising eleven States, will make the principal address on the growing responsibilities of business.

While here he will report on business conditions in the West and throughout the country, and will discuss prospects for the immediate future. He will also analyze the rapidly changing currents taking place in various fields of business activity, and during conferences with local business executives will discuss local problems.

The meeting prefaced with luncheon will be held at the Woman's Club.

CHINO DAIRYMEN PLAN DAIRY DAY

CHINO, July 7.—The 20th inst. has been set as annual dairy day at Chino, it was announced today. Plans for the event will be made tomorrow at a meeting of the San Bernardino County Cow Testing Association on the Farm Bureau, at Roy Elliott's home here.

Dairy day at Chino is one of the big days of the year for dairymen of the county.

They asserted today that they had purchased the checks from an unidentified man in Los Angeles, but had purchased their own prototectograph and had stamped serial numbers on each. They paid $5 each for the printed checks, they stated. Before the men were arrested on the streets, they had attempted to pass the paper at four merchant houses here, detectives declare.

WATER DISTRICT TO PAY LESS TAXES

LAGUNA BEACH, July 7.—Possibility that a substantial reduction of taxes for the Laguna Beach county water district may become effective in the near future was revealed by the board of directors here today. With more business transacted by the board and a slightly reduced expense it may become possible to grant the patrons of the system a large reduction. An increase of $7000 was reported in the fiscal year's business by George Wildig, manager, in his annual report.

A gain in water service connections from 1230 a year ago to 1334 in June of this year for the district, was announced. The increase is credited to the large number of new residences erected during the past year.

The tax rate for 1927-1928 was $2.60; for 1928-1929 was $1.90, and for 1929-1930 it will be reduced again. With the increasing demand for water developing with community growth, it is the intention of the water board to lower the tax rate each year as the water department becomes self-sustaining.

Laguna Beach School System May Add Grade

LAGUNA BEACH, July 7.—Establishment of a ninth grade as a part of the local elementary school is being considered by the local school board. At present students who have successfully completed the eight-year course included in the elementary school curriculum attend the Tustin Union High School at Tustin, being transported on school busses.

Under the new arrangement students would only be forced to make the long daily trip during their last three years of high school work.

George E. Thompson, clerk of the board, was instructed to communicate with J. W. Means, principal of the Tustin Union High School, asking his co-operation in the projected change. The plan, if adopted, will probably take effect with the advent of the fall term in 1930.

A public-speaking course will be incorporated as a new subject, according to plans of the board for the coming term. A school orchestra is to replace the band, due to the graduation of many of the musicians capable of playing band instruments. Miss Josephine Hills will be in charge of the orchestra instruction.

CHINO, July 7. — A new "racket" in which Mexicans are made victims, has been uncovered here, and steps have been taken for quick suppression of the practice.

Men representing themselves as identified with the United States Immigration Service, are said to mingle with the Mexicans, read them portions of the Naturalization Act, and collect $20 from them as "fee."

Ralph C. Homan, local police judge, has solicited the aid of Judson F. Shaw, inspector of immigration at San Bernardino, and his department in apprehending the "racketeers."

The field is expected to be ready by the time the winter season opens.

THREE HELD AS RESULT OF CRASH

Woman and Sailor Jailed After Car Wrecks Store; Husband Follows Them

Mrs. Georgia Dow of 1353 West Fifth street, her husband, Thomas J. Dow, and Albert Killip, a sailor, who gave his address as 1246 South Lake street, were jailed last night after the expensive roadster of Mrs. Dow crashed into a small confectionery store at Forty-seventh and Main streets and injured Mrs. Cora Morley, the owner.

The woman and Killip, according to the police reports, were riding together when the car swerved from the highway and struck the store. The car was badly damaged and the frame structure was turned around on its foundation. Police investigators arrested Mrs. Dow and Killip after finding two flasks of liquor in the machine, according to their report. Killip is booked at the University Police Station for being drunk in an auto and Wright Act possession, and Mrs. Dow for Wright Act possession.

The husband, notified of the arrest of his wife, attempted to bring about her release by telephonic communication with the University station. This move failed and Dow then appeared at the station and made overtures to have her released on bail. According to Arresting Officer Rush, he was not diplomatic in his efforts and also appeared to be under the influence of intoxicants. He was placed in jail and booked on a drunkenness complaint.

Hospital School Must Pay Taxes

A nurse's hospital school is not of collegiate grade, and so may not be relieved of taxation, it was decided by County Counsel Mattoon, in adopting an opinion prepared by Deputy Counsel Boller, according to an announcement just made public.

Attorneys for the Good Samaritan Hospital had asked that the property of the recently established nurse school in connection with the hospital be allowed to pay no taxes, because it might be considered a school of collegiate grade.

PRIZE BEAUTY INCE'S BRIDE

Son of Late Film Producer and Miss Ada Williams United at Ceremony in Beverly Hills

Ada Williams, 18-year-old national beauty contest winner and erstwhile "Miss United States," was married yesterday at the Beverly Hills Hotel to William Thomas Ince, 20, eldest son of the late Thomas H. Ince, motion-picture producer.

The ceremony, which was an informal affair, was performed by Rev. Charles Chapman of St. John's Episcopal Church at 11:30 a.m.

Both Mrs. Thomas H. Ince and Mrs. John Calvin Williams, the bride's mother, were among the relatives and friends present, as also was Thomas Ince II and John Calvin Williams II, who gave his sister in marriage.

BRIDE'S ATTENDANTS

Among the bride's attendants were Mrs. John Calvin Williams II, matron of honor; Miss Nancy Drexel, maid of honor; Miss Florence Lake and Mrs. Helen Bowen, bridesmaids. Evlyn Mills, 4 years of age, acted as ring bearer.

Arthur Lake, as best man, and Thomas Ince II, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and William Bakewell, as ushers, attended the groom.

Following the wedding ceremony the bride's mother was hostess to the bridal party at a wedding breakfast at the Beverly Hills Hotel, where the couple received the congratulations of their friends. They left immediately afterward for Del Monte, where they will remain until the time for their departure aboard the steamship Maloio for Honolulu.

On their return to Los Angeles, September 10, next, Mr. and Mrs. Ince will reside at Chateau Elysee until completion of their new home, now under construction, on San Ysidro Drive.

CONTEST WINNER

The former Miss Williams, who was selected as Miss United States at the 1927 national beauty contest at Galveston, Tex., began the acquisition of beauty laurels when she was chosen as Miss Kentucky at the age of 6. Prior to being crowned with her national title, she was Miss Miami and subsequently Miss Florida. She was chosen as queen of the Orange Show in 1928.

Her marriage to Mr. Ince is the culmination of a romance that began on their meeting in June a year ago, when they were returning from Catalina Island on board a steamer.

Mr. Ince plans to resume his study of surgery at the College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons this fall.

MOLINARI PRAISES BOWL

Famous Conductor Predicts Steel Shell Feature Will be Copied All Over World

Bernardino Molinari of Rome, Italy, engaged as first conductor of the eighth annual series of symphony concerts at Hollywood Bowl, who will make his first appearance at the opening night, arrived in Los Angeles Saturday night. He is the guest of Mrs. Erwin H. Furman, 1750 Sycamore avenue, Hollywood.

Signor Molinari and his wife, who will sing in one of the compositions to be directed by her husband on the opening night, were taken by Mrs. Furman and Raymond Brite, general manager of the Hollywood Bowl Association, to the great natural amphitheater, which will be the scene of his two weeks' engagement here.

The conductor viewed the new welded steel shell, which rises to a height of forty-four feet from the center of the stage to the crown of the arch, and was enthusiastic in his praise.

"This will be copied all over the world," he declared, when the advantages of the shell's construction had been explained.

Molinari will return to Rome immediately upon concluding his engagement here. He plans to sail from New York July 27. During the winter he will return to New York with Arturo Toscanini. He has been engaged to alternate with Toscanini in the conductorship of the New York Philharmonic during the January-February season.

NEGRO CAUSE ADVOCATED

Urban League Secretary Defends Colored Man's Industry in Church Address

If a savage from the African jungle can attain a degree of civilization in two years sufficient to build a successful radio set why should the negro be regarded as mentally inferior to his white brother? The question was asked by E. Kinckle Jones, executive secretary of the National Urban League, in the course of an address yesterday at the First Methodist Church.

The purpose of the league, he pointed out, is to promote social service among negroes and the movement has made tremendous strides since it was founded in 1911. It now has forty-three branches throughout the United States and the work is indorsed by many of the country's foremost men and women.

Referring again to the experiment of carrying civilization into the jungle the speaker said it was successfully undertaken by one of America's largest tire companies, which always had refused to employ negroes in any capacity.

EXPERIMENT TRIED

A personal appeal was made to Harvey Firestone, Jones said, to lift the boycott and give the negro a chance to prove his worth. As an experiment, the manufacturer agreed to employ two for a given period. A few months later, the number was increased to twenty-five and a recent poll, the speaker asserted, revealed that 700 negroes now are employed in the Firestone plant at Akron.

The tire magnate also was grimly surprised to learn that his trusted legal representative in Liberia is of the colored race. This discovery led to conducting a similar experiment with 30,000 native Africans and within two years they had become highly proficient at tasks for which they always had been regarded as unfit.

NEGROES OWN HOMES

Further proof that the negro is enterprising and worthy of more consideration, Jones said, lies in the fact that approximately one-fourth of the negroes in the United States own their homes and in civil service where racial barriers are not recognized, they have shown themselves capable in almost every line of endeavor.

Col. LeRoy T. Smith of the Better America Federation of California is vice-president of the Los Angeles branch of the league and Mrs. Catherine J. Barr is executive secretary. T. Arnold Hill of New York, director of the industrial relations department of the national league, was introduced at the meeting, and Dr. Albert Baumann acted as chairman. The program also included musical numbers by Mrs. Evelyn Turner Warren and Miss Nakia Portia McCullough.

Thirty feature-length, all-dialogue pictures, the majority with color sequences, will be completed during the next seven months. This will mark the busiest production season in the company's history, Manager William Sistrom said.

"Silent versions of the majority of these attractions also will be produced," Sistrom said.

This production program marks the observance of the pioneer company's silver anniversary. In addition to the thirty all-talking features, Pathe will produce fifty-two two-reel comedies, Pathe News, Pathe Sound News, Grantland Rice's Sportlight, Audio-Review, Topics of the Day and Aesop's Fables.

Included among the outstanding productions are "The Greenwich Village Follies," to be produced in color; George Gershwin's operetta, "Treasure Girl" and the "Big Shot," by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur.

Constance Bennett, daughter of Richard Bennett, will appear in three features—"Rich People," "Clothes" and "Pedigree."

Miss Harding, Boyd, Robert Armstrong and many of the other outstanding contract players on the Pathe lot will be seen in "War and Women," an American version of the drama of Bolshevik Russia, "Zoini I Shenahing."

BOYD IN EPIC

Another special, "The Painted Desert," a story of the Old West to be produced in color and dialogue, will have William Boyd as its star. This is planned as an epic picture of frontier days.

Robert Armstrong and Carol Lombard have completed "Big News." Gregory La Cava directed, with Frank Reicher directing the dialogue. "A Woman Afraid" is a mystery melodrama and will be under the direction of Spencer Bennett.

Robert Armstrong and James Gleason, the acting team which made history in the play, "Is Zat So?" will be cofeatured in "Oh Yeah!" from a Saturday Evening Post Story.

Alan Hale has completed "Sailors' Holiday." Fred Newmeyer directed this attraction, which has Sally Eilers as its leading woman.

PROBATION HINTED

Ex-Janitor Now in Jail on Fraud Charge to Face Judge Today

For the taking of money for the sale of chickens he did not have James D. Dunn, formerly a janitor in the General Hospital, now has served ninety days in the County Jail, and today is to appear before United States District Judge Henning for further consideration of his case.

After passing sentence upon the defendant, Judge Henning ordered that he be taken into court on three other counts of a similar nature; but intimated that Dunn will be given probation. It is also intimated that Dunn's attorney, David O. Taylor will be appointed as his probation officer.

GOLD-CLAIM CASE NEAR END

Effort Will be Made to Conclude Hearing This Week in San Gabriel Canyon Suit

Efforts will be made by both sides in the condemnation proceedings brought by the Los Angeles County Flood Control District against the San Gabriel Canyon Development Company, to condemn gold claims on the site of the proposed San Gabriel dam, to finish the trial before the end of this week. The hearing, before Superior Judge Stephens, has been going on for more than three weeks.

Testimony now is being offered by the district to prove that the amount of gold in the claims is not of a sufficient quantity to make mining commercially profitable. Witnesses for the company testified that with the use of dredges and modern machinery enough gold could be taken from the sands of the claims to make it a paying business.

The court is asked to set an equitable value on the claims. The county obtained permission to build a dam and reservoir in the canyon providing a settlement is made with the owners of the claims on the site.

FLY FOE TO FINISH FIGHT

Dr. Torrance Returning to Africa to Renew Drive Against Sleeping Sickness Insect

The man who discovered how to manhandle the mosquito and beat down the tsetse fly is going back to Africa to put the finishing touches on his work and no less a personage than Trader Horn is going with him.

Dr. Arthur Torrance of London, one of the most successful of the great army of medical men who have devoted their lives to fighting sleeping sickness and to bringing health and hygiene to the jungles of Africa, is resting here preparatory to starting his new campaign of research in Abyssinia in September.

Dr. Torrance's presence here became known when he went to the Lasco liner Calawali to bid a friend good-by. He readily admitted his identity and that Trader Horn and he are planning the expedition which is certain to gain world-wide interest.

FRIENDS OF LONG STANDING

"Trader and I are friends of long standing," said Dr. Torrance. "We met in Africa and became fast friends long before he became known through his writings. Now we are going back together—he to revisit friends and I to complete six months more of research work on African diseases."

Working under the auspices of the Royal Society of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene of London, Dr. Torrance's first travels took him into the Malay country, in campaigns against mosquito-carried fevers. It was here that the slogan "manhandling the mosquito" became attached to his name. Following this the Royal Society sent him to Borneo, where he again attained world fame for completing a census of lepers and effecting important advances in curing the dread disease.

In 1923 he worked in Cochin China and Siam, tabulating tropical fevers, and from 1924 until recently he has been back in Central Africa on the trail of the tsetse fly and introducing the new-found cure, "Bayer 205," for sleeping sickness.

PRAISES SAVAGES

"There is more enjoyment in a pungent stew in camp than in the finest menu of your most exclusive cafes," he said. "My friendly contact with the wildest and blackest of African people and their lasting devotion and gratitude for the work of ridding them of dread jungle disease cannot be excelled in sheer pleasure by anything civilization can offer."

The party will leave the west coast of the United States early in September and begin operations in Abyssinia the latter part of that month. It will require approximately six months, Dr. Torrance estimated yesterday.

Society Girl's Body Arrives From Abroad

Private funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 3 p.m. at Forest Lawn Memorial Park for Virginia Llewellyn, 22-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Edgar Llewellyn of 335 Muirfield Road, who died in Berlin on June 17, last. Accompanied by her parents and her sister, Dorothy, her body arrived here yesterday morning on the Los Angeles Limited of the Union Pacific and was taken to the undertaking establishment of Pierce Brothers, 720 West Washington street.

With her parents and her sister, Miss Llewellyn left early this year for a tour abroad. While in Germany she became seriously ill and was rushed to a hospital in Berlin, where she died within a few days. At her bedside, besides her parents and sister, were two uncles, Reese and William Llewellyn, who had been at Bad Nauheim when they were notified of their niece's illness.

News of Miss Llewellyn's death first was received here in a cable to her aunt, Mrs. John Milner of Berkeley Square. The cable added that the family would sail for home at once with the body on the steamship Republic.

Virginia Llewellyn was the elder of the two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. David Edgar Llewellyn. She was a graduate of the Marlborough School and had been prominent in all the activities of the younger set in this city and Pasadena.

HORSE NOT YET PASSE IN WARFARE

Gen. Moseley Declares Cavalry Still Vital in Military Tactics

Cavalry is still a vital arm in military strategy and tactics and will remain so for many years, in the opinion of Brig.-Gen. George Moseley, the United States Army's foremost cavalry expert, who sailed for a vacation in Honolulu this week-end aboard the Lasco liner Calawali.

BRIG.-GEN. GEO. MOSELEY

Gen. Moseley now commands all cavalry stationed along the Mexican border and is intimately acquainted with the desert and mountain terrain of Northern Mexico. During the World War he was a member of Gen. Pershing's staff at Chaumont, being in charge of "G-4," which directed all troop movements of the A.E.F. While in Honolulu he will be the guest of Maj.-Gen. Fox Conner, commanding general of the Hawaiian Department, who was on Gen. Pershing's staff as head of "G-3," which directed operations of the A.E.F.

"Cavalry is a most valuable arm if a nation can afford to keep it," said Gen. Moseley. "Most European nations today, as they did before the World War, have reduced their cavalry beyond their actual needs on account of poor financial conditions.

"Cavalry would have been of great value in the World War had it not been for the very unusual situation of opposing armies digging themselves into long trenches, a condition that is unlikely ever to follow again in warfare.

"The cavalry units of the United States Army today are of high tactical worth because we have expended great effort in developing maximum fire power from our units. We are motorizing our cavalry so that we can use small details at will and save our horseflesh for the vital effort that always comes after roads are ruined for motor traffic. Our cavalry today is also well trained in dismounted work with machine guns, hand grenades and as engineers. American cavalry, since the Civil War, has been highly trained in dismounted tactics."

Gen. Moseley, in addition to having been decorated with the rank of Commander of the Legion of Honor by France, holds the British Companion of the Bath; the Order of the Crown of both Italy and Belgium, and the American Distinguished Service Medal.

SAFETY SIGNALS SOUGHT

The Council has referred to the Finance Committee the request of the Board of Building and Safety Commissioners for the appropriation of $300 for the installation of safety stop flashers and blinkers at the intersection of Thirty-sixth street and Second avenue and the appropriation of $790 for the installation of warning flashers and blinkers at the intersection of Centinela and Culver boulevards.

PYLE HEARING RESUMES TODAY

Labor Commission to Get More Wage Complaints

Promoter Will be Asked Why He Failed to Pay Up

Auditor of Bunion Derby Needed in Cases

"Cash and Carry" Pyle, father of the American bunion derby, is scheduled today to learn just how much cash will be necessary to carry certain ex-employees of his over a lean period of nonemployment, pending settlement of their claims for back pay. Pyle is slated to appear before Deputy Labor Commissioner Richardson to resume explanations begun last Tuesday, as to why chorus girls, actors, road patrolmen, bally-hoo artists, canvas men, time-keepers and others employed by him in connection with his recently completed transcontinental foot race, were not paid.

Testimony of wage claimants at the last hearing brought out the assertion that actors and others employed by Pyle at the start of the race and road show in New York were dropped by the wayside in many States, several of them penniless. Charles Thompson, program man and bally-hoo artist for the Pyle tent show, testified that Pyle left him and his wife stranded in an Arizona desert town with 20 cents and a flat tire.

PROMISE OF PAY TOLD

Ernie Mack, of the team of Friedel and Mack, of "Hit the Deck" fame, to whom is owing $1600 back pay from Pyle, testified that Pyle's chorus girls and canvas men would have gone hungry along the route if he had not paid for their meals out of his own funds. Mack and his partner ceased working for Pyle at El Paso but were induced by Pyle to remain with the troupe until Los Angeles was reached on promise of getting their pay here. Mack told Commissioner Richardson at last Tuesday's hearing. Richardson indicated that, although the commission had jurisdiction only over that portion of each wage claim that was earned in California, the fact that Pyle invited Mack and his partner to come to California for their pay may extend that jurisdiction to cover their cases. This point is to be passed upon today.

AUDITOR'S PRESENCE NEEDED

Hope that Ted Shiverts, Pyle's auditor, whose failure to appear at the last hearing, Pyle explained, "leaves me up against it for he has all my books," would be present today with the Pyle ledgers, was expressed by claimants.

Several of the claims originally filed against Pyle in Los Angeles may not be heard because the claimants, it was said, have given up hope and have grasped opportunities to return to New York.

Attorney J. J. Wilson represented Pyle at the hearing last week, when Pyle was ordered to pay $69.26 to Elden Allen, vaudeville actor, whose claim was the only one definitely settled at that hearing. Although Allen's full claim was for $278, the commission could allow him only the one week's salary of $30, earned in California, and $39.26 expenses entailed by the claimant while waiting in Los Angeles for a settlement.

LARGA AVENUE WORK ORDINANCE ADOPTED
